The Latin name for sage, salvia, means “to heal". Although the effectiveness of Common Sage is open to debate, it has been recommended at one time or another for virtually every ailment. Modern evidence supports its effects as an anhidrotic, antibiotic, antifungal, astringent, antispasmodic, estrogenic, hypoglycemic, and tonic.[1] In a double blind, randomized and placebo-controlled trial, sage was found to be effective in the management of mild to moderate Alzheimer's disease.[2]

The strongest active constituents of Sage are within its essential oil, which contains cineole, borneol, and thujone. Sage leaf contains tannic acid, oleic acid, ursonic acid, ursolic acid, cornsole, cornsolic acid, fumaric acid, chlorogenic acid, caffeic acid, niacin, nicotinamide, flavones, flavonoid glycosides, and estrogenic substances.[1]

Caution is indicated when used in conjunction with central nervous system stimulants or depressants.[1] Sage is used as a nootropic for its acetylcholinesterase inhibitor properties.

Sage herb is greatly beneficial for its astringent, stimulant, nervine, diuretic, expectorant, memory boosting, anxiolytic, anti-inflammatory, antimicrobial, antioxidant effects. It will benefit the swellings, the cuts, sprain, mouth ulcers, sore throat, dyspepsia, abdominal troubles, menopausal symptoms and joints pain.
Topical Application Of Sage:

The concentrated decoction or cold infusion without lemon and sugar used as lotion to heal skin abrasions and ulcers. This lotion is a good natural hair coloring agent when used over the scalp like henna. It could be used along with other herbs like henna for coloring hair and for dandruff. Its internal use is also recommended in graying of hair.

The fresh leaves or the tender branches is used as tooth brush as margossa tree is used very commonly in Rural India as herbal toothbrush cum paste. It strengthens the gums and cleans the oral cavity and teeth. Herbal toothpowders contain this herb.

Dipping a cloth in its hot tea works like a compress. It can be applied to forehead to relieve tension headache. A compress applied to abdominal areas can help in cramps, flatulence and general intestinal and digestive discomfort. Sprains also respond to this compress. This hot compress can be used in itching and swelling after insect bites.

For the purpose of fomentation or poultice, the bags of its powder are used.

The oil is used preparations for joints pain creams or liniments.
Fumigation With Sage Herb:

The leaves are burned and the fume is used to cleanse the home or some building premises for negative energies. This might seem ridiculous but this concept is also found in Ayurveda. Regularly doing so really creates a powerful aura field of Pranic energy that keeps away negative energy and the microbes.

This property can be used to increase the Vastu energy or Feng Sui energy of the home. Pranic Healing Foundation of Philippines is working to prove such seemingly metaphysical workings.

Sage and cedar bundles can be purchased from some health stores for the purpose of fumigation.
Hot & Cold Properties Of Sage Herb:

Though Salvia officinalis is not mentioned in Ayurveda. It is offering the great example how we can use the natural properties of herbs holistically. Plus how the same herb can act in seemingly opposite conditions.

The warm or hot decoction or infusion acts as a diaphoretic herb. The hot infusion promotes the expulsion of wastes from the body like increased sweating or perspiration and facilitating menstrual bleeding. The hot infusion would be effective in Cold, Flu, Cough and viscid respiratory (bronchial) secretions. It will help in expectoration, sweating and excretion of toxins from the body.

The cold infusion acts in opposite manner as an astringent. It will stop the diarrhea, decrease the sweating and acts a refrigerant or coolant.
Sage Herb For Oral Cavity Disorders:

United States Pharmacopoeia has listed this herb. Its infusion is used as a gargle in sore throat and mouth ulcers. Relaxed throat, tonsils and ulcerated throat are relieved by its gargle. The astringent quality benefit the loose gums, bleeding gums and excessive salivation from mouth.

There is another version of stimulating gargle for throat conditions that uses both vinegar and water for preparing infusion.
Sage & Our Nerves:

Its herbal tea is very good in delirium during hyperpyrexia. The infusion or extract is good in excitement or hyperstimulation of nerves and excessive worried or anxious or aggressive conditions of mind.

Sage oil is a strong epileptiform convulsant (Ability to produce or convulsions seizures) like that of nutmeg and absinthe essential oils. Intoxication and giddiness follow if it is smelt for long time.

Its infusion boosts the memory and stimulates or alerts the senses. There is some warming sensation in body after taking tea.

It has a tonic action on nerves. It helps to remove headache due to nervousness.
Sage Herb For Digestive System:

As mentioned above it is a fantastic herb for teeth, gums and oral cavity.
*

It is used as a condiment and as stimulant of appetite in Dyspepsia.
*

Liver disorders, Typhoid fever, biliousness and hematemesis is relieved by this herb.

Sage Herb For Musculoskeletal Disorders:

It is used as a nervine in joints pain, paralytic disorders and weakness of motor power or lack of muscle power.

Sage For Lungs & Mucus Membrane:

Hemoptysis or hemorrhage from lungs is relieved by this herb. Besides it is useful in cold, cough, throat infection, laryngitis. Its dried leaves are used as herbal smoke to relieve Asthma.

Sage oil is used in the dose of 1 to 3 drops as a mucolytic and expectorant to expel the accumulated excessive mucus from respiratory tract.

Its aromatic property can help in lung disorders and sinusitis. Its leaves are crushed with fingers and put in boiling water in a wide pan. The vapors are inhaled to get its benefits. Alternatively Strained tea could be used in vaporizer for inhalation.
Sage Herb For Infections:

It is effective in Measles, Quinsy and cold sweats in Tuberculosis.
Sage Herb For Women:

It is used as emmenagogue i.e. for facilitating the menstrual bleeding when the hot infusion is taken. Cold tea is used to stop night sweats during the menopausal years. It is greatly useful for menopausal symptoms like hot flushes, insomnia, nocturnal sweating, dizziness, headaches and palpitations. These effects suggest that it might have some estrogenic biochemicals.

Cold tea could be used during the weaning period when a mother want to stop feeding the child and would be starting to introduce other food articles to the baby.

Better to avoid it during pregnancy. Don't take cold tea during the nursing period otherwise it can interfere with secretion of milk. It could be used during the postpartum period. It will help in the discharge of lochia quickly.
Sage Herb For Urinary Disorders:

It is used for kidney related disorders like Renal calculi, Urinary tract infections. It acts like a diuretic.

The Herbal Tea Of Sage Herb:

It is the hot infusion for internal consumption. It is made by pouring 1 pint of boiling water on 1 OZ. of dried leaves.

The little bit old fashioned way of preparing herbal tea is somewhat different. The fragrance and taste is great and it has more of medicinal value as it is boiled for some time. Half ounce of Salvia leaves, 1 OZ. of sugar, either 1 lemon juice or 1/4 grated rind or lime juice are added to 1 quart of water and boiled for 30 minutes. Lo! The herbal tea is ready.

This pleasant drink is used as refrigerant or coolant in fever, and as purifier of blood.

Sage As Memory Booster:

Research At Newcastle & Northumbria University was conducted on 44 persons. They were tested for Word Recall. The persons that used it got better scores.

As A Potential Aid In Alzheimer's Disease:

The deficiency of neurochemicals that are responsible for the pathogenesis of Alzheimer's disease are boosted by the use of this herb. More research is going on in this regard. There might be more potential approval of this herb in this regard.

Culinary Recipes Of Sage:

It is used as condiment and for flavoring the food. There are many recipes but they are beyond the present scope for being described on this page.

It should be used along with foods that are heavy to digest, are fat or protein rich like pork, liver, sausages, cheese etc. Most of us remember it for the stuffing the Turkey on Thanksgiving Day.

Medicinal Recipes Of Sage Herb:

There are some medicinal recipes like the gargle and the lotions.

SANGUINARIA CANADENSIS
(SANGUINARIA)

Is a right-sided remedy pre-eminently, and affects chiefly the mucous membranes, especially of the respiratory tract. It has marked vaso-motor disturbances, as seen in the circumscribed redness of the cheeks, flashes of heat, determination of blood to head and chest, distention of temporal veins, burning in palms and soles, and has been found very applicable to climacteric disorders. Burning sensations, like from hot water. Influenzal coughs. Phthisis. Sudden stopping of catarrh of respiratory tract followed by diarrh°a. Burning in various parts is characteristic.

Head.--Worse right side, sun headache. Periodical sick headache; pain begins in occiput, spreads upwards, and settles over eyes, especially right. Veins and temples are distended. Pain better lying down and sleep. Headaches return at climacteric; every seventh day (Sulph; Sabad). Pain in small spot over upper left parietal bone. Burning in eyes. Pain in the back of head "like a flash of lightning".

Face.--Flushed. Neuralgia; pain extends in all directions from upper jaw. Redness and burning of cheeks. Hectic flush. Fullness and tenderness behind angle of jaws.

Nose.--Hay-fever. OzΦna, with profuse, offensive yellowish discharges. Nasal polypi. Coryza, followed by diarrh°a. Chronic rhinitis; membrane dry and congested.

Ears.--Burning in ears. Earache with headache. Humming and roaring. Aural polypus.

Throat.--Swollen; worse, right side. Dry and constricted. Ulceration of mouth and fauces, with dry, burning sensation Tongue white; feels scalded. Tonsillitis.

Stomach.--Aversion to butter. Craving for piquant things. Unquenchable thirst. Burning, vomiting. Nausea, with salivation. Sinking, faint all-gone feeling (Phos; Sep). Spitting up of bile; gastro-duodenal catarrh.

Abdomen.--Diarrh°a as coryza improves. Pain over region of liver. Diarrh°a; bilious, liquid, gushing stool (Nat sulph; Lycop). Cancer of rectum.

Female.--Leucorrh°a fetid, corrosive. Menses offensive, profuse. Soreness of breasts. Uterine polypi. Before, menses, itching of axillΦ. Climacteric disorders.

Respiratory.--■dema of larynx. Trachea sore. Heat and tension behind the sternum. Aphonia. Cough of gastric origin; relieved by eructation. Cough, with burning pain in chest; worse, right side. Sputum tough, rust-colored, offensive, almost impossible to raise. Spasmodic cough after influenza and after whooping-cough. Cough returns with every fresh cold. Tickling behind sternum, causes a constant hacking cough; worse at night on lying down. Must sit up in bed. Burning soreness in right chest, through to right shoulder. Severe soreness under right nipple. HΦmoptysis from suppressed menses. Severe dyspn°a and constriction of chest. Offensive breath and purulent expectoration. Burning in chest as of hot steam from chest to abdomen. Fibroid phthisis. Pneumonia; better, lying on back. Asthma with stomach disorders (Nux). Valvular disease with lung development, phosphates in urine and loss of flesh. Sudden stoppage of catarrh of air passages brings on diarrh°a.

Extremities.--Rheumatism of right shoulder, left hip-joint and nape of neck. Burning in soles and palms. Rheumatic pains in places least covered by flesh; not in joints soles of feet burn. Right-side neuritis; better touching the part.

Skin.--Antidotes: Rhus poisoning. Red, blotchy eruptions; worse in spring. Burning and itching; worse by heat. Acne, with scanty menses. Circumscribed red spots over malar bones.

Modalities.--Worse, sweets, right side, motion, touch. Better, acids, sleep, darkness.

Relationship.--Complementary: Tart em.

Compare: Justicia (bronchial catarrh, coryza, hoarseness; oversensitive). Digitalis (Migraine). Bell; Iris; Melil; Lach; Ferr; Op.

Dose.--Tincture in headaches; sixth potency in rheumatism.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

SARCOLACTICUM ACIDUM (SARCOLACTIC ACID)

Is apparently formed in muscle tissue during the stage of muscle exhaustion. Differs from ordinary Lactic acid in its relation to polarized light. It represents a much broader and more profoundly acting drug and its pathogenesis is quite dissimilar from the normal acid. Proved by Wm. B. Griggs, M. D, who found it of great value in the most violent form of Epidemic influenza, especially with violent and retching and greatest prostration, when Arsenic had failed. Spinal neurasthenia, muscular weakness, dyspn°a with myocardial weakness.

General Symptoms.--Tired feeling with muscular prostration, worse any exertion. Sore feeling all over, worse in afternoon. Restless at night. Difficulty in getting to sleep. Tired feeling in morning on getting up.

Throat.--Constriction in pharynx. Sore throat with tightness in naso-pharynx. Tickling in throat.

Stomach.--Nausea. Uncontrollable vomiting even of water followed by extreme weakness.

Back and Extremities.--Tired feeling in back and neck and shoulders. Paralytic weakness. Wrist tires easily from writing. Extreme weakness from climbing stairs. Stiffness of thigh and calves. Arms feel as if no strength in them. Cramp in the calves.

Dose.--Sixth to 30th potency. The 15x most marked action (Griggs).

Scleranthus...

...is the remedy for people who find it difficult to make up their minds which option of two or more they ought to choose. The Scleranthus indecision commonly affects the small decisions of life as much as the big ones: 'should I marry Joe or Peter?' and 'should I buy a red notebook or a blue one?' are both Scleranthus states.

Sometimes the chronic uncertainty of the Scleranthus person manifests itself in other ways. There may be mood swings and even motion sickness: although these symptoms are not in themselves infallible guides to Scleranthus, but only signs that this is a remedy to consider. In any case, the remedy is given to help the person to act more decisively and know his or her own mind.

Dr Bach's description
Those who suffer much from being unable to decide between two things, first one seeming right then the other. They are usually quiet people, and bear their difficulty alone, as they are not inclined to discuss it with others.

SECALE CORNUTUM

| SECALE CORNUTUM | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | September 28 2006 |

Secale Cornutum
Passive hæmorrhage, everything open and loose, no action, in thin, scrawny, cachectic women. Great coldness (objective) of the surface, yet the patient cannot bear to be covered.
Numbness, crawling and paralysis; formication as of mice creeping there, all parts of body.
Secale cornutum is a remedy capable of great good, but is perhaps, as much misused as Quinine. Its power to contract the uterus is undoubted, and for this reason it is often given when other remedies would do better. It has power to control hæmorrhages, that few other remedies, if any, can surpass. It is said to do this by contracting the capillaries. But we must remember that other remedies control hæmorrhages, and whether they do it by contracting the capillaries, by their action upon the blood itself or other specific action, makes no difference, so long as they control it. Some physicians are always giving Ergot in post partum hæmorrhages on this contracted theory, without ever thinking of anything else. We must have the keynote symptom, of course, but it must harmonize with the rest of the case. Secale has "burning of all parts of the body, as if sparks were falling on them." It also has numbness, crawling and paralysis of the extremities. This is due to its action on the spinal chord. In addition to the coldness of the skin already noticed, we must state that the skin looks dry, wrinkled and is insensible often, or there may be much formication under, as if mice were creeping there.

Here is one symptom of Secale that is of inestimable value: "Great coldness (objective) of the surface yet the patient cannot bear to be covered." This is oftenest found in cholera and cholera infantum; but it is also found in senile gangrene.

The feet and toes may be objectively as cold as an iron wedge, but the patient is distressed beyond endurance by having them covered. One marked case of this kind - All the toes were attacked with dry gangrene. A few doses of Secale (high) afforded great relief, and checked the progress of the disease for a long time.

Camphora has the same symptom in a marked degree in choleraic disease. Camphora seems to be most efficacious for the first stage or early collapse in the course of the disease, before the discharges have become offensive, putrid or dark colored. Secale has burning in the feet (Sulphur) and cramps in the calves (Sulphur).

If, however, we should prescribe on this alone it would make no difference which we prescribed, but they are very unlike in their entirety. Sulphur does not have the degree of collapse of Secale, nor the icy coldness of surface with subjective burning. So we see the folly of one symptom prescribing after all.

The best provers of Secale, those who are most susceptible to its action, are scrawny people, and they are the ones who will most likely need it as their curative remedy.

Aspect: Of course, it is not necessarily contra-indicated in fat people. Certain constitutions are mentioned in connection with a remedy as being suited to it, but it must not be inferred that no action will result in others when the symptoms agree. Scrawny people are especially related to Secale.

Emaciated, withered, wrinkled, unhealthy appearance of the skin; purplish, bluish skin, general or in spots; purplish I spots on withered skin, especially where the circulation is feeble as on the back of the hands and feet and on the tibia.

These parts become numb, tingle and wither. The extremities prickle, burn, and tingle; creeping and crawling, as of insects under the skin, as if between the skin and the flesh; numb, dead, wooden sensation in the fingers and especially in the toes.

The toes become black, gangrenous. A senile withering, such as is found in feeble old people; the blood-vessels close up; no blood goes to the toes and they become numb and black, devoid of sensation. Hence, Secale improves the circulation of the aged and postpones senile gangrene.

Burning: is a feature of this remedy; the skin burns; the extremities burn, sensation of burning when the parts feel cold to the touch and really are cold, a sensation of heat with coldness.

Burning, especially of internal parts. Dryness with burning; burning in the stomach and bowels; dryness and burning in the mouth and throat, the nose and air passages; burning in the lungs.

This remedy produces ulceration even to sloughing. Old ulcers take on a strange, withered appearance; dryness with no, granulations; a shiny, blackish aspect and all at once blackish granulations shoot out, indolent, and finally forming a black sphacelus which slowly separates; the part is dry; there is no discharge except now and then a little bleeding of black blood.

Oozing of black, liquid blood, oozing when there is no inflammation; nose-bleed of dark, venous, offensive, fluid blood, bleeding from the throat, lungs, bladder, and rectum, of dark blood; urine like ink.

Women: Prolonged uterine haemorrhage so that one menstrual nisus runs into another; withered subjects; considerable flow on the first day, fluid, and blackish; this goes on for a couple of weeks and then a dark watery flow comes on which lasts until the next period.

Then comes the thick, black, fluid, horribly offensive flow again. Such a state is found in the woman who has taken ergot to produce abortion, or in sensitive women who have been dosed with it to facilitate delivery. Of course, if the woman is not sensitive you will not get the lingering provings,

Some women are so insane that though they die they will get rid of their offspring. On all hands women say,

"I have had no health since I aborted."

The constitution, temperament and age of the patient are of great importance, for it is particularly adapted to feeble, thin, scrawny, cachectic women of lax muscular fibre, subject to passive hæmorrhages from all outlets of the body; also old, decrepit persons.

Secale is not often indicated in active post-partum hæmorrhages. If there is a tendency to passive hæmorrhage, everything open and loose, no action, in thin, scrawny, cachectic women (muscles flabby), there is no remedy like it, and the potencies are much better than the tincture or wine of Ergot in massive doses. This is also true in menorrhagias and metrorrhagias unconnected with pregnancy. The blood is dark, liquid and flowing worse on the slightest motion.

This remedy (Secale) is often abused on account of its power to produce muscular contractions of the womb. Now in regard to this as with hæmorrhages, it is capable of doing all that it ought to be called upon to do, in the potencies.

Cowperthwaite says: "To give it in parturition to hasten delivery, as is the practice of the old school, is simply inexcusable." on the other hand, Dr. H. N. Guernsey, "that it is useful when labor pains are weak, suppressed or distressing, in weak, cachectic women; in the 200th dilution," and have verified it beyond question.

The worst state of health is produced by ergot; it establishes a miasm as deep as psora itself. The duke to destroy the offspring is an engraftment on psora and by ergot she takes on a miasm as dangerous as sycosis or syphilis. They have Secale symptoms, sequelae, and their psoric symptoms are suppressed, held down, just as syphilis holds down psoric manifestations; only by covering the Secale miasm and getting at the psora can we help the patient.

They have placed themselves beyond the help of the physician and the ergot will shorten their lives many years unless they are fortunate enough to have careful prescribing continuously while they live.

Modalities: The general constitutional state is aggravated from heat; there are only a few exceptions to this.

Wants cold though the limbs are cold as ice, wants to be uncovered, wants the windows open; a patient with hemorrhages wants the covers off though the room is cold. A patient with ulcers wants to be uncovered; in inflammatory condition of the stomach and bowels, wants the abdomen uncovered.

At times there is a lingering state of heat of the skin and the patient wants to be covered up; there are also sharp, stinging neuralgic pains, which burn like fire and cut like a knife and are relieved by the application of beat; headache worse in cold air. But the general state is ameliorated from uncovering, in a cold room, and from cold air blowing on the patient.

Violent inflammation of any part of the body; gangrenous pneumonia; gastritis; peritonitis; inflammation of the uterus and ovaries. In inflammatory conditions it competes with Ars.

The symptoms are so nearly alike in both that it is difficult to differentiate; both have violently distended abdomen; tympanites; burning like coals of fire; violent thirst; extreme sensitiveness and tenderness to touch, so that motion or jar is unbearable; vomiting of blood; expulsion of blood-clots; horrible, offensive, bloody discharge from the bowels; but they are different in the generals. Ars. wants to be covered up, to be kept warm, to have hot applications, either wet or dry, while Secale wants to be uncovered, wants the cold air.

Convulsions: of single parts or of the whole muscular system; opisthotonos; cramps in the calves, thighs, soles of the feet, and hands, hysterical contractures, a hysterical diathesis.

Convulsions begin in the face. Active manias with great excitement; exposes her body and tears at the genitals; puts her finger in the vagina and scratches until the lips bleed; all idea of modesty lost.

The spasms, nervous, and mental symptoms are worse while she is flowing, so that a puerperal convulsion comes on in the midst of a hemorrhage.

From the hemorrhagic tendency and the ability to destroy the red blood corpuscle, there is anemia. The face looks like dried beef, wrinkled, shrivelled, scrawny, as if it had not been washed; as if grey dirt had dried on the skin, and this especially on the extremities a dirty, grey appearance.

Catarrhal affections of all mucus membranes; they are dry and bleed; blood oozes from the catarrhal surfaces, liquid, black, and offensive, coagulating slowly or not at all.

"Nosebleed, blood dark, runs continually, with great prostration, small thread-like pulse; in old people or drunkards; of young women; from debility."

Those poisoned by ergot become victims of opacity of the lens as in senile debility; cataract of old persons.

The withered scrawny person with tendency to ulcerations, unhealthy skin and aggravation from heat, is striking in both acute and chronic states.

Chronic diarrhoea exhaustive, watery discharges, cholera. It is related to Camphor, Scrawny people take cholera, skin cold and blue; better from cold. Violent and continued thirst.

Diarrhoea and hemorrhages are likely to come together; diarrhoea of bloody water or dark liquid blood.

Large doses produce such contractures of the uterus that its contents are expelled and an exhausting hemorrhage follows; expulsion of large clots and in the early stages mixed with some red blood, but the most striking feature is liquid, black discharge.

"Asiatic cholera with collapse, sunken, distorted face, particularly the mouth, crawling sensation as of ants."

Paretic condition; paralysis of lower extremities; of one side; of one arm or one leg; paralysis of the upper extremities with tingling, numbness, and prickling. Numbness and burning down the whole length of the spine; general emaciation or only of diseased part.

Eruptions, abscesses, boils carbuncles; green pus discharged; a green, purplish appearance; boils small with green contents, mature and heal slowly.

Establishes sterility; so weak is the uterus that it can never hold the foetus, hence the value in sterility and repeated abortions.

Dwindling of the mammae. Absence of milk after confinement.

"Thin, scrawny children with shrivelled skin, spasmodic twitchings, sudden cries, feverishness."

Stomach.--Sour eructations; nausea.

Throat.--Dry mouth, throat, and fauces. Burning in pharynx, raw feeling in naso-pharynx, must swallow, though painful.

Abdomen.--Pain around umbilicus; spreads all over abdomen; better, stool. Thin, watery stool, intermingled with hard lumps of feces (Ant crud). Straining at stool; thin, dark, bloody, with tenesmus.

Urinary.--Scanty, high-colored, bloody, with much mucus and tenesmus. Great heat and constant urging. Nephritis. Irritable bladder of children, with headache. Renal colic (Pareira; Ocim; Berb).

Male.--Lascivious dreams, with involuntary emissions. Prostate enlarged. Dull, heavy pain in spermatic cord, extending to testicles.

Female.--Menses retarded, suppressed. Functional amenorrh°a of young girls with backache. Before menses, inflammatory conditions of throat, chest, and bladder. After menstruation commences, these improve. AnΦmic dysmenorrh°a with urinary disturbances. Premature and too profuse menses (Calc; Erig).

Respiratory.--Acute inflammatory conditions of upper respiratory tract. Hoarseness. Cough loose, with labored inspiration. Chest sore and raw. Dyspn°a on ascending (Calc). Dry teasing cough, stitching chest pains.

Sleep.--Great drowsiness, with unpleasant dreams. Nervousness and sleeplessness.

Relationship.--Compare: Senecio JacobΦa (cerebro-spinal irritation, rigid muscles, chiefly of neck and shoulders; also, in cancer); Aletris; Caulop; Sep.

Dose.--Tincture, to third potency. Senecin, first trituration.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

SENEGA
Snakewort

Catarrhal symptoms, especially of the respiratory tract, and distinct eye symptoms of a paralytic type, are most characteristic. Circumscribed spots in chest left after inflammations.

Mind.--Suddenly remembers unimportant regions which he saw long ago. Inclined to quarrel.

Head.--Dullness, with pressure and weakness of eyes. Pain in temples. Bursting pain in forehead.

Eyes.--Hyperphoria, better by bending head backwards. Acts on the rectus superior. Blepharitis; lids dry and crusty (Graph). Dryness, with sensation as if too large for orbits. Starting.

Lachrymation. Flickering; must wipe eyes frequently. Objects look shaded. Muscular asthenopia (Caust). Double vision; better only by bending head backward. Opacities of the vitreous humor. Promotes absorption of fragments of lens, after operation.

Nose.--Dry. Coryza; much watery mucus and sneezing. Nostrils feel peppery.

Face.--Paralysis of left side of face. Heat in face. Burning vesicles in corners of mouth and lips.

Throat.--Catarrhal inflammation of throat and fauces, with scraping hoarseness. Burning and rawness. Sensation as if membrane had been abraded.

Respiratory.--Hoarseness. Hurts to talk. Bursting pain in back on coughing. Catarrh of larynx. Loss of voice. Hacking cough. Thorax feels too narrow. Cough often ends in a sneeze. Rattling in chest (Tart emet). Chest oppressed on ascending. Bronchial catarrh, with sore chest walls; much mucus; sensation of oppression and weight of chest. Difficult raising of tough, profuse mucus, in the aged. Asthenic bronchitis of old people with chronic interstitial nephritis or chronic emphysema. Old asthmatics with congestive attacks. Exudations in Pleura. Hydrothorax (Merc sulph). Pressure on chest as though lungs were forced back to spine. Voice unsteady, vocal cords partially paralyzed.

Urinary.--Greatly diminished; loaded with shreds and mucus; scalding before and after urinating. Back, bursting distending pain in kidney region.

Modalities.--Worse, walking in open air, during rest. Better, from sweat; bending head backwards.

Relationship.--Compare: Caust; Phos; Saponin; Ammon; Calc; Nepeta cataria-Catnip (to break up a cold; infantile colic: hysteria).

Dose.--Tincture, to thirtieth potency.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

SEPIA OFFICINALIS
Inky Juice of Cuttlefish
(SEPIA)

Acts specially on the portal system, with venous congestion. Stasis and thereby ptosis of viscera and weariness and misery. Weakness, yellow complexion, bearing-down sensation, especially in women, upon whose organism it has most pronounced effect. Pains extend down to back, chills easily. Tendency to abortion. Hot flashes at menopause with weakness and perspiration. Upward tendency of its symptoms. Easy fainting. "Ball" sensation in inner parts. Sepia acts best on brunettes. All pains are from below up. One of the most important uterine remedies. Tubercular patients with chronic hepatic troubles and uterine reflexes. Feels cold even in warm room. Pulsating headache in cerebellum.

Mind.--Indifferent to those loved best. Averse to occupation, to family. Irritable; easily offended. Dreads to be alone. Very sad. Weeps when telling symptoms. Miserly. Anxious toward evening; indolent.

Head.--Vertigo, with sensation of something rolling round in head. Prodromal symptoms of apoplexy. Stinging pain from within outward and upward mostly left, or in forehead, with nausea, vomiting; worse indoors and when lying on painful side. Jerking of head backwards and forwards. Coldness of vertex. Headache in terrible shocks at menstrual nisus, with scanty flow. Hair falls out. Open fontanelles. Roots of hair sensitive. Pimples on forehead near hair.

Nose.--Thick, greenish discharge; thick plugs and crusts. Yellowish saddle across nose. Atrophic catarrh with greenish crusts from anterior nose and pain at root of nose. Chronic nasal catarrh, especially post-nasal, dropping of heavy, lumpy discharges; must be hawked through the mouth.

Eyes.--Muscular asthenopia; black spots in the field of vision; asthenic inflammations, and in connection with uterine trouble. Aggravation of eye troubles morning and evening. Tarsal tumors. Ptosis, ciliary irritation. Venous congestion of the fundus.

Ears.--Herpes behind ears on nape of neck. Pain as if from subcutaneous ulceration. Swelling and eruption of external ear.

Face.--Yellow blotches; pale or sallow; yellow about mouth. Rosacea; saddle-like brownish distribution on nose and cheeks.

Mouth.--Tongue white. Taste salty, putrid. Tongue foul, but clears during menses. Swelling and cracking of lower lip. Pain in teeth from 6 pm till midnight; worse on lying.

Stomach.--Feeling of goneness; not relieved by eating (Carb an). Nausea at smell or sight of food. Nausea worse lying on side. Tobacco dyspepsia. Everything tastes too salty (Carbo beg; Chin). Band of pain about four inches wide encircling hypochondria. Nausea in morning before eating. Disposition to vomit after eating. Burning in pit of stomach. Longing for vinegar, acids, and pickles. Worse, after milk, especially when boiled. Acid dyspepsia with bloated abdomen, sour eructations. Loathes fat.

Abdomen.--Flatulent, with headache. Liver sore and painful; relieved by lying on right side. Many brown spots on abdomen. Feeling of relaxation and bearing-down in abdomen.

Rectum.--Bleeding at stool and fullness of rectum. Constipation; large, hard stools; feeling of a ball in rectum, cannot strain; with great tenesmus and pains shooting upward. Dark-brown, round balls glued together with mucus. Soft stool, difficult. Prolapsus ani (Pod). Almost constant oozing from anus. Infantile diarrhœa, worse from boiled milk, and rapid exhaustion. Pains shoot up in rectum and vagina.

Urinary.--Red, adhesive, sand in urine. Involuntary urination, during first sleep. Chronic cystitis, slow micturition, with bearing-down sensation above pubis.

Male.--Organs cold. Offensive perspiration. Gleet; discharge from urethra only during night; no pain. Condylomata surround head of penis. Complaints from coition.

Female.--Pelvic organs relaxed. Bearing-down sensation as if everything would escape through vulva (Bell; Kreoso; Lac c; Lil t; Nat c; Pod); must cross limbs to prevent protrusion, or press against vulva. Leucorrhœa yellow, greenish; with much itching. Menses Too late and scanty, irregular; early and profuse; sharp clutching pains. Violent stitches upward in the vagina, from uterus to umbilicus. Prolapse of uterus and vagina. Morning sickness. Vagina painful, especially on coition.

Respiratory.--Dry, fatiguing cough, apparently coming from stomach. Rotten-egg taste with coughing. Oppression of chest morning and evening. Dyspnœa; worse, after sleep; better, rapid motion. Cough in morning, with profuse expectoration, tasting salty (Phos; Ambr). Hypostatic pleuritis. Whooping-cough that drags on. Cough excited by tickling in larynx or chest.

Heart.--Violent, intermittent palpitation. Beating in all arteries. Tremulous feeling with flushes.

Back.--Weakness in small of back. Pains extend into back. Coldness between shoulders.

Extremities.--Lower extremities lame and stiff, tension as if too short. Heaviness and bruised feeling. Restleness in all limbs, twitching and jerkings night and day. Pain in heel. Coldness of legs and feet.

Fever.--Frequent flushes of heat; sweat from least motion. General lack of warmth of body. Feet cold and wet. Shivering, with thirst; worse, towards evening.

Skin.--Herpes circinatus in isolated spots. Itching; not relieved by scratching; worse in bends of elbows and knees. Chloasma; herpetic eruption on lips, about mouth and nose. Ringworm-like eruption every spring. Urticaria on going in open air; better in warm room. Hyperidrosis and bromidrosis. Sweat on feet, worse on toes; intolerable odor. Lentigo in young women. Ichthyosis with offensive odor of skin.

Modalities.--Worse, forenoons and evenings; washing, laundry-work, dampness, left side, after sweat; cold air, before thunder-storm. Better, by exercise, pressure, warmth of bed, hot applications, drawing limbs up, cold bathing, after sleep.

Relationship.--Complementary: Nat mur; Phosph. Nux intensifies action. Guaiacum often beneficial after Sepia.

Inimical: Lach; Puls.

Compare: Lit; Murex; Silica; Sulph; Asperula-Nacent oxygen. Distilled water charged with the gas--(leucorrhœa of young girls and uterine catarrh); Ozonum (sacral pain; tired feeling through pelvic viscera and perineum); Dictamnus--Burning Bush--(Soothes labor pains); (metrorrhagia, leucorrhœa, and constipation; also somnambulism). Lapathum (Leucorrhœa with constriction and expulsive effort through womb and pain in kidneys).

Dose.--Twelfth, 30th and 200th potency. Should not be used too low or be repeated too frequently. On the other hand Dr. Jousset's unique experience is that is should be continued for some time in strong doses. 1x twice a day.

Sepia
(The cleaning lady)

She is physically& financially weak or also malnourished. She keeps on working, because she has no other choice. She can’t survive without the money she is earning so she is doing the work which she thinks is menial. When she sees others have better jobs and work in better conditions she feels very much. Another day starts with another misery. She has so much to do she does not know which one to start. She feels her family is nothing but burden. She keeps on feeding her family but does not love. She has no love in her heart. She does not want to wake up in the morning but she gets up against her desire.

She has no interest in anything, music, neighborhood, her family etc. No sex desire. Sex with the spouse seems like rape against her wish. She feels sick after sex. She keeps on working quietly and slowly.

That’s why Sepia ladies have Uterine Prolapses. She even sees dreams of rape. She does not want her husband around her and also she can’t stay alone.

1. Thinks that she is poor
2. Aversion to business (Indolent)
3. Fears her position in the society

4. Undertakes things opposed to her intentions
5. Does not want to wake up in the morning.
6. Anxiety in the morning (She is miserable)
7. Desires death
8. Thinks that she is unfortunate.
9. Hopeless
10. She thinks her ailments will kill her slowly and miserably.
11. Aversion to opposite sex.

Doctor, is this life. Death is better then this. I want to die but I can’t even afford to die.

| More Sepia Constituion/Personality | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 22 2006 |

Sepia is the ink from a squid. The squid usually lives alone, it is an independent individual. In case of fear or danger they surround themselves with a hiding cloud of dark ink.

When we project this image on human beings we find that the homoeopathic Sepia suits people who need (more) personal space around them, who cherish their independence, and who surround themselves with a dark emotional cloud of negative temper in case they don't get it. Sepia especially turns out to be a remedy for women. There are two types of Sepia women: one is the independent and ambitious career minded woman, and the other one is the mother who feels that the responsibilities for her family ask so much that there is no time left for herself. Women who need Sepia can also be a combination of both types.

The best known Sepia picture is that of the overworked housewife. She fights an inner battle between the duties and responsibilities of being a good mother and housewife on one hand, and living her own private life on the other hand. Sepia's are responsible persons who find that having a family is a hard and time-consuming job that hardly leaves time for anything else. And that's difficult since Sepia's like to do things on their own. This conflict is the psychological reason for their exhaustion. The physical reason for their exhaustion is a slow blood circulation, especially in the belly. This results in a weak sex-drive, weakness of the sexual organs, prolaps of the vagina and womb, all kinds of menstruation problems, PMS, morning sickness during pregnancy, postnatal depression, miscarriages, vaginal infections and an irregular bloodcirculation in menopause (flushes of heat). So Sepia is a great remedy in women's complaints. Other symptoms are a slow digestion, urinary problems, constipation, back-pain, headaches and allergies. It is understandable that a slow and irregular bloodcirculation leads to easily fainting, haemorrhoids and varicose veins. Knowing this you understand what makes Sepia characters feel better: strong physical exertion, like gardening or dancing, because that speeds up the body functions. Mentally they are irritable, dull and forgetful. Their tired mind can be completely empty, unable to think anylonger. Emotionally their temper matches the dark ink-clouds of the squid: they can be very negative, complaining, grumbling, scolding, argueing, cold and indifferent, jealous or depressed. They love their children and partner, but their exhaustion makes them disagreeable. There are also quiet and reserved Sepia's hiding in a meaningful speechless dark cloud.

The second type Sepia woman is that of the career woman, business woman. She leads her own life and enjoys that. She may have a LAT-relationship because that leaves time enough to be alone. Or she is happy without a partner. It can be a woman who chooses not to have children. She is ambitious and needs intellectual challenges. She is organized, efficient, strong, powerful, and she likes sporting. Physically she can have the same problems as the first type Sepia woman.

Both types Sepia women - or a combination of them - may look hard or uninterested, but inside they are vulnerable. They prefer to do things their way and dislike opposition. When they feel bad or hurt they want to be alone; consolation is out of the question. They are often too tired for company. Sepia's fear poverty and can be quite avaricious.

They look yellowish due to a slow working liver and they sweat easily. Milk and fat food cause indigestion. They can constantly feel hungry; in some cases eating ameliorates. In other cases seeing or smelling food causes nausea. Sepia's like stimulating food, like spicy, sour or bitter food.

Sepia children and Sepia men have a yellow skin. They are dissatisfied, critical, sarcastic, reserved, closed, indifferent, negative, possessive, avaricious, lazy, tired and constipated. They change in a positive way when physical action is required.

Sepia's love thunderstorms! They feel worse by change of weather, pregnancy and menstruation, warm rooms, company, coldness, milk and starting movements. They feel better by dancing, strong exertion, being outdoors, warmth, cold drinks.

What is Serum Anguillae

Blood of the fresh water eel (fish). People who eat this fish always discard the blood because it damages the kidneys in various ways.

Once I needed this medicine for a patient but was unable to find it. I remembered that at a Chinese store I saw this live fish for sale. I obtained a drop of its blood and made the medicine.

Caution: Only fresh water eel, no salt water eel.

| SERUM ANGUILLAE | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 8 2006 |

SERUM ANGUILLAE
Eel Serum
(SERUM ANGUILLAR ICHTHYOTOXIN)

The serum of the eel has a toxic action on the blood, rapidly destroying its globules. The presence of albumin and renal elements in the urine, the hemoglobinuria, the prolonged anuria (24 and 26 hours), together with the results of the autopsy, plainly demonstrate its elective action on the kidneys. Secondarily, the liver and the heart are affected, and the alterations observed are those usually present in infectious diseases.

From all these facts it is easy to infer, a priori, the therapeutical indications of the serum of the eel. Whenever the kidney becomes acutely affected, either from cold or infection or intoxication, and the attack is characterized by oliguria, anuria and albuminuria, we will find the eel's serum eminently efficacious to re-establish diuresis, and in rapidly arresting albuminuria. When during the course of heart-disease, the kidney, previously working well, should suddenly become affected and its function inhibited; and when besides we observe cardiac irregularities and a marked state of asystolia, we may yet expect good results from this serum. But to determine here the choice of this remedy is not an easy matter. While digitalis presents in its indications, the well-known symptomatic trilogy: arterial hypertension oliguria and œdema; the serum of the eel seems better adapted to cases of hypertension and oliguria, without œdema. We should bear in mind that the elective action of the eel's serum is on the kidney, and I believe we can well assert that if digitalis is a cardiac, the eel's serum is a renal remedy. So far, at least, the clinical observations published seem to confirm this distinction. The serum of the eel has given very small results in attacks of asystolia; but it has been very efficacious in cardiac uræmia. There, where digitalis is powerless, the serum of the eel has put an end to the renal obstruction and produced an abundant diuresis. But its really specific indication seems to be for acute nephritis a frigori (Jousset)

Subacute nephritis. Heart diseases, in cases of failure of compensation and impending asytole. The experiments of Dr. Jousset have amply demonstrated the rapid hæmaturia, albuminuria and oliguria caused by it. In the presence of acute nephritis with threatening uræmia we should always think of this serum. Very efficacious in functional heart diseases. Mitral insufficiency, asystolia with or without œdema, dyspnœa and difficult urinary secretion.

Relationship.--Great analogy exists between eel serum and the venom of the Vipera.

Compare also: Pelias; Lachesis.

Dose.--Attenuations are made with glycerine or distilled water, the lower 1x to 3 in heart disease, the higher in sudden renal attacks.

Shilajeet is the mineral pitch, found on the high mountains. Very difficult to obtain in Himalayas because it is getting extinct and also Monkeys love it.

So it is only found on extremely tough places where even monkeys can not reach. High cliffs and grooves where monkeys can not climb or stand or poke their arms into.

I have extensively travelled in Himalayas, but never saw shilajeet, I always thought it is just a hoax. Even Dabur Shilajeet is fake. All shilajeet available in the market is either fake or is the dissolved shit of Langoor (black monkeys), so it contains some shilajeet.

| Re: Shilejeet and more... | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | February 13 2008 |
|---|---|---|

Shilajeet is abundant in Alps, Rocky mountains etc because there are no monkeys and there is no demand for shilajeet.

What is shilajeet:

It is accumulated mosses, minerals, pollen, grasses and other masses in the high moisture grooves. When moisture is hight it sticky gunky and otherwise it is just like black stone. One need a chisal to take it off the rocks.

girilal

|---|---|---|

Last June I happened to be staying in a very remote small mountain hamlet called Kali Muth, in Kedarnath valley. I suspected shilajeet on the high cliffs. I asked locals and they said it was indeed shilajeet. So I arranged an expedition., Five people, ropes etc. We brought down lots of chiseled rocks.

About 7 kilometers away, there is a Ayurvedic Pharmacy College run by Badri-Kedar-Temple-Simiti. Some pharmacists also visited with their pupils and as the mineral arrived Kali Temple, they took over the job to purifying it.

I wanted to purify it simply by boiling it in the water and then use only dissolved concentrates but they said it is now religious stuff. They just took it over by declaring their authority over the subject.

So they took it over, in big iron pots (woks or kadahees) they boiled the rocks in cow's urine. It took the students half day to collect at least 15 gallons of cow urine. I doubt if any cow around that place was spared.

So to cut the long story short -- after three days and 12000 rupee later, we had about 2 kilograms of shilajeet. Some was offered in the Kali Temple, some was distributed to students and teachers and participants etc.

Now a Bangali Pilgrim group was also visiting the place, they offered to buy the rest of it but I denied. So at the end about 1kg shilajeet was mine.

Next morning when I woke up, Bangal party stole my shilajeet and the party was no where to be found. They left 2000 rupee in an envelope with an apology.

Now all shilajeet was gone but there was still some sticking in the pots so Temple priests somehow gathered about 100 grams of it.

Now this is not the end of the story ...

Too funny to be true, especially cow part and then stealing part.

| Re: Shilajeet and more... | By: sajjadakram | February 13 2008 |

It means Shilajeet sold by different pharmacies is unreliable.

| Re: Shilajeet and more... | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | February 13 2008 |
|---|---|---|

The so much bulk sold in the market is all phony and bogus.

For years I was looking out for Shilajeet but never found it. At 15000 feet, I used to ask people jokingly: where do I find it, they said at lower heights. At lower heights people said at high places.

yes I have seen many people collecting monkey droppings at high places. Not all droppings are good but only sticky, honey colored. They they boil those droppings and then let the water dry and at the end glue like substance si sold in market as shilajeet.

It is simply not enough available in the nature to be sold for everybody.

In India they say it comes from Afganistan, in Afganistan they say it comes from Pakistan, in Pakistan they say it comes from India.

No wonder the Shilajeet we buy in the market has absolutely no effect on the body! (People advertise Shilajeet as a panacea - but if you take it you get no result at all!!) - Thanks girilal for exposing the truth of the situation.

Story continues:

It was 14th of June 2007 at Kalimuth. A small hamlet along the roaring rivulet. That rivulet met another rivulet after 3 km. and then it met Mandakini. After crossing the Mandakini river and then 6 Km is the Ayurvedic Pharmacy College (on the bank of river along the road in the valley) Then road takes many hair pin bends and climbs 2000 feet to the town of Guptkashi.

So Bangalis stole my Shilajeet and crossed the rivers and mountains and ran away.

I got a small plastic container containing about 100 grams of thick black viscous paste, mostly smelling cow's urine. I put that it in my back pack. I planned to walk all the way 55 Kilometers to Kedarnath but stopping and staying at each 10 th or 15th km or as I get the accommodation.

It was 9 am of June 15 2007. I walked 20 Km and climbed 3000 feet to the town of Guptkashi. Had a grand lunch. There was no hotel room available because of pilgrim season. So I walked further as it is my style, asking villagers for a boarding and lodging.

So I kept walking, no room, because traffics was jammed in the mountains due to the rush of pilgrims, no room in the villages.

I walked and walked that day and climbed and climbed.

Kedarnath foot journey starts at the town of Gaurikund, a small narrow town in a ravine. River becomes a waterfall even before 10 Km of this town. A 10,000 feet waterfall. No room any where.

So I started walking towards Kedarnath, it was getting dark. I was never that much tired in my life. Trail was so sleep, or rather staris 14 Km. After each 2 Km people were asking tea vendors if route stays like this -- their permanent reply was -- it gets further worse and tough.

I was in very bad shape, I reached Rambara at 10,000 feet hight. A tent town. In very bad shape and I forget all about Shilajeet in my backpack.

That day I walked 47 Kilometers and climbed 8000 feet altitude, all unplanned.

Shilajeet story continues ----

The thing I did not mention that I knew those Bengali Babus went to Kedarnath ahead of me but I was ahead of everybody because they all were stuck on the road in traffic jams and I walked and walked. It was a race between hares and tortoise.

Just two miles before Rambara, it was all dark, there were snow puddles and path was not even 2 feet narrow at some places with no border to the ravine. My feet were so inflammed that I had to take off the shoes and had to walk in icy water. Somehow I reached Rambara by just touching the edges of rocks and carawling upon the bridges and waterfalls. Freezing show had already started falling.

I had a thick cane with me, to settle the bill. I was hoping to find those Babus.

I doubt if they any shilajeet is imported from abroad. Mostly it is fake. There are different ways to make fake shilajeet. One is from Monkey droppings, even that is considered expansive and close to real. One is lucky to find even that one.

Mostly is it make believe made by glues, resins, flour, dyes, shampoos, urea and animal urine to give it urine or urea like taste.

Muzlove -- 12000 rupee are little more than usd 300 and 2000 rupee are little more than usd 50.

Yeah so disgusting and untrue.

You are lucky if you were ever using even monkey thing. This option is open only for mountains locals who believe in shilajeet but there is none available.

What is sold in the market is black gunk. So be lucky that you never had any monkey thing.

SILICEA TERRA
Silica. Pure Flint
(SILICEA)

Imperfect assimilation and consequent defective nutrition. It goes further and produces neurasthenic states in consequence, and increased susceptibility to nervous stimuli and exaggerated reflexes. Diseases of bones, caries and necrosis. Silica can stimulate the organism to re-absorb fibrotic conditions and scar-tissue. In phthisis must be used with care, for here it may cause the absorption of scar-tissue, liberate the disease, walled in, to new activities (J. Weir). Organic changes; it is deep and slow in action. Periodical states; abscesses, quinsy, headaches, spasms, epilepsy, feeling of coldness before an attack. Keloid growth. Scrofulous, rachitic children, with large head open fontanelles and sutures, distended abdomen, slow in walking. Ill effects of vaccination. Suppurative processes. It is related to all fistulous burrowings. Ripens abscesses since it promotes suppuration. Silica patient is cold, chilly, hugs the fire, wants plenty warm clothing, hates drafts, hands and feet cold, worse in winter. Lack of vital heat. Prostration of mind and body. Great sensitiveness to taking cold. Intolerance of alcoholic stimulants. Ailments attended with pus formation. Epilepsy. Want of grit, moral or physical.

Mind.--Yielding, faint-hearted, anxious. Nervous and excitable. Sensitive to all impressions. Brain-fag. Obstinate, headstrong children. Abstracted. Fixed ideas; thinks only of pins, fears them, searches and counts them.

Head.--Aches from fasting. Vertigo from looking up; better, wrapping up warmly; when lying on left side (Magnes mur; Strontia). Profuse sweat of head, offensive, and extends to neck. Pain begins at occiput, and spreads over head and settles over eyes. Swelling in the glabella.

Eyes.--Angles of eyes affected. Swelling of lachrymal duct. Aversion to light, especially daylight; it produces dazzling, sharp pain through eyes; eyes tender to touch; worse when closed. Vision confused; letters run together on reading. Styes. Iritis and irido-choroiditis, with pus in anterior chamber. Perforating or sloughing ulcer of cornea. Abscess in cornea after traumatic injury. Cataract in office workers. After-effects of keratitis and ulcus cornæ, clearing the opacity. Use 30th potency for months.

Ears.--Fetid discharge. Caries of mastoid. Loud pistol-like report. Sensitive to noise. Roaring in ears.

Nose.--Itching at point of nose. Dry, hard crusts form, bleeding when loosened. Nasal bones sensitive. Sneezing in morning. Obstructed and loss of smell. Perforation of septum.

Face.--Skin cracked on margin of lips. Eruption on chin. Facial neuralgia, throbbing, tearing, face red; worse, cold damp.

Mouth.--Sensation of a hair on tongue. Gums sensitive to cold air. Boils on gums. Abscess at root of teeth. Pyorrhea (Merc cor). Sensitive to cold water.

Throat.--Periodical quinsy. Pricking as of a pin in tonsil. Colds settle in throat. Parotid glands swollen (Bell; Rhus; Calc). Stinging pain on swallowing. Hard, cold swelling of cervical glands.

Stomach.--Disgust for meat and warm food. On swallowing food, it easily gets into posterior nares. Want of appetite; thirst excessive. Sour eructations after eating (Sepia; Calc). Pit of stomach painful to pressure. Vomiting after drinking (Ars; Verat).

Abdomen.--Pain or painful cold feeling in abdomen, better external heat. Hard, bloated. Colic; cutting pain, with constipation; yellow hands and blue nails. Much rumbling in bowels. Inguinal glands swollen and painful. Hepatic abscess.

Rectum.--Feels paralyzed. Fistula in ano (Berb; Lach). Fissures and hæmorrhoids, painful, with spasm of sphincter. Stool comes down with difficulty; when partly expelled, recedes again. Great straining; rectum stings; closes upon stool. Feces remain a long time in rectum. Constipation always before and during menses; with irritable sphincter ani. Diarrhœa of cadaverous odor.

Urinary.--Bloody, involuntary, with red or yellow sediment. Prostatic fluid discharged when straining at stool. Nocturnal enuresis in children with worms.

Male.--Burning and soreness of genitals, with eruption on inner surface of thighs. Chronic gonorrhœa, with thick, fetid discharge. Elephantiasis of scrotum. Sexual erethism; nocturnal emissions. Hydrocele.

Female.--A milky (Calc; Puls; Sep), acrid leucorrhœa, during urination. Itching of vulva and vagina; very sensitive. Discharge of blood between menstrual periods. Increased menses, with paroxysms of icy coldness over whole body. Nipples very sore; ulcerated easily; drawn in. Fistulous ulcers of breast (Phos). Abscess of labia. Discharge of blood from vagina every time child is nursed. Vaginal cysts (Lyc; Puls; Rhod) hard lumps in breast (conium).

Respiratory.--Colds fail to yield; sputum persistently muco-purulent and profuse. Slow recovery after pneumonia. Cough and sore throat, with expectoration of little granules like shot, which, when broken, smell very offensive. Cough with expectoration in day, bloody or purulent. Stitches in chest through to back. Violent cough when lying down, with thick, yellow lumpy expectoration; suppurative stage of expectoration (Bals. Peru).

Back.--Weak spine; very susceptible to draughts on back. Pain in coccyx. Spinal irritation after injuries to spine; diseases of bones of spine. Potts' disease.

Sleep.--Night-walking; gets up while asleep. Sleeplessness, with great orgasm of blood and heat in head. Frequent starts in sleep. Anxious dreams. Excessive gaping.

Extremities.--Sciatica, pains through hips, legs and feet. Cramp in calves and soles. Loss of power in legs. Tremulous hands when using them. Paralytic weakness of forearm. Affections of finger nails, especially if white spots on nails. Ingrowing toe-nails. Icy cold and sweaty feet. The parts lain on go to sleep. Offensive sweat on feet, hands, and axillæ. Sensation in tips of fingers, as if suppurating. Panaritium. Pain in knee, as if tightly bound. Calves tense and contracted. Pain beneath toes. Soles sore (Ruta). Soreness in feet from instep through to the sole. Suppurates.

Skin.--Felons, abscesses, boils, old fistulous ulcers. Delicate, pale, waxy. Cracks at end of fingers. Painless swelling of glands. Rose-colored blotches. Scars suddenly become painful. Pus offensive. Promotes expulsion of foreign bodies from tissues. Every little injury suppurates. Long lasting suppuration and fistulous tracts. Dry finger tips. Eruptions itch only in daytime and evening. Crippled nails. Indurated tumors. Abscesses of joints. After impure vaccination. Bursa. Lepra, nodes, and coppery spots. Keloid growths.

Fever.--Chilliness; very sensitive to cold air. Creeping, shivering over the whole body. Cold extremities, even in a warm room. Sweat at night; worse towards morning. Suffering parts feel cold.

Modalities.--Worse, new moon, in morning, from washing, during menses, uncovering, lying down, damp, lying on, left side, cold. Better, warmth, wrapping up head, summer; in wet or humid weather.

Relationship.--Complementary: Thuja; Sanic; Puls; Fluor ac. Mercurius and Silica do not follow each other well.

Compare.--

Black Gunpowder 3x (Abscesses, boils, carbuncles, limb purple. Wounds that refuse to heal; accident from bad food or water(Clarke). Hep; Kali phos; Pic ac; Calc; Phos; Tabasheer; Natrum silicum (tumors, hæmophilia, arthritis; dose, three drops three times daily, in milk); Ferrum cyanatum (epilepsy; neuroses, with irritable weakness and hyper-sensitiveness, especially of a periodical character). Silica marina-Sea sand--(Silica and Natrum mur symptoms. Inflamed glands and commencing suppuration. Constipation. Use for some time 3x trit). Vitrum-Crown glass--(Pott's disease, after Silica, necrosis, discharge thin, watery, fetid. Much pain, fine grinding and grating like grit). Arundo donax (acts on excretory and generative organs; suppuration, especially chronic, and where the ulceration is fistulous, especially in long bones. Itching eruption on chest, upper extremities and behind ears).

Dose.--Sixth to thirtieth potency. The 200th and higher of unquestioned activity. In malignant affections, the lowest potencies needed at times.

How to Make Silica/Silicea

I posted this on other fourms and the thread became very famous. I got some thousand email regarding silica and people kept asking about same questions. Now at least I can direct them all to this thread:

Many people reported that home-made Silicea caused then wonders.

Here is the way to make silica. I make this medicine to treat the scars of my patients. In most cases it works perfect and in some cases it still works (A step away from perfection)

Make Silica at a dry day (No rain and low humidity)

1. Find some natural rock pebbles (You can find it in sands to make cement concrete mix). Or you can pick it up from rail line tracks.
2. Try to identify the rock pebble (small piece of rock) which is semi transparent) if you can’t find it then any other natural rock will do the job.
3. Heat up the stones to expel the moisture.
4. Stones should be about 20 grams.
5. Now put the stones on a clean metal surface and beat the stone with hammer. In other way you beat up the rock real fine.
6. When you think you can’t beat up the rock any more you stop.

7. Put the powder in a one litter mineral water bottle.
8. Shake it and let it settle for 10 minutes.
9. After 10 minutes heavier rock will settle down at the bottom but water will be still murky because of the micro silica particles.
10. Remove top 1/3 of the liquid without shaking the bottle.

That is your medicine. Use two drops three times a day just like any homeopathy medicine. You may see the results in just two days.

Of all the strange worlds, few are as strange as the sands in beaches.. There, between the grains, is a microscopic ecosystem populated by sand-lickers, sticky-toed worms and four-legged "water bears". It's a world that remains largely unex¬plored, despite being near enough to touch.
The animals living in the sand are often less than a millimetre long and sometimes as small as one-twentieth of a millimetre.
They make up for size with numbers: Scientists estimate that a bucket of sand might hold thou¬sands of these tiny crea¬tures; in a few square metres of beach, there might be millions.

| Re: Silica (Silicea) | By: lewMalaysia | August 5 2007 |

This world plays by rules different from ours, researchers say. And the first rule is: Grab hold of something. For such crea¬tures, even the smallest wave breaks with tsuna¬mi force…
The ani¬mals live either on or between the grains. The sand is a buffet, as well as a shelter. Scientists say the grains are often covered in bac¬teria or tiny plants called diatoms.Enough sunlight penetrates the sand that these plants can survive even an inch under the surface.
This food is licked off by worms that crawl over the surface of a grain or is munched on by tiny shrimp-like creatures with waving legs called copepods. An animal called Tetranchyroderma looks like a flying carpet with a mouth, propelling itself with a belly¬ful of hairs and vacuuming up bacteria in a giant maw. Some worms called polychaetes simply eat the sand whole and let their digestive systems clean it off. Out the back end, eventually, comes a trail of clean sand

Doctors are Nature's Assistants: Only Mother Nature does the Healing.

| Re: Silica (Silicea) | By: lewMalaysia | August 5 2007 |

"It really is a different kind of existence, the interstitial environment," said Douglas Miller, a professor at the University of Dela¬ware. Scientists call these creatures "intersti¬tial" because they live in the interstices, or empty spaces, between grains.

Life in this world is short: Most creatures live only a few weeks. That means they need to be ready for reproduction quickly, often a few days after birth. Some creatures have both male and female organs, although they don't usually fertilise themselves. Some can actually switch back and forth between being male and female.
Because these creatures are so hard to see, they've been studied for only 100 years or so.
Because these creatures are so little under¬stood, scientists arejust beginning to explore what they can tell us about pollution or cli¬mate change. In other places around the world. and creatures have been shown to be sensitive to contamination. But there have been few case studies in the mid-Atlantic.

Doctors are Nature's Assistants: Only Mother Nature does the Healing.

| Re: Silica (Silicea) | By: lewMalaysia | August 5 2007 |

Even though they have just begun to map the world of the sand dwellers, scientists are sure of one thing: We should be glad these creatures are there. They don't seem to cause any human diseases. In fact, they seem to act as the beach's unseen cleaning crew, eating the bacteria left behind by our discarded fries and uncurbed dogs.
And these creatures sit at the bottom of several important food chains: They feed baby fish and small crabs and clams, which become food for a succession of larger crea¬tures. Some important animals eat beach life directly, such as the piping plover, a threat¬ened bird species.
"If the people appreciate the shorebirds," said Don Boesch, president of the University of Maryland Centre for Environmental Science, they should understand that the birds are alive because of "all of these little organisms that are living between the sand grains." - LAT-WP

I have made some tim eago my home made silicea, but the question is-could it be made from beach stones rather blue color?

It was beach stone from Adriatic sea taken just from sea side. It looks ratehr nomrlam, 2 cm size.
...it seems to me that it works...

and just another question-fro face scars, should it be taken orally or just appled on face?

thank ypu so much,

"wisdom in your body is deeper than your deepest philosophy" (Nietszche)

| Re:Silica (Silicea) | By: garcotBangalore | April 3 2009 |

From the nutritional point of view, an average adult needs about 25mg/day min. and for some the requirement may touch close to 100mg/day. Out of which about 50% is excreted through urine, suggesting that intake to be adjusted according to one's constitution.

The importance of silica, also referred to as dietary "Silicon", in the proper maintenance and function of human (and animal) health, can no longer be ignored. Next to oxygen, silicon is the most abundant element on earth. Silicon is found in the ash of most plant and animal tissues in small quantities.

Silicon is a trace mineral. Although not much is scientifically known about silicon, it is considered an essential trace element. Silicon is required for proper integrity of skin, ligaments, tendons and bone. Silicon is required for the proper functioning of the enzyme prolyhydroxylase which is responsible for the formation of collagen in bone and elastin, cartilage and other connective tissues. Silicon may also be important in bone calcification.

There has been a growing interest in silicon-based products in the cosmetics industry, because they have realized that shampoos, creams and lotions containing silica are very effective for the development of healthy skin, nails and hair.

As we grow older, levels of silica decline in the body and may contribute to many factors of aging, including bone loss and heart disease. Therapeutically, silica has been used to heal fractures and increase bone mineralization in osteoporosis.

There are no known cases of silicon deficiency. It is thought that symptoms of a possible deficiency are certain joint disorders, due to silicon's role in bone and cartilage composition.

Silicon is not usually taken as a supplement on its own and is best taken in the form of a multivitamin and mineral supplement. No estimated safe and adequate daily dietary intake has been established.

In 1878, Louis Pasteur believed that the need for silica in treating many diseases, would someday be widely recognized. Various scientists, in the 20th century, supported Pasteur's theory by extensively studying the effect of silica on animal and human life.

Through research done in 1972 at UCLA, Dr. Edith Carlisle found that silica is an essential trace element, necessary for normal bone development. It was determined that optimal growth and skeletal development could not occur without adequate amounts of this essential trace mineral. While studying mice, depressed growth and skull deformities occurred due to an inadequate supply of silica.

Humans showed the following symptoms when lacking a sufficient amount of silica in their diet: cardiovascular and arterial problems, fragile bones, joint deterioration, digestive disorders, along with weakened gums and teeth.

Once supplied with the appropriate amount of silica, the above symptoms showed considerable improvement, in addition to this: collagen levels elevated, calcium absorption increased, and cardiovascular support strengthened. The texture of the hair, skin and nails showed improvement, as well.

Scientists also discovered that silica is important for making the collagen matrix structure, where calcium deposits are used for building and strengthening bones. Silica is so imperative for forming healthy bones, that some scientists believe silica supplements are even more important than calcium for maintaining bone strength.

Silica supplements become even more necessary as we age, because the human body absorbs and uses less of it, with each passing year. This may be one reason we lose flexibility and joint stability as we get older.

In addition to our ever increasing need for silica, another challenge is that silica cannot easily be found in large quantities in most foods. Though it can be found in certain cereal grains, such as: oats, millet, barley, wheat and potatoes, along with fruits, beets and turnips - most silica is usually lost in the refinement process of these foods.

The average daily intake of silica from the diet is approximately 20 to 50 milligrams per day, but the optimum dose is higher. Researchers are finding that by supplementing the diet with a minimum of 40 milligrams of silica a day, the skin shows an improvement of elasticity, texture and thickness. Added benefits include helping weakened teeth and gums, strengthening bones, and decreasing hair loss. Overall, silica was found to help the body repair, rebuild, strengthen, and lessen or eliminate many body ailments associated with aging. "

1. Age/Sex/Country/Climate:
54, male, India, moderate

2. Current complain - from how long:
1. Fistula - almost healed out (90%) after taking Arnica 30c+Silicia for last five months
2. Having multiple cyst with pus deposit on scrotum for last several years.
3. Having pricking pain inside penis during urination for last thirty years

3. Current medicine you are taking:
Syzigium for diabetis, Arnica 30c+silicia for fistula

4. Sign & Symptom of disease:
1. Some cysts vanished in the past after white pus expelled out automatically
2.Pain during urination, residual urine and pain for a while after urination and pain during sex for last thirty years

5. Breif medical history:
During 1984, one doctor used cathod through penis to clean the urinary passage.

6. Family Back Ground:
No family history

7. Education and Nature of Profession of Patient:
Post graduate, government employee.

8. Desires and aversion of food:
Very fond of taking rice and cereal food. No specific desire for non veg.

9. Mind-behavior, anger, irritability, hurry..etc.:
cool, calm, thoughtful, get nervous with small adversity

10. What makes it worse and what makes it better:

Early and Common Signs of Pregnancy
Pregnancy symptoms are not equal for all women. Every single mom, experience different signs of pregnancy. In fact, his own reality, symptoms of pregnancy can be very different from one pregnancy to another. Symptoms may occur unsystematically, can be subtle, and sometimes may not be obvious. Pregnancy symptoms are varied to produce absolutely random. No specific time or duration of symptoms of pregnancy. The signs of pregnancy generally differ from one woman to another in their duration, frequency and intensity. The best way to learn about your pregnancy is doing a pregnancy test. But before deciding to take the test, here is a list of the first signs of pregnancy. However, remember that these signs of pregnancy are only a guide that can't experience all these symptoms in pregnancy, except the first.

1 An absence of menstruation - a sure shot sign of pregnancy. The first sign of pregnancy and everything is missing your monthly cycle. This is the first sign that make the woman on the hunt for other signs of early pregnancy. So I would say that if you miss your period you should check if you are experiencing other signs of pregnancy, which will only happen if you miss your period.
2 Changes in your breasts.

Dear All,

Sorghum and Millet are great nutritional resources and please read this reference for why:

http://www.blackherbals.com/sorghum_and_millet_in_african_nu.htm

Please also share your experience with respect to finger millet ( known as Ragi in India and a great source of calcium ) a commonly used cereal and its effect on human health.

Thanks and Regards

Spigelia marilandica
Indian Pink

SPIGELIA ANTHELMIA
Pinkroot
(SPIGELIA)

Spigelia is an important remedy in pericarditis and other diseases of the heart, because the provings were conducted with the greatest regard for objective symptoms and the subjective symptoms are by innumerable confirmations proved to be correct (C. Hering).

Has marked elective affinity for the eye, heart, and nervous system. Neuralgia of the fifth nerve is very prominent in its effects. Is especially adapted to anæmic, debilitated, rheumatic, and scrofulous subjects. Stabbing pains. Heart affections and neuralgia. Very sensitive to touch. Parts feel chilly; send shudder through frame. A remedy for symptoms due to the presence of worms. Child refers to the navel as the most painful part (Granat; Nux mosch).

Mind.--Afraid of sharp, pointed things, pins, needles, etc.

Head.--Pain beneath frontal eminence and temples, extending to eyes (Onos). Semi-lateral, involving left eye; pain violent, throbbing; worse, making a false step. Pain as if a band around head (Carbol ac; Cact; Gels). Vertigo, hearing exalted.

Eyes.--Feel too large; pressive pain on turning them. Pupils dilated; photophobia; rheumatic ophthalmia. Severe pain in and around eyes, extending deep into socket. Ciliary neuralgia, a true neuritis.

Nose.--Forepart of nose always dry; discharge through posterior nares chronic catarrh, with post-nasal dropping of bland mucus.

Mouth.--Tongue fissured, painful. Tearing toothache; worse, after eating and cold. Foul odor from mouth. Offensive taste.

Face.--Prosopalgia, involving eye, zygoma, cheek, teeth, temple, worse, stooping, touch, from morning until sunset.

Heart.--Violent palpitation. Præcordial pain and great aggravation from movement. Frequent attacks of palpitation, especially with foul odor from mouth. Pulse weak and irregular. Pericarditis, with sticking pains, palpitation, dyspnœa. Neuralgia extending to arm or both arms. Angina pectoris. Craving for hot water which relieves. Rheumatic carditis, trembling pulse; whole left side sore. Dyspnœa; must lie on right side with head high.

Rectum.--Itching and crawling. Frequent ineffectual urging to stool. Ascarides.

Fever.--Chilliness on the slightest motion.

Modalities.--Worse, from touch, motion, noise, turning, washing, concussion. Better, lying on right side with head high; inspiring.

Relationship.--Compare: Spigelia Marylandica (maniacal excitement, paroxysmal laughing and crying, loud, disconnected talking, vertigo, dilated pupils, congestions); Acon; Cact; Cimicif; Arnica (Spigela is a chronic Arnica); Cinnab (supra-orbital pain); Naja; Spong (heart); Sabad; Teucr; Cina (worm symptoms).

Antidote: Pulsat.

Dose.--Sixth to thirtieth potency for neuralgic symptoms; second to third potency for inflammatory symptoms.

Dear Shri Udaya
A close relative of mine has refered her problem of Migrane Headache. In her own words I am narrating her problem and look forward to your guidance
QUOTE
"I am suffering from severe migraine headache from almost 15 years. And now i am still having the same problem. A local homeopath to whom I refered my problem had told me to take cocculus ind.30 when ever i have less sleep or heaviness in the head. I used to take it when i have less sleep or unesiness.

From past one week i did not take it so again i had migraine attack. I get the zig zag vision disturbance and after it subsides i get severe headache and this lasts upto 5 hours. I dont know for what reason it occurs.I tried to observe is it due to some food or tension or due to change in the weather, but it was never like that. I suddenly have this migraine attack without any cause. I just want to know whether i can continue with the same medicine or is there any medicine for the permanent cure of this problem. Thank you."
UNQUOTE
May I have advice please
Warm Regards

SPONGIA TOSTA
Roasted Sponge

A remedy especially marked in the symptoms of the respiratory organs, cough, croup, etc. Heart affections and often indicated for the tubercular diathesis. Children with fair complexion, lax fiber; swollen glands. Exhaustion and heaviness of the body after slight exertion, with orgasm of blood to chest, face. Anxiety and difficult breathing.

Mind.--Anxiety and fear. Every excitement increases the cough.

Head.--Rush of blood; bursting headache; worse, forehead.

Eyes.--Watering; gummy or mucus discharge.

Nose.--Fluent coryza, alternating with stoppage. Dryness; chronic, dry, nasal catarrh.

Mouth.--Tongue dry and brown; full of vesicles.

Throat.--Thyroid gland swollen. Stitches and dryness. Burning and stinging. Sore throat; worse after eating sweet things. Tickling causes cough. Clears throat constantly.

Stomach.--Excessive thirst, great hunger. Cannot bear tight clothing around trunk. Hiccough.

Male.--Swelling of spermatic cord and testicles, with pain and tenderness. Orchitis. Epididymitis. Heat in parts.

Female.--Before menses, pain in sacrum, hunger, palpitation. During menses, wakes with suffocative spells (Cupr; Iod; Lach). Amenorrhœa, with asthma (Puls).

Respiratory.--Great dryness of all air-passages. Hoarseness; larynx dry, burns, constricted. Cough, dry, barking, croupy; larynx sensitive to touch. Croup; worse, during inspiration and before midnight. Respiration short, panting, difficult; feeling of a plug in larynx. Cough abates after eating or drinking, especially warm drinks. The dry, chronic sympathetic cough or organic heart disease is relieved by Spongia (Naja). Irrepressible cough from a spot deep in chest, as if raw and sore. Chest weak; can scarcely talk. Laryngeal phthisis. Goitre, with suffocative spells. Bronchial catarrh, with wheezing, asthmatic cough, worse cold air, with profuse expectoration and suffocation; worse, lying with head low and in hot room. Oppression and heat of chest, with sudden weakness.

Heart.--Rapid and violent palpitation, with dyspnœa; cannot lie down; also feels best resting in horizontal position. Awakened suddenly after midnight with pain and suffocation; is flushed, hot, and frightened to death (Acon). Valvular insufficiency. Angina pectoris; faintness, and anxious sweat. Ebullition of blood, veins distended. Surging of heart into chest, as if it would force out upward. Hypertrophy of heart, especially right, with asthmatic symptoms.

Skin.--Swelling and induration of glands; also exophthalmic; cervical glands swollen with tensive pain on turning head, painful on pressure; Goitre. Itching; measles Sleep.--Awakes in a fright, and feels as if suffocating. Generally worse after sleep, or sleeps into and aggravation (Lach).

Fever.--Attacks of heat with anxiety; heat and redness of face and perspiration.

Modalities.--Worse, ascending, wind, before midnight. Better, descending, lying with head low.

Relationship.--Compare: Acon; Hep; Brom; Lach; Merc prot; Iod (Goitre).

Dose.--Second trituration, or tincture to third potency.

In these days, Spongia Tostas are lying all around Miami beach in Florida. They are rich in iodine. They can be considered animals and also plants.

They are soft and foul smelly (rotting fish like smell). Last time in Miami I picked up a bucketful of sponges. Our next stop was camping in Everglades. Crocodiles were too attracted with the spongia smell (that is a different story)

On the pine wood fire I roasted all sponges and they become hard and some less smelly. so I thought I will make their powder. But after few hours they were again soft and smelly.

In NJ, I had a hypothyroid patient so I kept few pieces and discarded rest of the sponges. I grinded up those pieces in blender and recommended the patient to take 3 drops of it. Patient had significant improvement in her symptoms.

SQUILLA MARITIMA
Sea-onion

A slow acting remedy. Corresponds to ailments requiring several days to reach their maximum. Persistent, dull, rheumatic pains permeate the body. A spleen medicine; stitches under left free ribs. Important heart and kidneys medicine. Broncho-pneumonia.

Acts especially on mucous membranes of the respiratory and digestive tracts, and also upon the kidneys. Valuable in chronic bronchitis of old people with mucous rales, dyspnœa, and scanty urine.

Eyes.--Feel irritable; child bores into them with fists. Sensation as if swimming in cold water.

Stomach.--Pressure like a stone.

Respiratory.--Fluent coryza; margins of nostrils feel sore. Sneezing; throat irritated; short, dry cough; must take a deep breath. Dyspnœa and stitches in chest, and painful contraction of abdominal muscles. Violent, furious, exhausting cough, with much mucus; profuse, salty, slimy expectoration, and with involuntary spurting of urine and sneezing. Child rubs face with fist during cough (Caust; Puls). Cough provoked by taking a deep breath or cold drinks, from exertion, change from warm to cold air. Cough of measles. Frequent calls to urinate at night, passing large quantities (Phos ac). Sneezing with coughing.

Heart.--A cardiac stimulant affecting the peripheral vessels and coronary arteries.

Urinary.--Great urging; much watery urine. Involuntary spurting of urine when coughing (Caustic; Puls).

Skin.--Small, red spots over body, with prickling pain.

Extremities.--Icy cold hands and feet, with warmth of the rest of the body (Menyanthes). Feet get sore from standing. Tender feet with shop girls.

Modalities.--Better, rest; worse, motion.

Relationship.--Compare: Digit; Strophant; Apocyn can; Bry; Kali carb. Squilla follows Digitalis, if this fails to relieve water-logged cases.

Dose.--First to third potency.

Miraclesuit Underwire Swimwear Review

One of the best type of body shaping swimwear and underwire swimwear is offered by the Miraclesuit. This company makes the pledge that just by wearing their swimsuit it will appear as if you lost ten pounds in just ten seconds. This may be partially true as the company has designed and developed a specialized body shaping material that they call Miratex. This material is quite innovative as it can comfortably pull in, smooth out, and even your look with a material that will not be harmed if it gets wet. We want to take a closer look at the Miraclesuit swimsuits and see how they can make you look slimmer, trimmer, and feel comfortable at the same time.

We really need to first take a look at their patented and effective material they use for their swimwear called Miratex. It has a unique property in that as it is stretched out over your body it will always pull back and not lose its elasticity. As with all body shaping material, it will flatten out lumpy areas, smooth out lines, and generally give you a leaner looking appearance. The Miratex fibers are woven in such a way that makes the material breathable, waterproof, and quite comfortable. The material is made form outstanding fibers and are guaranteed to last a very long time.

The Miraclesuit line of swimwear has a style that can satisfy the fashion tastes of women of almost any age. The upper part of these swimsuits will have a comfortable hidden underwire that moves when you move. The cups are lined with a soft material that allows for all day comfort. Also offered are foam materials for cups to give you a more full look if that is what you desire. As will all Miraclesuit swimsuits the material is specially designed to pull back and keep you shaped properly as you pulls and move about.

The company presently offers over twenty different styles of swimwear in the Miraclesuit line. You will find traditional looking one piece swimsuits, bikinis, tankinis, and bandeau styles to suit your needs. One special type of Miraclesuit line is their Cover-up style of swimwear. This is a great solution for women who want a more discreet appearance while wearing their swimsuit. With the Cover-up line you will find either a skirt or scarf that beautifully matches your swimsuit which allows for additional coverage. This is a very popular model early in the sun tanning season to give you a body cover up while you work on your tan. A great tip here is to find a solid darker color as this well help blend in your lighter skin until you have some time darken up some.

One thing to keep your eye on this season is that the Miraclesuit line of swimwear is coming out with bolder and wilder designs. In addition to the single color models you will now find prints, designs, and patterns to choose from. There are themes to go with these designs like Hawaiian, tropical, floral, and animal skin type patterns. You will find that the price for the Miraclesuit swimsuit is priced to meet just about any budget. Starting at about fifty dollars, the Miraclesuit can be priced more than hundred for the more elaborate designs.

(STANNUM)

Chief action is centered upon the nervous system and respiratory organs. Debility is very marked when Stannum is the remedy, especially the debility of chronic bronchial and pulmonary conditions, characterized by profuse muco-purulent discharges upon tuberculosis basis. Talking causes a very weak feeling in the throat and chest. Pains that come and go gradually, call unmistakably for Stannum. Paralytic weakness; spasms; paralysis.

Mind.--Sad, anxious. Discouraged. Dread of seeing people.

Head.--Aching in temples and forehead. Obstinate acute coryza and influenza with cough. Pain worse motion; gradually increasing and decreasing as if constricted by a band; forehead feels pressed inwards. Jarring of walking resounds painfully in head. Drawing pains in malar bones and orbits. Ulceration of ringhole in lobe of ear.

Throat.--Much adhesive mucus, difficult to detach; efforts to detach cause nausea. Throat dry and stings.

Stomach.--Hunger. Smell of cooking causes vomiting. Bitter taste. Pain better pressure, but sore to touch. Sensation of emptiness in stomach.

Abdomen.--Cramp-like colic around navel, with a feeling of emptiness. Colic relieved by hard pressure.

Female.--Bearing-down sensation. Prolapsus, with weak, sinking feeling in stomach (Sep). Menses early and profuse. Pain in vagina, upward and back to spine. Leucorrhœa, with great debility.

Respiratory.--Hoarse; mucus expelled by forcible cough. Violent, dry cough in evening until midnight. Cough excited by laughing, singing, talking; worse lying on right side. During day, with copious green, sweetish, expectoration. Chest feels sore. Chest feels weak; can hardly talk. Influenzal cough from noon to midnight with scanty expectoration. Respiration short, oppressive; stitches in left side when breathing and lying on same side. Phthisis mucosa. Hectic fever.

Sleep.--Sleeps with one leg drawn up, the other stretched out.

Extremities.--Paralytic weakness; drops things. Ankles swollen. Limbs suddenly give out when attempting to sit down. Dizziness and weakness when descending. Spasmodic twitching of muscles of forearm and hand. Fingers jerk when holding pen. Neuritis. Typewriters' paralysis.

Fever.--Heat in evening; exhausting night-sweats, especially towards morning. Hectic. Perspiration, principally on forehead and nape of neck; debilitating; smelling musty, or offensive.

Modalities.--Worse, using voice (i.e, laughing, talking, singing), lying on right side, warm drinks. Better, coughing or expectorating, hard pressure.

Relationship.--Complementary: Puls.

Compare: Stann iod. 3x (Valuable in chronic chest diseases characterized by plastic tissue changes). Persistent inclination to cough, excited by tickling dry spot in the throat, apparently at root of tongue. Dryness of throat. Trachial and bronchial irritation of smokers. Pulmonary symptoms; cough, loud, hollow, ending with expectoration (Phellandrium). State of purulent infiltration. Advanced phthisis sometimes when Stann jod has not taken effect, an additional dose of Iodine in milk caused the drug to have its usual beneficial effect (Stonham). Compare: Caust; Calc; Sil; Tuberc; Bacil; Helon. Myrtus chekan (chronic bronchitis, cough of phthisis, emphysema, with gastric catarrhal complications and thick, yellow difficult sputum. Old persons with weakened power of expectoration).

Dose.--Third to thirtieth potency.

Stannum is homoeopathic potentized tin. This metal is associated with Jupiter, the planet of faith, trust and lust for life. Beautiful orange colored Jupiter is the biggest planet of the solar system; in astrology Jupiter is connected with growth, getting bigger, abundance, wellfare and wellbeing, natural healing, recovery, regeneration, positivity, aims and ideals, beliefs, teaching and philosophying (spreading your beliefs in the world) and traveling (extending your points of view). Jupitarian body-parts are the liver, our chemical laboratory, and the tongue, as distinguisher through taste of what our body needs or not, and the enzymes as catalysors of biological processes. All these things support the physical regeneration. Interestingly eating from tin plates and drinking from tin vessels has proven to stimulate the assimilation of food. And the tins in which food is preserved are tinned inside to ensure the preservation of the good taste.

In homoeopathy we use Stannum in cases of severe exhaustion and grave weakness. This is mostly a remedy in chronic cases of serious disease, in which people have lost their physical reserves. There is no bodily strength left for recovery. And also emotionally seen they 'have lost it': they are very sad and have given up all hope for recovery. They feel like crying but often don't do it, because crying leads to exhaustion, as well as any other form of exertion.

An important symptom is that these people are almost too weak to speak! Speaking has to do with spreading around your beliefs, a Jupitarian area of life. Often this aversion to speak is related to a feeling of great weakness in the chest area. Every morning the chest is filled with slime and every exertion leads to exhausting coughs with a tendency to throw up yellowish-green sputum with a sweetish taste. Stannum suits short-breathed people who let themselves fall into a chair. But it can also help persons with a general feeling of physical weakness, together with the idea of not being able to ever recover.

Stannum pains arise and disappear very slowly; another sign of weakness. These can be neurological pains who are most often caused by cold, for instance nervous head-aches with the sense of a tight band around the head, and especially situated around the left eye. People who need this remedy have more difficulty with descending the stairs than with ascending the stairs!

Stannum complaints aggravate by every form of exertion, by lying on the right side (the liver-side!), warm drinks and touch. Lying on something hard amazingly ameliorates, as well as hanging with the chest over a table (what puts hard pressure on the chest).

Anyone who needs Stannum I would also recommend to eat and drink from tin tableware.

Staphysagria

(Throws things in anger)
1. Suppressed anger.
2. Ailments from indignation
3. Fears losing self control
4. Yielding disposition
5. Fear to get into rage
6. Throws things in anger, throws thing at the persons who offended.
7. Ailments from honor wounded.
8. Silent grief with anger.

Staphysagria is a good remedy for the weaker person in cases of distortion of balances of power.

Examples of such situations are:
1. A dominant partner in a relationship, treating the other partner like dirt.
2. A child that gets beaten up every time it does not act exactly according the wishes of the parent
3. Slavery

Sulphur Soon regrets after getting angry
Crocus Sativa Immediately regrets after getting angry
Natrum Mur. Late repentance after getting angry
Ignatia Late repentance after getting angry
Staphysagria Suppresses anger but when in rage throws things at the person who offended.
Zincum M. Very, Very angry. Very hard to cool her down. Gets violent, weeps, abuses and accuses.

| More about STAPHYSAGRIA Constituion/Personality | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 22 2006 |

The two main characteristics in the psychological image of Staphisagria are oppression and victim.

Staphisagria-personalities have problems with injustice; they cannot stand injustice caused to themselves or persons in their surroundings. They do not stand up against this injustice however, but they react with some passive acceptance of it. They have the feeling that defending them is impossible, or the constant attacks or their personality have simply made them too tired to respond assertively any longer. The background of their passive suffering is often fear of further oppression, fear of sexual abuse, fear of physical violence, fear of mental and emotional ill-treatment, or some out of place feeling of responsibility towards their oppressor. Since they cannot defend themselves they react with withdrawal. There is anger with silent grief and anger with indignation. Fear of authorities.

So Staphisagria is a good remedy for the weaker person in cases of distortion of balances of power. Examples of such situations are:

a dominant partner in a relationship treating the other partner like dirt.
a child that gets beaten up every time it does not act exactly according the wishes of the parent
Staphisagria also turns out to be very helpful in case you are 'victim of the surgeon' what means that this medicine is very helpful if an operation leaves you with complaints or turns out to be very painful. Especially in operations of the bladder and the genitals. And they can be 'victim' of flies and mosquitoes, developing large and painful bumps after their stings.

Usually Staphisagria's can stand a lot of unjust behaviour. They suppress their aggression and grief, or somehow decide not to feel or notice it anymore. They inform after the rules in order not to trespass them. They have problems with the rudeness of other persons and try to avoid quarrels. The strange thing is that Staphisagria-characters blame themselves for what is happening, there is a lot of self-guilt, what makes it even more difficult to escape from their oppressed state. The base of this self-guilt most probably is a great feeling of worthlessness accompanied by depression; they are psychologically paralyzed.

Staphisagria's have strong emotions and strong sexual feelings. They can feel sexually oppressed in a relationship. Or they use their sexuality to obtain money, love and attention. "When I do surrender to this, than hopefully..."

From time to time they emotionally explode. Often these people try to manage their nervous tension with masturbation, smoking cigarettes or drinking alcohol. (But they can also be allergic to the smoke of tobacco).

Physically they have many complaints concerning urination, bladder and genitals. If a young woman gets an inflammation of the bladder after the first coitus, always think of Staphisagria. There is pain and sadness after coitus, vaginitis, (chronic) inflammation of the bladder, painful sensitiveness of the sexual organs, prostate troubles. Often they have bad teeth (if you 'cannot put your teeth into something' it means that you lack aggression).

Staphisagria-personalities get ailments from rudeness, anger, indignation, grief, mortification, sexual excesses and tobacco. Warmth and rest makes them feel better.

Why Do Men Love Leather Mini Skirts?
It may seem like a fairly unimportant question, but have you ever thought about why men love leather mini skirts so much? Of course, there is the obvious answer that has something to do with the actual amount of a woman's body that is left showing by a mini skirt verses the amount of the body that is left up to the man's imagination. Or it could be because of a fantasy that has previously established itself deep in the mind of a particular man. Or it could be because of the prehistoric notion of leather and some ingrained instinct that draws a man to the supple, smooth surface. But whatever the reason is why men go wild over mini skirts, they are a definite hit!

Mini skirts have been around for years, and they never quite seem to go out of style. Of course, there are different arenas when a mini skirt is probably inappropriate, generally in any work place or public areas where your mini skirt is little more than a band of fabric that covers one the bare minimum. However, if you are looking to catch a man's eye--including the eye of your husband or boyfriend, consider donning a teeny tiny mini skirt and watch their mouths drop.

The great thing about using leather as a material to construct your mini skirt is because of the tremendous molding properties of leather. Often, skirts can be difficult to fit (especially in the rear with short skirts), since everyone is of a different proportion. For this reason, leather works fantastically as the natural material is highly elastic and forms to your shape like a second skin. You do not have to worry about unsightly gaps or awkward fitting with a leather mini skirt, but you will get plenty of practice shimmying and shaking for your man when you put on your mini skirt!

Star of Bethlehem...
...is one of the remedies in the Rescue Remedy. It is the remedy for the after-effects of any shock, such as unexpected bad news or an unexpected and unwelcome event. And it can be used just as well for the effects of a shock received many years ago, even very early in childhood.

This is also the remedy for the sense of emptiness and loss that sometimes occurs when a loved one dies or moves away, since this too can be a great shock to the system. Star of Bethlehem is the comforting remedy to give in such circumstances.

Dr Bach's description
For those in great distress under conditions which for a time produce great unhappiness. The shock of serious news, the loss of some one dear, the fright following an accident, and such like. For those who for a time refuse to be consoled this remedy brings comfort.

hello,
what is the dose you suggest for the bach flower remedies

SUMITRA

Dr. Bach declared that Bach flower remedies can be infinitely diluted as homeopathy medicines so use one drop or the whole bottle.

I personally do not believe in bach flower remedies but tell people if they want to make it they can make it at home.

Star of Bethlehem plant is available in big plant nurseries in most big cities, I have seen it growing in Bangalore too. Take some flower and put time in water and put the container in sunlight for one whole day and the remedy is ready.

Its bulbs can also be ordered online and planted in pots.

Is it possible to use any of the Bach remedies in so called "wet dose", e.g. 1 drop in 500 ml spring water? Does Bach remedies direct effect on physical organs (of course mind/thoughts can effects on organs)?

Muscular Lower Back Pain

One of the best ways to narrow down the possible causes of your back pain is to consider where the pain is located and what type of pain sensation you feel. Many people complain of lower back pain on either the right or left side. The following descriptions of causes may help you understand your pain better.

Pain on one side of the body may indicate a simple muscle strain. This type of pain is located in a muscle and may be felt as stiffness, soreness or an ache. Muscle strain occurs when a muscle is overworked or overstretched and suffers tears. They can occur in any number of ways throughout the day, such as twisting to the side and lifting an object.

Lower Back Pain Right Side - 2 Exercises

Chest raisers are common leg stretches to relieve pain in the low back area. Begin by lying on your back, knees bent at a 90 degree angle and your feet comfortably flat on the floor. Keeping your left leg in position, place your hands under your right knee and pull it as close to your chest as you can. Hold for 20 seconds before you slowly lower your foot back to the floor. Again, pay special attention to the location of your pain as you hold, but do not work the right side any differently from the left. Repeat 5 times with each leg. For additional resistance, extend one leg straight on the floor while you raise the other knee to your chest.

If done gradually and deliberately, you will experience relief of your lower back pain right side by focusing on the location of the pain as you stretch and exercise. Remember, stretches and back exercises are not meant to be painful. If you experience increased pain, especially on the lower right side, stop the exercise and consult with a doctor.

Lobaria pulmonaria 8417

STICTA PULMONARIA.
Natural order. - Lichenes.
Common names. - Lungwort.
Lung Moss.
General Analysis.-
Specific Symptomatology—This agent acts directly upon irritation in the chest, especially when complicated with irritation of the nerve centers.
Pain beneath the scapulae extending to the occiput, sharp pain with soreness above the scapulae, or in the shoulders, especially indicate Sticta.
As given by Felter and Lloyd in the American Dispensatory, the indications are as follows: Pain in the shoulders or in the back of the neck extending to the occiput, soreness or dull pain in the chest, or in the extrinsic respiratory muscles, which is increased by deep breathing. Irritation at the base of the brain, or in those organs or parts supplied by the pneumogastric nerve. Irritative cough; cough persistent and dry, of a rasping or wheezing character; short, sharp, hacking cough, with quick darting pains in the chest walls. They also advise it in the treatment of rheumatism, which involves the muscles and smaller joints. It may be given in hay fever, where the headache is severe, and in catarrhal disorders, where there is frontal tension, with sneezing, coryza and conjunctivitis.

It is given in the exhaustive cough of phthisis, bronchitis, and laryngitis. It relieves the cough and irritation in these cases and controls hectic fever, chills and night sweats.

Therapy—In coughs of acute bronchitis, with the indications named, it is useful; in cough, with wheezing and tightness—asthmatic cough, with the characteristic quick, sharp pains, it. is indicated. It also influences directly the post-nasal mucosa.

It is valuable in some forms of catarrh, especially if there is reflex irritation. It has been used in whooping-cough and in croupal coughs.

Sticta has been suggested in rheumatism where the muscles of the chest are involved, where there is sharp, quick pain on respiration or where the muscles of the shoulder are sore and tender, where the muscles of the neck are involved.

The remedy has been used in scarlet fever to good advantage, but we have no specific directions for its administration in these cases beyond those named.

It has a specific influence in the treatment of those forms of hay fever and in those attacks of influenza characterized by the discharge of a hot, irritating, watery mucous, which afterwards becomes thick, bloody, greenish or yellow.

The catarrhal disorders to which this remedy is applicable are characterized by headache, with tearing pains through the side of the face and lower jaw, with pressure in the forehead, at the root of the nose, coryza, conjunctivitis, soreness and dull pains in the chest.

Acts upon the mucous lining of the respiratory tracts, producing symptoms of a catarrhal character.

Characteristic symptoms.

Mind.- (Sticta pulmonaria)General confusion of ideas ; inability to concentrate them.

Head.- (Sticta pulmonaria)

Dull sensation in the head, with sharp, darting pains through the vertex, side of face, and lower jaw.
Dull, heavy pressure in forehead, and root of nose. (Acon., Kali bi., Phyt.)
Catarrhal headache before the discharge sets in.
Eyes.- (Sticta pulmonaria)
Burning in eyelids, -with soreness of the ball in closing the lids or turning the eyes.
Catarrhal conjunctivitis, with profuse, mild discharge.
Nose.- (Sticta pulmonaria)
Feeling of fullness and heavy pressure at root of nose (Acon., Kali bi.) ; tingling in right side of nose ; loss of smell ; dry coryza.

Acute catarrh of nasal passages ; influenza. (Acon.)
Constant need to blow nose, but no discharge results.
Excessive and painful dryness of mucous membrane ; secretions dry rapidly, forming scabs, difficult to dislodge.
Respiratory Organs.- (Sticta pulmonaria)
Dry cough ; worse evening and night ; can neither sleep nor lie down.
Severe dry, racking cough, caused by tickling in larynx and bronchia.
Incessant wearing, racking cough in consumptives.
Spasmodic stage of whooping cough.
Oppression of the chest.
Limbs.- (Sticta pulmonaria)
Darting pains in arms, fingers, joints, thighs, and toes.
Generalities.- (Sticta pulmonaria)
General feeling of dullness and malaise, as when a catarrh is coming on. (Gels., Hydras.), Legs as if floating in the air ; she feels light and airy, without any sensation of resting on the bed. (Asar.)
Therapeutic Range.- (Sticta pulmonaria)
Especially useful in catarrhal affections of the respiratory tract ; influenza ; whooping cough ; bronchitis ; phthisis ; conjunctivitis ; coryza.
Compare.- (Sticta pulmonaria)
Acon., Dulc., Hydras., Kali bi., Merc., Rumex, Sang.

How to Make STICTA PULMONARIA

Sticta Pulmunaria is found all over the world except in very dry places.

If cough arises from the throat, I use homemade Sticta.

Just remove some moss from the tree and crush it, add it to water and shake/bang it vigorously.

In South India it is used as spice. It is not really spicy but thoat feels like it is hit by a spice so spice lovers love it. Around Coorg it is harvested from the rocks and trees and sold in the market for the sole purpose of spice. Espaciallly in Biryani.

One can harvest sticta from any rock or tree but best if it comes from Oak or Maple trees.

STRAMONIUM
Thorn-apple

The entire force of this drug seems to be expended on the brain, through the skin and throat show some disturbance. Suppressed secretions and excretions. Sensation as if limbs were separated from body. Delirium tremens. Absence of pain and muscular mobility especially of muscles of expression and of locomotion. Gyratory and graceful motions. Parkinsonism.

Mind.--Devout, earnest, beseeching and ceaseless talking. Loquacious, garrulous, laughing, singing, swearing, praying, rhyming. Sees ghosts, hears voices, talks with spirits. Rapid changes from joy to sadness. Violent and lewd. Delusions about his identity; thinks himself tall, double, a part missing. Religious mania. Cannot bear solitude or darkness; must have light and company. Sight of water or anything glittering brings on spasms. Delirium, with desire to escape (Bell; Bry; Rhus).

Head.--Raises head frequently from the pillow. Pain in forehead and over eyebrows, beginning at 9 am; worse until noon. Boring pain, preceded by obscure vision. Rush of blood to head; staggers, with tendency to fall forward and to the left. Auditory hallucinations.

Eyes.--Seem prominent, staring wide open; pupils dilated. Loss of vision; complains that it is dark, and calls for light. Small objects look large. Parts of the body seem enormously swollen. Strabismus. All objects look black.

Face.--Hot, red; circumscribed redness of cheeks. Blood rushes to face; distorted. Expression of terror. Pale face.

Mouth.--Dry; dribbling of viscid saliva. Aversion to water. Stammering. Risus sardonicus. Cannot swallow on account of spasm. Chewing motion.

Stomach.--Food tastes like straw. Violent thirst. Vomiting of mucus and green bile.

Urine.--Suppression, bladder empty.

Male.--Sexual erethism, with indecent speech and action. Hands constantly kept on genitals.

Female.--Metrorrhagia, with loquacity, singing, praying. Puerperal mania, with characteristic mental symptoms and profuse sweatings. Convulsions after labor.

Sleep.--Awaken terrified; screams with fright. Deep snoring sleep. Sleepy, but cannot sleep (Bell).

Extremities.--Graceful, rhythmic motions. Convulsions of upper extremities and of isolated groups of muscles. Chorea; spasms partial, constantly changing. Violent pain in left hip. Trembling, twitching of tendons, staggering gait.

Skin.--Shining red flash. Effects of suppressed eruption in scarlatina, with delirium, etc.

Fever.--Profuse sweat, which does not relieve. Violent fever.

Modalities.--Worse, in dark room, when alone, looking at bright or shining objects, after sleep, on swallowing. Better, from bright light, company, warmth.

Relationship.--Compare especially: Hyoscy and Bellad. It has less fever than Bellad, but more than Hyos. It causes more functional excitement of the brain, but never approaches the true inflammatory condition of Bellad.

Antidotes: Bellad; Tabac; Nux.

Dose.--Thirtieth potency and lower.

STROPHANTHUS HISPIDUS
Kombe-seed

Strophanthus is a muscle poison; it increases the contractile power of all striped muscles. Acts on the heart; increasing the systole and diminishes the rapidity. May be used with advantage to tone the heart, and run off dropsical accumulations. In small doses for weak heart; it feels enlarged. In mitral regurgitation, where œdema and dropsy have supervened (Digit). Strophanthus occasions no gastric distress, has no cumulative effects, is a greater diuretic, and is safer for the aged, as it does not affect the vaso-motors. In pneumonia and in severe prostration from hæmorrhage after operations and acute diseases. After the long use of stimulants; irritable heart of tobacco-smokers. Arterio-sclerosis; rigid arteries of aged. Restores tone to a brittle tissue, especially of the heart muscle and valves. Especially useful in failing compensation dependent upon fatty heart. Hives. Anæmia with palpitation and breathlessness. Exophthalmia goitre. Corpulent persons.

Head.--Temporal pains with double vision, impaired sight; brilliant eyes, flushed face. Senile vertigo.

Stomach.--Nausea with special disgust for alcohol and so aids in treatment of dipsomania. Seven drops of tincture.

Urinary.--Increased secretion; scanty and albuminous.

Female.--Menorrhagia; uterine hæmorrhage; uterus heavily congested. Aching pain through hips and thighs during climacteric.

Respiratory.--Dyspnœa, especially on ascending. Lungs congested. Œdema of lungs. Bronchial and cardiac asthma.

Heart.--Pulse quickened. Heart's action weak, rapid irregular, due to muscular debility; and insufficiency. Cardiac pain.

Skin.--Urticaria, especially more chronic forms.

Extremities.--Swollen, dropsical. Anasarca.

Relationship.--Compare: Digit (but is slower than strophant in its action); Phos ac (weak heart, irregular pulse, fluttering sensation in cardiac region, palpitation during sleep, fainting).

Dose.--Tincture and 6x potency. In more acute cases, five to ten drops of the tincture three times a day.

Strychninum arsenicosum

General

Paresis in the aged, relaxed musculature. Prostration. Psoriasis; chronic diarrhoea with paralytic symptoms; compensatory hypertrophy of heart with beginning fatty degeneration; marked dyspnoea when lying down; oedema of lower extremities, urine scanty, high specific gravity, heavily loaded with glucose. Diabetes. 6X trit.

My sister who had filaria (elephantiasis) was cured by this medicine. That's all I can obtain about it. Anybody has more knowledge about it or can bring some more information for the good of all people visiting here.

Thanks.

| Re: Strychinimum arsenicosum | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | October 17 2007 |

Strychnine Arsenate.

Specific Symptomatology—Hale says arsenic acts upon the glandular system, and fluids of the body, while strychnine acts upon the nervous system. He advises it where the nutritive and glandular systems are involved to any great extent, with implication of the nervous system at the same time. This is found in paresis or mild forms of paralysis with edemic tissues, sodden, relaxed muscular structures, with anemia and tendency to dropsical conditions; great nervous weakness or prostration, with marked blood dyscrasia, chronic glandular induration, chronic ulceration, and the conditions of the mucous surfaces of the intestinal canal following typhus or typhoid fever and dysentery.

It is specifically indicated in the debility or nerve failure of the aged, and in the prostrating influence of severe disease in children. During severe fevers it will not antagonize the sedative influence of the antipyretics, but will brace the nervous system against the prostration that will follow when the fever is gone.

It antagonizes vasomotor paralysis in all cases. In spasmodic affections it is valuable. The author has given it persistently with sedative remedies in severe chronic cases of asthmatic bronchitis, especially in the aged, and cured them both permanently. It is indicated in a general way where strychnine is demanded, but has a special characteristic tonic influence.

It may be given in the asthenic stage of all prostrating diseases, except during the hours of the day when the temperature is increasing or stationary at its highest point. It strengthens the heart's action, and, like quinine, if given in the intermission of the temperature, or at the time of the greatest remission, it often prevents an increase of the fever and determines a continued lower temperature. It increases or intensifies the action of many stimulating, restorative or antiperiodic remedies.

(STRYCHNIA PHOSPHORICA)

This drug acts through the cerebro-spinal system upon muscles, causing twitching, stiffness, weakness and loss of power; upon circulation, producing irregularity of pulse, and upon the mind, producing lack of control, uncontrollable desire to laugh and disinclination to use the brain. Very irregular pulse. Tachycardia. Rapid and weak pulse. Useful in chorea, hysteria, acute asthenia after acute fevers. Symptoms worse motion, better rest and in open air. An excellent remedy in anæmia of spinal cord; paralysis; burning, aching, and weakness of spine; pain extends to front of chest; tenderness on pressure in mid-dorsal region; cold, clammy feet; hands and axillæ covered with clammy perspiration. Atelectasis and break in the compensation of a hypertrophied heart; the beginning of fatty degeneration of the heart muscle (Royal).

Dose.--Third trituration.

STRYCHNINUM PURUM
Alkaloid of Nux Vomica
(STRYCHNINUM)

Its primary function is to stimulate the motor centers and the reflex action of the spinal cord. Homeopathic to spasms of muscles, cramps from an undue reflex excitability of the cord, spasms of the bladder, etc. Strychnin stimulates the central nervous system, mental activities, special senses rendered more acute. Respiration increased. All reflexes are made more active. Stiffness in muscles and face and neck. Opisthotonos. Tetanic convulsions with opisthotonos. The muscles relax between paroxysms; worse slightest touch, sound, odor. Influences more directly the spinal cord and is less appropriate in visceral derangements than Nux. Tetanus. Explosive nervousness. The pains and sensations come suddenly and return at intervals.

Head.--Restless. Over-irritability. Full and bursting headache, with heat in eyes. Vertigo, with roaring in ears. Jerking of head forwards. Scalp sore. Itching of scalp and nape.

Eyes.--Hot, painful, protruding, staring. Pupils dilated. Sparks before eyes. Spasmodic contraction of ocular muscles; twitching and trembling of lids.

Ears.--Hearing very acute; burning, itching, and roaring in ears.

Face.--Pale, anxious, livid. Jaws stiffened; lower jaw spasmodically closed.

Throat.--Dry, contracted; feeling of a lump. Deglutition impossible. Burning along and spasms of œsophagus. Violent itching in roof of mouth.

Stomach.--Constant retching. Violent vomiting. Nausea of pregnancy.

Abdomen.--Sharp pain in abdominal muscles, griping pain in bowels.

Rectum.--Feces discharged involuntarily during spasms. Very obstinate constipation.

Female.--Desire for coitus (Canth; Camph; Fl ac; Lach; Phos; Plat). Any touch on body excites a voluptuous sensation.

Respiratory.--Spasm of muscles about larynx. Excessive dyspnœa. Sharp, contractive pains in muscles of chest. Persistent cough, recurring after influenza.

Back.--Rigitidy of cervical muscles. Sharp pain in nape and down spine. Back stiff; violent jerks in spinal column. Icy sensation down spine.

Extremities.--Limbs stiff. Rheumatism with stiff joints. Violent jerking, twitching, and trembling. Tetanic convulsions and opisthotonos; spasms provoked by slightest touch and attempt to move. Shocks in the muscles. Cramp-like pains.

Fever.--Cold chills down spine. Perspiration in a stream down head and chest. Lower extremities cold.

Skin.--Itching of whole body, especially nose. Icy sensation down the spine.

Modalities.--Worse, morning; touch; noise; motion; after meals. Better, lying on back.

Relationship.--Compare: Eucalyptus (neutralizes ill effects of Strychnin). Strych ars (Paresis in the aged, relaxed musculature. Prostration. Psoriasis; chronic diarrhœa with paralytic symptoms; compensatory hypertrophy of heart with beginning fatty degeneration; marked dyspnœa when lying down; œdema of lower extremities, urine scanty, high specific gravity, heavily loaded with glucose. Diabetes. 6x trit). Strych et Ferr cit (chlorotic and paralytic conditions; dyspepsia, with vomiting of ingesta; 2x and 3x trit); Strychnin nit (2x and 3x. Said to remove craving for alcohol. Use for two weeks); Strychnin sulph (Gastric atony); Strych valerin (exhaustion of brain-power; women of high nervous erethism; 2x trit). Compare: Cicuta; Arnica (tetanus).

Dose.--Third to thirtieth potency. For non-homeopathic use, to produce its direct physiological effects in paralysis the dose will range from one-fiftieth to one-twentieth of a grain, repeated three times a day. Under twelve years of age, one-fiftieth to one two-hundredth of a grain. Strych, hypodermically, is capable of arresting progressive muscular atrophy, and is a certain stimulant to the respiratory centers, and is useful in embarrassed breathing, in the course of pneumonia especially. Is an antidote to Chloral, used in asphyxia from gas and chloroform and early stages of Opium poisoning. Dose, one one-hundredth to one-sixtieth grain every three hours.

Your Dizziness Can Be Caused by Your Sinusitis
Sinusitis is always accompanied by numerous uncomfortable symptoms. Congestion, headaches, pressure and pain are the most common. Occasionally you may begin to feel dizzy. Sinusitis dizziness can be a distressing and debilitating symptom that can develop from your sinus infection.

Dizziness, regardless of the cause is a serious condition. It dictates a trip to your medical professional as soon as possible. Severe dizziness can cause disorientation and lead to serious injury.
How can your sinus problems be causing this symptom? By itself it generally can't but it can produce the conditions that create the dizziness.
Dizziness and Other Symptoms of Sinus Infections
In unique cases, dizziness can be life threatening. This is because it is related to a loss of balance, which can occur in situations that can prove dangerous, such as driving a car or handling heavy equipment. Sinus infections are treatable usually with over-the-counter products or prescribed medication. However, prevention is better than cure.
Although most sinus infections are easily treated, many would be surprised to know that simple procedures can help to eliminate the chances of ever contracting this infection. Since bacteria can be a main cause of this problem, it is advisable to keep hands away from the face as much as possible and always ensure that the hands are kept clean at all times.
Sinus infections are also brought on when the immune system is weak. In order to strengthen the immune system, try to eat healthy foods such as fruits and vegetables, or take proper supplements and vitamin tablets to further enhance the system. These simple steps can help strengthen the body against infections that can not only be uncomfortable but sometimes detrimental to your health.

SULPHUR
Sublimated Sulphur

This is great Hahnemannian anti-psoric. Its action is centrifugal-from within outward-having an elective affinity for the skin, where it produces heat and burning, with itching; made worse by heat of bed. Inertia and relaxation of fiber; hence feebleness of tone characterizes its symptoms. Ebullitions of heat, dislike of water, dry and hard hair and skin, red orifices, sinking feeling at stomach about 11 am, and cat-nap sleep; always indicate Sulphur homeopathically. Standing is the worst position for sulphur patients, it is always uncomfortable. Dirty, filthy people, prone to skin affections. Aversion to being washed. When carefully-selected remedies fail to act, especially in acute diseases, it frequently arouses the reactionary powers of the organism. Complaints that relapse.

General offensive character of discharge and exhalations. Very red lips and face, flushing easily. Often great use in beginning the treatment of chronic cases and in finishing acute ones.

Mind.--Very forgetful. Difficult thinking. Delusions; thinks rags beautiful things-that he is immensely wealthy. Busy all the time. Childish peevishness in grown people. Irritable. Affections vitiated; very selfish, no regard for others. Religious melancholy. Averse to business; loafs-too lazy to arouse himself. Imagining giving wrong things to people, causing their death. Sulphur subjects are nearly always irritable, depressed, thin and weak, even with good appetite.

Head.--Constant heat on top of head (Cup sulph; Graph). Heaviness and fullness, pressure in temples. Beating headache; worse, stooping, and with vertigo. Sick headache recurring periodically. Tinea capitis, dry form. Scalp dry, falling of hair; worse, washing. Itching; scratching causes burning.

Eyes.--Burning ulceration of margin of lids. Halo around lamp-light. Heat and burning in eyes (Ars; Bell). Black motes before eyes. First stage of ulceration of cornea. Chronic ophthalmia, with much burning and itching. Parenchymatous keratitis. Cornea like ground glass.

Ears.--Whizzing in ears. Bad effects from the suppression of an otorrhœa. Oversensitive to odors. Deafness, preceded by exceedingly sensitive hearing; catarrhal deafness.

Nose.--Herpes across the nose. Nose stuffed indoors. Imaginary foul smells. Alæ red and scabby. Chronic dry catarrh; dry scabs and readily bleeding. Polypus and adenoids.

Mouth.--Lips dry, bright red, burning. Bitter taste in morning. Jerks through teeth. Swelling of gums; throbbing pain. Tongue white, with red tip and borders.

Throat.--Pressure as from a lump, as from splinter, as of a hair.

Burning, redness and dryness. Ball seems to rise and close pharynx.

Stomach.--Complete loss of, or excessive appetite. Putrid eructation. Food tastes too salty. Drinks much, eats little. Milk disagrees. Great desire for sweets (Arg nit). Great acidity, sour eructation. Burning, painful, weight-like pressure. Very weak and faint about 11 am; must have something to eat. Nausea during gestation. Water fills the patient up.

Abdomen.--Very sensitive to pressure; internal feeling of rawness and soreness. Movements as of something alive (Croc; Thuj). Pain and soreness over liver. Colic after drinking.

Rectum.--Itching and burning of anus; piles dependent upon abdominal plethora. Frequent, unsuccessful desire; hard, knotty, insufficient. Child afraid on account of pain. Redness around the anus, with itching. Morning diarrhœa, painless, drives out of bed, with prolapsus recti. Hæmorrhoids, oozing and belching.

Urine.--Frequent micturition, especially at night. Enuresis, especially in scrofulous, untidy children. Burning in urethra during micturition, lasts long after. Mucus and pus in urine; parts sore over which it passes. Must hurry, sudden call to urinate. Great quantities of colorless urine.

Male.--Stitches in penis. Involuntary emissions. Itching of genitals when going to bed. Organs cold, relaxed and powerless.

Female.--Pudenda itches. Vagina burns. Much offensive perspiration. Menses too late, short, scanty, and difficult; thick, black, acrid, making parts sore. Menses preceded by headache or suddenly stopped. Leucorrhœa, burning, excoriating. Nipples cracked; smart and burn.

Respiratory.--Oppression and burning sensation in chest. Difficult respiration; wants windows open. Aphonia. Heat, throughout chest. Red, brown spots all over chest. Loose cough; worse talking, morning, greenish, purulent, sweetish expectoration. Much rattling of mucus. Chest feels heavy; stitches, with heart feeling too large and palpitating pleuritic exudations. Use Tinctura sulphuris. Stitching pains shooting through to the back, worse lying on back or breathing deeply. Flushes of heat in chest rising to head. Oppression, as of a load on chest. Dyspnœa in middle of night, relieved by sitting up. Pulse more rapid in morning than in evening.

Back.--Drawing pain between shoulders. Stiffness of nape. Sensation as if vertebræ glided over each other.

Extremities.--Trembling of hands. Hot, sweaty hands. Rheumatic pain in left shoulder. Heaviness; paretic feeling. Rheumatic gout, with itching. Burning in soles and hands at night. Sweat in armpits, smelling like garlic. Drawing and tearing in arms and hands. Stiffness of knees and ankles. Cannot walk erect; stoop-shouldered. Ganglion.

Sleep.--Talks, jerks, and twitches during sleep. Vivid dreams. Wakes up singing. Wakes frequently, and becomes wide awake suddenly. Catnaps; slightest noise awakens. Cannot sleep between 2 an 5 am.

Fever.--Frequent flashes of heat. Violent ebullitions of heat throughout entire body. Dry skin and great thirst. Night sweat, on nape and occiput. Perspiration of single parts. Disgusting sweats. Remittent type.

Skin.--Dry, scaly, unhealthy; every little injury suppurates. Freckles. Itching, burning; worse scratching and washing. Pimply eruption, pustules, rhagades, hang-nails. Excoriation, especially in folds (Lyc). Feeling of a band around bones. Skin affections after local medication. Pruritus, especially from warmth, is evening, often recurs in spring-time, in damp weather.

Modalities.--Worse, at rest, when standing, warmth in bed, washing, bathing, in morning, 11 am, night, from alcoholic stimulants, periodically. Better, dry, warm weather, lying on right side, from drawing up affected limbs.

Relationship.--Complementary: Aloe; Psorin; Acon; Pyrarara (a fish caught in the Amazon, clinically used for various skin affections). Lepra, tuberculides, syphilides, varicosities, etc.

Compare: Acon (Sulph often follows in acute diseases); Mercur and calcarea are frequently useful after Sulphur, not before. Lyc; Sep; Sars; Puls; Sulphur hydrogenisatum (delirium, mania, asphyxia); Sulphur terebinthinatum (chronic rheumatic arthritis; chorea); Tannic acid (Nasal hæmorrhage; elongated uvula; gargle; constipation). Magnes artificialis (great hunger in evening, profuse sweat on face, bruised pain in joints, rectal constriction after stool).

Magnetis polus Articus (anxious, coldness of eyes as if a piece of ice lay in orbit, increased flow of saliva, constipation, sopor, trembling, abdominal flatulence).

Magnetis polus Australis (dryness of lids, easy dislocation of ankle, ingrowing toe-nails, aching in patella, shooting in soles).

Compare in adenoids: Agraphis.

Dose.--Acts in all potencies from the lowest to the highest. Some of the best results are obtained from the higher, and not too frequent doses. The twelfth potency is a good one to begin treatment with, going higher or lower according to the susceptibility of the patient. In chronic diseases, 200th and upward. In torpid eruptions the lowest potencies.

|---|---|---|

1. Age/Sex/Country/Climate:
35/Female/USA/Cold and dry

2. Current complain - from how long:
Since 2002-allot of irritation and non-patient. I sweat allot w/odor

3. Current medicine you are taking:
none

4. Sign & Symptom of disease:
When I get nervous or around people, I tend to sweat allot. The only symptom of concern is I sweat allot, I get allot of tension headaches. My muscles around the neck are usually tense. Sometimes it can result into migraine neck headaches if I don't take care of it in enough time. Also, lower back pain.

5. Breif medical history:
I've been usually healthy all my life. I got a sexually transmitted disease when I was thirteen, ever since then I've had strong body odor and halitosis. I don't know if it had anything to do with it, or just hormones.

6. Family Back Ground:
I have bi-polar, schizophrenia folks in the family. I don't have this. I've also notice I have people in the family whom also sweat allot, too. I wonder if it runs in the family. Sweating, I don't like it. I think my confidence will be higher if It wasn't for that. High blood pressure and high cholesterol

7. Education and Nature of Profession of Patient:
My nature since I was 18 years of age, has been working in a office environment. I've been to college for some years. I notice the older I get, I cannot be around people who agitate me for very long. I know it's me, I try not to be so judgmental or irritated. I try to respect other peoples boundaries. Some times it's uncontrollable. It all depends if I'm tired or full of energy. When full of energy and feeling good, I do much better. It's hard to feel good every, every day.

8. Desires and aversion of food:
I don't desire to many foods. I love spicy foods and Chinese food. I can't eat pizza (too much bread and cheese together, I will wake up so irritated and my whole day will be bad the next day).

9. Mind-behavior, anger, irritability, hurry..etc.:
I've been having allot or irritability, get agitated easily, odors I cannot stand, very impatient, during PMS times it get's worse. I've been having this for a long time. When I decided to practice celibacy, this seems to be there all the time. Before, when I had a partner-it wasn't as bad, but still there.I get strange fear thoughts. If I feel good, I can control these thoughts but they are still there. Having turned to Christ, helps out tremendously. I can get angry very easily, irritated, always feel in a hurry, very impatient. I want other people to hurry, especially at the grocery store. Public speaking I don't like, unless I know everybody. I can't be in places where there is to many people. I think people look at me or talk about me. Strange huh. For love and affection, I like to be consoled at difficult times in my life. I was never like this in my twenties. I was always an independent person. Knowing I have Christ to lean against, it's made a world of difference knowing whom are creator is. I just can't shake this irritating behavior. I don't like to be clingy to people, but sometimes I can't help it to feel better.

10. What makes it worse and what makes it better:
If I eat healthy (veggies and protein) I feel okay. But once PMS starts, things go down hill. It takes me usually one week to get myself together after my period. What makes it worse is when I'm around irritating people. Or in a crowd of people that don't hurry up. I have no patience what so ever. I don't like being like this. Once in a few months I'll have a few drinks of Alcohol. This usually helps. I'm not an alcoholic and I don't use drugs to cover up feelings. I try and deal with it as it comes. When an agitating state or irritable state appears, I want to be completely alone. I've never been like this in my 20's.

11. Thirst/Tongue/diabetic...:
I get thirsty often. My tongue has a white coat and also has cracks. Never been diabetic.

SULPHURICUM ACIDUM
Sulphuric Acid

The "debility" common to acids shows itself here, especially in the digestive tract, giving a very relaxed feeling in the stomach, with craving for stimulants. Tremor and weakness; everything must be done in a hurry. Hot flushes, followed by perspiration, with trembling. Tendency to gangrene following mechanical injuries. Writer's cramp. Lead poisoning. Gastralgia and hypochlorrhydria. Purpura hæmorrhagia.

Mind.--Fretful, impatient. Unwilling to answer questions; hurried.

Head.--Right-sided neuralgia; painful shocks; skin feels pinched. Sensation as if brain was loose in forehead and falling from side to side (Bell; Rhus). Concussion of brain where skin is cold, body bathed in cold sweat. Compressive pain in side of occiput; relieved by holding the hands near the head. Pain of outer parts, as if there were subcutaneous ulceration; painful to touch. Thrust in right temple as if plug were pressed in.

Eyes.--Intra-ocular hæmorrhage following traumatism. Great chemosis of conjunctiva, with aching and sharp pain.

Mouth.--Aphthæ; gums bleed readily. Offensive breath. Pyorrhea.

Stomach.--Heartburn; sour eructations; sets teeth on edge (Robin). Craving for alcohol. Water causes coldness of stomach; must be mixed with liquors. Relaxed feeling in stomach. Averse to smell of coffee. Sour vomiting. Desire for fresh food. Hiccough. Coldness of stomach relieved by applied heat Nausea with chilliness.

Abdomen.--Weak feeling, with dragging into the hips and small of back. Feeling as if hernia would protrude, especially left side.

Rectum.--Piles; oozing dampness. Rectum feels as if it had a big ball. Diarrhœa, fetid, black, with sour odor of body, and empty faint feeling in abdomen.

Female.--Menstruation early and profuse. Erosion of cervix in the aged; easily bleeding. Acrid, burning leucorrhœa, often of bloody mucus.

Respiratory.--Respiration rapid with shooting in cervical muscles and movement of wings of nose; larynx moves up and down violently. Bronchitis in children with short, teasing cough.

Extremities.--Cramp-like paralytic contraction in arms, hands; jerking of fingers while writing.

Skin.--Bad effects from mechanical injuries, with bruises and livid skin. Ecchymosis. Petechiæ. Purpura hæmorrhagica. Livid, red, itching blotches. Hæmorrhage of black blood from all outlets. Cicatrices turn red and blue and become painful. Chilblains with gangrenous tendency. Carbuncles, boils and other staphylococcic and streptococcic infections.

Modalities.--Worse, from excess of heat or cold in forenoon and evening. Better, from warmth, and lying on affected side.

Relationship.--Complementary: Puls.

Compare: Arn; Calend; Led; Sep; Calc.

Dose.--Sulphuric acid mixed with three parts of alcohol, ten to fifteen drops three times daily for several weeks, has been successfully used to subdue the craving for liquor. For homeopathic purposes second to thirtieth potency.

Sweet Chestnut

...is the remedy for people who have reached the limits of their endurance, who have explored all avenues but see no way out of their difficulties, and who feel that there is nothing left for them but annihilation and emptiness. Whereas people in a Gorse state have fallen into a state of hopelessness when there are actually possible solutions all around, the person in a Sweet Chestnut state is genuinely at the end of the line: theirs is appalling, final despair.

The remedy helps people in this extreme state to remain masters of their lives and renew their hope and strength. And sometimes a way out may open even at this stage of life.

Dr Bach's description
For those moments which happen to some people when the anguish is so great as to seem to be unbearable. When the mind or body feels as if it had borne to the uttermost limit of its endurance, and that now it must give way. When it seems there is nothing but destruction and annihilation left to face.

This is a number one medicine in these days to treat malaria. Also showing potential to treat cancer.

I request all to find this herb in wilderness around you and also find out more about it on web search.

Thanks, Girilal.

Artemisia annua (or Artemisinin) is becoming a popular treatment here in the U.S. for Babesiosis (a protozoan disease similar to Malaria). Even by allopathic doctors!

Beware! Some supplies of this herb (or Artemisinin) being imported from China and other countries have been found to be severely contaminated or they are 'fake' herbs and not what they Eventually malaria will become resistant to this medicine too, unless given in herbal form instead of heavy doses.

When attacked by heavy doses, any bacteria survives, comes out resistant.

SYZYGIUM JAMBOLANUM
Jambol Seeds- Enlexing, active principle

Has an immediate effect of increasing the blood sugar, glycosuria results.
A most useful remedy in diabetes mellitus. No other remedy causes in so marked degree the diminution and disappearance of sugar in the urine. Prickly heat in upper part of the body; small red pimples itch violently. Great thirsts, weakness, emaciation.
Very large amount of urine, specific gravity high. Old ulcers of skin. Diabetic ulceration. The seeds powdered, ten grains three times a day; also the tincture.
Relationship.--Compare: Insulin-An aqueous solution of an active principle from pancreas which affects sugar metabolism. If administered at suitable intervals in diabetes mellitus, the blood sugar is maintained at a normal level and the urine remains free of sugar. OVERDOSAGE IS FOLLOWED BY WEAKNESS AND FATIGUE AND TREMULOUSNESS AND PROFUSE SWEATING.

Also called Jamun/Jamoon

Very effective in diabeties, This tree is found all over tropical and sub tropical world. I have seen this in Brazil and Australia.

Mostly inferior kind of dried fruit is used. In these days it is becoming poor man's diabeties medicine in India.

How to make Syzygium Jambolanum

Powder of dried whole fruit or just kernal is used. A word of caution, dose must be adjusted to the blood sugar lever or bloold suger may go way down.

Is the potentized product available and has it been used ?

If so does it have the same therapeutic characteristics of the powder ?

It is used as a mother tincture. Many Indian homeopathic doctors are prescribing this now a days and the results are very encouraging.

There are many patients who are trying this on their own and found that it effectively replaces the need for drugs like metformin.

However whether it 'cures' or not is yet to be seen. It is definitely established that a daily dose can help to keep the sugar levels down without the necessity of using the allopathic medicines.

Anybody who has reached the prediabetic stage will definitely get benefitted by it. That is the feedback I have at the moment.

Dear Gavinmurthy,

What starting dose (No. of Drops) of Syzegium tincture you would recommend for chronic Diabetes type II start with five drops in one ounce of water three times daily. You can raise it to 10 drops or more. But need to monitor regularly as its power to reduce the sugar is remarkable and can reach hypoglycemic conditions quickly if effective in an individual,. with best wishes.

Pls reply soonest.

Yes. Udaya's suggestion is correct.

I have been using it sporadically. Though I didn't take any measurments in the recent past, I can feel some difference.

The signs of insulin resistance like black patches in the arm pits, around the eyes, are getting reduced.

The slight burning sensation I used to have in the soles of the feet when starting to walk after long sitting too has vanished.

| Arnica 6c has helped hundreds of Diabetics | By: Joe De LiveraSri Lanka | September 17 2008 |

Although this may seem to be out of topic for this thread on SYZYGIUM JAMBOLANUM, I would like to record here that I have ample evidence that Arnica 6c taken twice daily in the Wet Dose has helped hundreds of patients who present Diabetes both Type I and Type II. The effect of this simple remedy which I have been promoting world wide for the last 5 years has helped almost everyone who uses it to reduce their dependence on the standard drugs like Metformin to control their Blood Sugar levels. I have been informed that even Type I Diabetics have been able to reduce and sometimes halve the units of Insulin that they had been taking, in some cases for over 25 years.

I discovered the incredible effect that Arnica has on Diabetes quite accidentally about 4 years ago when I gave it to a retired doctor who had been suffering from Type I Diabetes for over 10 years to help cure a non healing wound in his foot which had defied the dressings that he had been having for some weeks. He rang me up the following morning to report that his Blood Sugar had bottomed out in a manner that he had never experienced before after he took 2 doses the previous day. Since that time I have given it to hundreds of Diabetics and they have invariably reported that they too observed that their BS levels dropped within 6 hours of the first dose and that they were able to reduce their dependence on the drugs that they were taking for years.

I have advised them to take regular blood tests and to maintain a comfortable BS level of around 110 and to also use Cinnamon powder (Cinnamomum Ceylanica) dose 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoonful twice daily as a tea or sprinkled in food.

I am listing below some threads of posts on the ABC which pertain to cases that I have treated which may be of interrest to members:

http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/30

http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/37658/
http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/50413/

It would be of interest to evaluate Diabetics who use both Syzygium J and Arnica 6c to control their BS levels and if anyone tests this possibility, it would be appreciated if the effects are reported on this thread.

The Blood Sugar level you have recorded of your aunt is high and must be treated immediately with drugs. The standard drug that will be prescribed will be Metformin and she is advised to consult a physician for advice.

She can take Syzygium Jambolanum Q dose 5 drops in a tablespoonful of water twice daily with the Arnica.

I want to try Syz Jam Q with Arnica 6C wet dose, however it is not available where I live. I did not think to get any while I was in Sri Lanka in Nov. Searches on the web give available in the 3X liquid and upwards, but I can't find in the Q. Would 3x be okay? Or does someone know where I can buy the Q or the seeds to make Q? Thanks

Why don't you order it from Celltech whose address you will find at the top of this page?

What is your Blood sugar level and has the Arnica 6c helped you?

| | | |
| Re:SYZYGIUM JAMBOLANUM | By: dr.auntieKY USA | February 16 2009 |

Can't find SyzJam Q on Celltech, either. I checked there before and just now. My fasting BS is usually in the normal range 60-110. Sometimes during night BS gets too low, as low as 54 even 34 once, when I was not eating much in the evening; it wakes me up in time to eat something and get back to normal. But that started happening before I took Arnica in any form.
If you will recall I first started Arnica by using ointment for pain of herpes zoster, and that by a discovery at home. But I had quite a few low BS episodes even before that.
I take Glucovance 1000 2xday and lantus insulin 20-30 units 1x day and would like to get off of them. It's important to note that I think reflexology to hand helped much to lower my BS, so has SuJok seed therapy.
In another thread [anemia] you emphsized getting the ethanol pack of Arnica 6c. Thanks for that; it was time for me to order Arnica and I needed that clarification before ordering. Some is on the way.
Wish there were some way to easily cross post these multiple subject posts.

"I take Glucovance 1000 2xday and lantus insulin 20-30 units 1x day and would like to get off of them."
I believe that your problem is that you are overdosing yourself to a dangerous level with both Glucovance and Lantus Insulin and this results in "BS gets too low, as low as 54 even 34 once, when I was not eating much in the evening".

You are advised to check your BS level without taking any drug or Arnica for 24-48 hours to establish whether or not you require Insulin at all. After you have this data, you can then proceed to take the necessary drug with the Arnica to treat your problem.

You can order Syzygium J from Washington Homeopathic Products on 800 336 1695. I have this remedy but it will not be possible for me to send it to you in the liquid form.

Hi Joe,
checked Washington Homeo Prod--no Q.
I did find a source for the seeds. Would 10 be enough? How to prepare Q, or they also sell SyzJam tincture, would it be better to get that? Thanks, Elaine Hunter

Any remedy in Q = Mother Tincture.

This is precisely what you require.

I am surprised that WHP did not advise you about this. Suggest you complain about this lapse to Joe Lilliard who is the owner. You can mention my name if you like.

| Re: SYZYGIUM JAMBOLANUM | By: Joe De LiveraSri Lanka | December 2 2009 |

Your remedy is Arnica 6c in the Wet dose taken twice daily.

Instructions to make the Wet dose:

Arnica 6c in the 5ml Ethanol liquid pack with a dropper tip.
500ml bottle of Spring water (Bisleri)

Insert 3 drops into the bottle of water from which you have poured out about 100ml to leave space for air.

Shake the bottle to produce bubbles and sip a capful of the bottle which is the dose as prescribed, usually twice daily after shaking the bottle every time before each dose.

You should check your Blood Sugar level in 24 hours and you should normally discover that your BS level has dropped. If it drops down to 110 you do not need any drugs to maintain your optimum level but if it is higher than 120 you will have to see a doctor and he will most likely give you Metformin 500mg. You will take the tablet as prescribed with the Arnica 6c twice daily.

Exercise is essential to control BS levels and I note that you are maintaining strict control of your diet.

Please report your response to this therapy weekly on this Forum.

I am 67 years and suffering from diabetis type2 since 2002.I was taking glemipride4mg+pioglitozone15mg+volibo-0.3mg before breakfast,pioglitozone-15 mg+volibo 0.3mg before dinner and pioglitozone 15mg+ volibo 0.3mg before dinner as I get postprandials blood sugar levels above 300.After taking above medicines my blood sugar levels came to normal. But I got stomach discomfort.colic and burning pains in stomach.I went to a homeopath,who treated me thinking it as irritable bowel syndrome and could not give any relief. After that I went to a allopathic physician,he asked to discontinue volibo tablet for break fast,lunch and dinner dose. Also pioglitozone to dicontinue for lunch and dinner dose for 10 days.I was absolutely free from stomach trouble,During that 10 days I took syzygium jambolanum Q 15 drops with 6 table spoon water 3 times before 15 minutes of taking food.After 10 my blood sugar levels were checked and found 127 fasting and 367 after 2 hours of food. From the above it is clear that my sugar is controlled even after taking syzygium jamboanumQ.Now physician has presribed on 13th Nov glimipride 2mg+ metformin 500 mg before lunch and after dinner and pioglitozone 15mg morning.After taking for 4 days my stomach problems surfaced again.As syzygium jambolanum did not help me I stopped taking from 13th.Pl advice

TABACUM
Tobacco

The symptomatology of Tabacum is exceedingly well marked. The nausea, giddiness, death-like pallor, vomiting, icy coldness, and sweat, with the intermittent pulse, are all most characteristic. Has marked antiseptic qualities, antidotal to cholera germs. Complete prostration of the entire muscular system. Collapse. Gastralgia, enteralgia, seasickness, cholera infantum; cold, but wants abdomen uncovered. Vigorous peristaltic activity diarrhœa. Produces high tension and arteriosclerosis of the coronary arteries. Should prove the most homeopathic drug for angina pectoris, with coronaritis and high tension (Cartier). Constriction of throat, chest, bladder, rectum. Pallor, breathlessness, hard-cordlike pulse.

Mind.--Sensation of excessive wretchedness. Very despondent. Forgetful. Discontented.

Head.--Vertigo on opening eyes; sick headache, with deathly nausea; periodical. Tight feeling as from a band. Sudden pain, as if struck by a hammer. Nervous deafness. Secretion from eyes, nose and mouth increased.

Eyes.--Dim sight; sees as through a veil; strabismus. Amaurosis; muscæ volitantes. Central scotoma. Rapid blindness without lesion, followed by venous hyperæmia and atrophy of optic nerve.

Face.--Pale, blue, pinched, sunken, collapsed, covered with cold sweat (Ars; Verat). Freckles.

Throat.--Nasopharyngitis and tracheitis, hemming, morning cough, sometimes with vomiting. Hoarseness of public speakers.

Stomach.--Incessant nausea; worse, smell of tobacco smoke (Phos); vomiting on least motion, sometimes of fecal matter, during pregnancy with much spitting. Seasickness; terrible faint, sinking feeling at pit of stomach. Sense of relaxation of stomach, with nausea (Ipec). Gastralgia; pain from cardiac end extending to left arm.

Abdomen.--Cold. Wants abdomen uncovered. It lessens the nausea and vomiting. Painful distension. Incarcerated hernia.

Rectum.--Constipation; rectum paralyzed, prolapsed. Diarrhœa, sudden, watery, with nausea and vomiting, prostration, and cold sweat; discharges look like sour milk, thick, curdled, watery. Rectal tenesmus.

Heart.--Palpitation when lying on left side. Pulse intermits, feeble, imperceptible. Angina pectoris, pain in præcordial region.

Pain radiates from center of sternum. Tachycardia. Bradycardia. Acute dilatation caused by shock or violent physical exertion (Royal).

Respiratory.--Difficult, violent constriction of chest. Præcordial oppression, with palpitation and pain between shoulders. Cough followed by hiccough. Cough dry, teasing, must take a swallow of cold water (Caust; Phos). Dyspnœa, with tingling down left arm when lying on left side.

Extremities.--Legs and hands icy cold; limbs tremble. Paralysis following apoplexy (Plumb). Gait shuffling, unsteady. Feebleness of arms.

Sleep.--Insomnia with dilated heart, with cold, clammy skin and anxiety.

Fever.--Chills, with cold sweat.

Modalities.--Worse, opening eyes; evening; extremes of heat and cold. Better, uncovering, open fresh air.

Relationship.--Compare: Hydrobromic acid; Camph; Verat; Ars. Compare: Nicotinum (Alternate tonic and clonic spasms, followed by general relaxation and trembling; nausea, cold sweat, and speedy collapse; head drawn back, contraction of eyelids and masseter muscles; muscles of neck and back rigid; hissing respiration from spasm of laryngeal and bronchial muscles).

Antidotes.--Vinegar; sour apples. Camphor in the physiological antagonist. Ars (chewing tobacco); Ign; (smoking); Sep (neuralgia and dyspepsia); Lycop (impotency); Nux (bad taste due to tobacco); Calad and Plantag (cause aversion to tobacco); Phosph (tobacco heart, sexual weakness).

Dose.--Third to thirtieth and higher potencies.

TANACETUM VULGARE
Tansy

Abnormal lassitude. Nervous and tired feeling. "Half dead, half alive feeling" all over. Of use in chorea and reflex spasms (worms). Said to be a specific against effects of poison ivy.

Head.--Heavy, dull, confused. Headache with least exertion.

Mental.--Irritable, sensitive to noise. Mental fatigue, nausea and vertigo, worse in a closed room.

Ears.--Roaring and ringing; voice sounds strange; ears seem to close up suddenly.

Abdomen.--Pain in bowels; relieved by stool. Desire for stool immediately after eating. Dysentery.

Female.--Dysmenorrhœa, with bearing-down pains, tenderness, drawing in groins. Menses suppressed; later, profuse.

Respiratory.--Hurried, labored, stertorous respiration. Frothy mucus obstructs the air-passages.

Relationship.--Compare: Cimicif; Cina; Absinth. Nux follows well.

| Re:TANACETUM VULGARE | By: garcotBangalore | March 2 2010 |

An interesting writeup on Tansy from Paghat's Garden:

Though it is an insect repellant, it seems to be well liked by butterflies. It was a tradition among orchard farmers to plant it amidst the trees to discourage harmful insects without discouraging pollinators. In days before refrigeration, it was used as preservative wrapping for stored meats.

Formerly grown as a commercial crop providing volatile oils to be used for flavoring & in dubious health remedies, the thujone content made its use potentially unsafe. It was a medieval midwife "cure" for pregnancy since a sufficient dose can induce miscarriage.

Once popular as a tonic tea, the potential side-effect of death has placed it in lesser esteem nowadays. Steeped stems & leaves provided the traditional tonic, but overuse is sufficiently dangerous that at least one death has been ascribed to the use of tansy tea, & it more generally interfers with the efficacy of prescription drugs. It can be especially dangerous if ingested while taking anticoagulant medications, including aspirin.

So it is no longer well regarded for internal uses. Most of the quacky "herbal remedy" companies & misnomered "healthfood stores" when buttonholed by the law to justify their wild claims of various efficacies of all manner of stale plant particles, invariably admit they sell food supplements, not medicines, despite that so many advocates & vendors without even rudimentary medical knowledge (alternative or mainstream) have ready answers for each herb's purported healing power.

Herbs such as tansy which do indeed have powerful chemical components are not as likely to be offered for sale as are the more certainly worthless things, since tansy could very well put such hoodwinking vendors of MD remedies in the way of civil suits & prison sentences for injuring the health of users, if not for killing people. So instead of tansy, what you can get in healthfood stores nowadays is Feverfew (T. partheneum) which lacks the toxic thujone & though inconsequential as a curative is at least vastly more safely imbibed by the sorts of hypochondriacs who count on check-out tellers as their primary medical providers.

Tansy's active ingredients of camphor, borneol, & thujone give it its horrible taste & its capacity to ward off insects. New tender leaves are even so sometimes added to salads, with the warning that over use is harmful. The flowers in particular have a gingery taste, regarded as delicasies by some, while others find the flavor nasty.

When fully cooked, however, not only is toxicity neutralized, but the harsh edge of the flavor declines. It is a safe culinary spice so long as it is exposed to sufficient heat, such as in a hot frying pan, or baked in a custard or quiche. It can be dried for just such culinary uses, serving as a substitute for nutmeg, cinnamon, or ginger. A traditional Easter custard, no longer popular, was spiced with tansy & feverfew, in imitation of the Jewish Passover tradition of bitter herbs eaten as reminders of hardships in the wilderness.

Some garden-fresh herbs are a bit stressed at high summer & not as readily harvested for kitchen use (as in the case of Water Parsley too scruffy in summer for the table), or which get tougher in summer & less appetizing than they are in spring & autumn (as in the case of Salad Burnet). So it's nice to have tansy's July flowers for kitchen use. I have a very quick & easy way of using them.

As Granny Artemis & I are vegetarians, we sometimes have sausage-like "veggy patties" in the freezer. When I want to be healthy these just go in a toaster so as to require no frying in oil or butter, then I make a breakfast sandwich from the fat-free toastered patties. But when I'm feeling decadent, which is quite often, I fry them in butter. To gussy them up further, I trim a handful of yellow bachelor buttons from the tansy clump, & fry them in the same butter with the patties. Once the patties are good & fried & moved to a slice of bread, I poor the remaining tansied butter through a tea strainer onto a second bread slice & brush the butter thin. The fried buttons could themselves be eaten as part of the relish, but they are by then leached of flavor & I dislike the texture, so I use only the tansied butter & discard the fried buttons. A bit of lettuce growing near the back door for the purpose finishes off the hot sandwich. Tansied butter has a subtle flavor & none of the bitterness of the uncooked plant.

Tansy was also long used for embalming corpses & for funereal wreathes placed on the head of the dead, or hidden in the winding sheets to keep flies from attacking the corpse while it lay in state. Due to this grim association, tansy was rooted out of many New England gardens of the 19th Century as too mournful, even though it had formerly been one of the most essential & useful culinary & medicinal herbs grown in Colonial America.

The pungeant odor has long been associated with death. One might've guessed "Tansy" was a corruption of "Pansy" but the origin of the name is much more macabre than that. Even the Romans called it Tanacetum which means "Death," the name being pretty much the same as Thanatos, the Greek name of the land of the dead, or of a personification of Death. This was over the centuries corrupted into the modern English name Tansy, the French tanaisie, & the Spanish tanaceto, the plant essentially being called "Death plant" throughout Europe.

Taking Iron with Vitamins
Its not about diagnosing your problem but getting down to what's causing it. In this case taking a proper diet and also supplementation of iron rich vitamins for a short period to bring your iron blood levels to normal and then stopping the treatment as extra iron could lead to toxicity.

Supplementation with the right vitamin formulations. We are all different in our cellular body make-up. You will find that the iron levels will vary from person to person and also during the life cycle of the individual. What I mean by this is that iron deficiency is more prominent among women and will be seen more so in their early years. Women menstruating will have less iron than women not in their monthly cycle. Men do not necessary have iron blood levels that are low and do not have a similar problem as women. Men have to be careful that they select a multimineral that has no iron in it.
Take vitamins that have been tested and rated for their potency, purity, safety, bioavailability and balanced formulations. All supplements are not created equal and it is important not to go just by the recommendation of the chemist. Do some research of your own on this subject of vitamins tested and rated. You can access a lot of independent information out there for you to read on this subject. One such resource is "The Comparative Guide To Nutritional Supplements" by Lyle MacWilliam Bsc, Msc, FP. You will save not only money but your health will improve with high potency supplement products.

Thumb Reading Tips

The thump reading is an important segment of palmistry. Palmists determine a lot regarding the thinking ability and the mental power of an individual by reading his or her palm. A considerable part of the brain controls the movement of the thump. So, the thumb movements are influenced by the thought process of the individual. The following are some thumb reading tips to determine the psychological trait of a person.

o At a particular situation if you find a narrow gap between the thumb and the other fingers, you should know that the individual is thinking very deeply before performing an action.

o A medium sized gap between the thumb and the rest of the fingers would indicate that the person is in the process of balanced thinking and is willing to take up challenges if needed.

o A wide gap would suggest that the person is enthusiastic about performing the task and is confident in executing it efficiently.

In periodic table as well as character it falls in between Mercury and Lead.

Extreme poisonous and rarity of this metal did not provide many provings.

Sulfur, Mercury phosphorus etc provided more proving because these things are obvious available and exposure to people too was well known.

Same thing happened to Tellurium, Selenium, Polonium and Thallium etc.

No treatment regarding muscle wasting, or all neurological disorders and Fibromyalgia is complete without trying out Thallium.

Clinical features

The clinical features of acute thallium poisoning are shown in the table below, adapted from reference 1:

Time after thallium intake

Symptoms

12-48 h Nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, gastritis, duodenitis, pancreatic and parotid damage. damage

2-5 days Paraesthesiae, hyperaesthesia, headaches, respiratory depression, nystagmus (scanning movement of the eyes when they should be still), optic neuropathy (damage to optic nerves) and atrophy, myalgia (muscle pain), myopathy (muscle wasting), severe pain, loss of reflexes, convulsions, coma, delirium, acute motor neuropathy , dementia and psychosis.

2-3 weeks Characteristic changes at the bases of hair shafts, followed by loss of hair.

> 3 weeks Cardiac arrhythmias may occur for up to 2 months (due to damage to the controlling autonomic nerves or direct toxicity. However, if there is sinus tachycardia, this is probably due to increased catecholamine production.) Skin rash as in riboflavin deficiency.

| What is THIOSINAMINUM | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 28 2006 |

Thiosinamium is obtained from the whole mustard seed. Unrefined Mustard oil with pungent smell contains it but it is not easy to find any unrefined oil.

YES you can make THIOSINAMINUM at home. Use mustard seed paste.

Or best thing is to use Mustard sauce. Sauce obtained from Chineese stores is most pungent and best.

One drop of of Mustard Sauce or a pinch of mustard seed paste, mix it with 1 liter mineral/river/spring/bottled/canal/rain water (in a 2 liter bottle).

Clean empty Soda water bottle would be fine.

Shake/bang the bottle vigorously.

This gives you 3C potency. To make 6C drain out the bottle and without washing it add another 1 liter water. Just one drop hanging inside would be the base for next stage.

I recommend you to use 3c.

Edible Parts: Leaves; Seed.

Edible Uses: Condiment; Oil.

Leaves - raw or cooked[2, 4, 5, 52, 94]. The young leaves, used before the plant comes into flower, make a fine addition to salads[9]. The leaves are a cress and cabbage substitute[12], becoming peppery with age[172]. Leaves are usually available all year round, though they can also be dried for later use[12]. The leaves contain about 2.9% protein, 0.2% fat, 3.4% carbohydrate, 1% ash. They are rich in iron, calcium and vitamin C[179]. A zero moisture basis analysis is available[218]. The young flowering shoots can be eaten raw or cooked[264]. They are rather thin and fiddly but the taste is quite acceptable. They can be available at most times of the year. Seed - raw or cooked[94, 172]. It can be ground into a meal and used in soups etc[102, 183]. It is very fiddly to harvest and utilize, the seed is very small[85]. The seed contains 35% of a fatty oil[179]. This oil can be extracted and is edible[74]. The seedpods can be used as a peppery seasoning for soups and stews[183]. The fresh or dried root is a ginger substitute[85, 172, 183].

Medicinal Uses

Plants For A Future can not take any responsibility for any adverse effects from the use of plants. Always seek advice from a professional before using a plant medicinally.

Antiscorbutic; Astringent; Cancer; Diuretic; Emmenagogue; Haemostatic; Homeopathy; Hypotensive; Oxytoxic; Stimulant; Vasoconstrictor; Vasodilator; Vulnerary.

Shepherd's purse is little used in herbalism, though it is a commonly used domestic remedy, being especially efficacious in the treatment of both internal and external bleeding, diarrhoea etc[4, 222]. A tea made from the whole plant is antiscorbutic, astringent, diuretic, emmenagogue, haemostatic, hypotensive, oxytocic, stimulant, vasoconstrictor, vasodilator and vulnerary[4, 7, 9, 13, 21, 46, 147, 165, 172, 176, 222]. A tea made from the dried herb is considered to be a sovereign remedy against haemorrhages of all kinds - the stomach, the lungs, the uterus and more especially the kidneys[4, 222]. The plant can be used fresh or dried, for drying it is harvested in the summer[9]. The dried herb quickly loses its effectiveness and should not be stored for more than a year[9]. Clinical trials on the effectiveness of this plant as a wound herb have been inconclusive[244]. It appears that either it varies considerably in its effectiveness from batch to batch, or perhaps a white fungus that is often found on the plant contains the medically active properties[244]. The plant has been ranked 7th amongst 250 potential anti-fertility plants in China[218]. It has proven uterine-contracting properties and is traditionally used during childbirth[222]. The plant is a folk remedy for cancer - it contains fumaric acid which has markedly reduced growth and viability of Ehrlich tumour in mice[218]. A homeopathic remedy is made from the fresh plant[4]. It is used in the treatment of nose bleeds and urinary calculus[7].
Other Uses

Insecticide; Soil reclamation.

The seed, when placed in water, attracts mosquitoes. It has a gummy substance that binds the insects mouth to the seed[201].

The seed also releases a substance toxic to the larvae. ½ kilo of seed is said to be able to kill 10 million larvae[172]. Plants can be grown on salty or marshy land in order to reclaim it by absorbing the salt and 'sweetening' the soil[201].

Ref: http://www.pfaf.org/database/plants.php?Capsella+bursa-pastoris

Dosage: Though tradinally Q to 6c has been used, in the recent years, some homeopaths have successfully used it till 200c potency and found the remedy picture to remain the same and effective.

Some observations: It is very rich in Calcium,Potassium, Iron, and Vitamin C.

THUJA OCCIDENTALIS
Arbor vitæ

Acts on skin, blood, gastro-intestinal tract, kidneys, and brain. Its relation to the production of pathological vegetations condylomate, warty excrescences, spongy tumors is very important. Moist mucous tubercles. Bleeding fungus growths. Nævus. Excess of venosity.

The main action of Thuja is on the skin and genito-urinary organs, producing conditions that correspond with Hahnemann's sycotic dyscrasia, whose chief manifestation is the formation of wart-like excrescences upon mucous and cutaneous surfaces- fig-warts and condylomata. Has a specific antibacterial action, as in gonorrhœa and vaccination. Suppressed gonorrhœa, salpingitis. Ill-effects of vaccination. Sycotic pains, i.e, tearing in muscles and joints, worse at rest, better in dry weather, worse damp humid atmosphere; lameness. Hydrogenoid constitutions, whose blood is morbidly hydroscopic, so that damp air and water are inimical. Complaints from moonlight. Rapid exhaustion and emaciation. Left-sided and chilly medicine. Variola, aborts the pustule and prevents the suppurating fever. Vaccinosis, viz, inveterable skin troubles, neuralgia, etc.

Mind.--Fixed ideas, as if a strange person were at his side; as if soul and body were separated; as if something alive in abdomen (Croc). Emotional sensitiveness; music causes weeping and trembling.

Head.--Pain as if pierced by a nail (Coff; Ign). Neuralgia from tea (Selen). Left-sided headache. White, scaly dandruff; hair dry and falling out. Greasy skin of face.

Eyes.--Ciliary neuralgia; iritis. Eyelids agglutinated at night; dry, scaly. Styes and tarsal tumors (Staph). Acute and subacute inflammation of sclera. Sclera raised in patches, and looks bluish-red. Large, flat phlyctenules; indolent. Recurring episcleritis. Chronic scleritis.

Ears.--Chronic otitis; discharge purulent. Creaking when swallowing. Polypi.

Nose.--Chronic catarrh; thick, green mucus; blood and pus. On blowing nose, pain in teeth. Ulceration within the nostrils. Dryness of nasal cavities. Painful pressure at root.

Mouth.--Tip of tongue very painful. White blisters on side close to root, painfully sore. Teeth decay next to gums; very sensitive; gums retract. Drinks fall audibly into stomach. Ranula; varicose veins on tongue and mouth. Pyorrhea alveolaris.

Stomach.--Complete loss of appetite. Dislike for fresh meat and potatoes. Rancid eructations after fat food. Cutting pain in epigastrium. Cannot eat onions. Flatulence; pain after food; sinking sensation in epigastrium before food; thirst. Tea-drinking dyspepsia.

Abdomen.--Distended; indurations in abdomen. Chronic diarrhœa, worse after breakfast. Discharges forcibly expelled; gurgling sound. Brown spots. Flatulence and distension; protruding here and there. Rumbling and colic. Constipation, with violent rectal pain, causing stool to recede (Sil; Sanic). Piles swollen; pain worse sitting, with stitching, burning pains at the anus. Anus fissured; painful to touch with warts. Movements as of something living (Crocus), without pain.

Urinary.--Urethra swollen inflamed. Urinary stream split and small. Sensation of trickling after urinating. Severe cutting after (Sars). Frequent micturition accompanying pains. Desire sudden and urgent, but cannot be controlled. Paralysis sphincter vesicæ.

Male.--Inflammation of prepuce and glans; pain in penis. Balanitis. Gonorrhœal rheumatism. Gonorrhœa. Chronic induration of testicles. Pain and burning felt near neck of bladder, with frequent and urgent desire to urinate. Prostatic enlargement (Ferr pic; Thiosinaminum; Iod; Sabal).

Female.--Vagina very sensitive (Berb; Kreos; Lyssin). Warty excrescences on vulva and perineum. Profuse leucorrhœa; thick, greenish. Severe pain in left ovary and left inguinal region. Menses scanty, retarded. Polypi; fleshy excrescences. Ovaritis;

Respiratory.--Dry, hacking cough in afternoon, with pain in pit of stomach. Stitches in chest; worse, cold drinks. Asthma in children (Nat sulph). Papilloma of larynx. Chronic laryngitis.

Extremities.--When walking, limbs feel as if made of wood or glass, and would break easily. Tips of fingers swollen, red, feel read. Muscular twitchings, weakness and trembling. Cracking in joints. Pain in heels and tendo-Achilles. Nails brittle. Ingrowing toe nail.

Skin.--Polypi, tubercles, warts epithelioma, nævi, carbuncles; ulcers, especially in ano-genital region. Freckles and blotches. Perspiration sweetish, and strong. Dry skin, with brown spots. Zona; herpetic eruptions. Tearing pains in glands. Glandular enlargement. Nails crippled; brittle and soft. Eruptions only on covered parts; worse after scratching. Very sensitive to touch. Coldness of one side. Sarcoma; polypi. Brown spots on hands and arms.

Sleep.--Persistent insomnia.

Fever.--Chill, beginning in thighs. Sweat only on uncovered parts, or all over except head, when sleeping; profuse, sour, smelling like honey. Orgasm of blood in the evening, with throbbing in the blood-vessels.

Modalities.--Worse, at night, from heat of bed; at 3 am and 3 pm; from cold, damp air; after breakfast; fat, coffee; vaccination. Better, left side; while drawing up a limb.

Relationship.--Compare: (Hydrogenoid constitution: Calcar; Silica; Nat sulph; Aranea; Apis; Pulsat). Cupressus australis (sharp, prickling pain; general feeling of warmth; rheumatism and gonorrhœa). Cupressus Lawsoniana (acts like Thuja; terrible pains in the stomach). I have resolved many chronic cases of bloating and belching by raw thuja.

Do google to identify thuja.
http://images.google.com/images?q=thuja&hl=en

Chew a small twig each day after each meals. You will notice in the increasing of bloating for about 20 minutes and then a big burp.

If thuja is not found, any pine/cypress/spruce family twig can be used.

How to Make Thuja Occidentalis.

Cursh a small twig and put it in a half empty two liter water bottle. Shake/bang the bottle. Medicine is ready.

After about three days filter the water by a cloth and store the water in referegerator or add alcohol or any liquor to prevent fermentation.

Can Thuja cure elevated hormones in males.like FSH and LH???

| Re:THUJA OCCIDENTALIS | By: garcotBangalore | September 1 2009 |

Hello Baig,

Do you have a reason to believe, that Thuja cures elevated levels like FSH and LH etc...

Thuja is used infact in Prostatic hypertrophy, Prostatitis, Spermatorrhea, Urinary irritation etc....provided the symptoms of the patient matche that of homeopathic thuja.

Elevated hormonal levels are all the manifestation of a central disturbance in our bodies, which when corrected automatically eliminates the manifested symptoms.

Let us not treat the disease, but treat the man in disease.

Garcot

Garcot, Udaya is helping Mr.Baig son. He is same person which I asked the question from all u guys ( Udaya, Garcot, Joe ) u can read the question here, http://www.homeopathyandmore.com/forum/viewtopic.php?t=3090

Thanx for answering his question about Thuja.

| Re:THUJA OCCIDENTALIS | By: udaya kumar-- | September 1 2009 |

Yes Thuja can certainly do that. In fact, only Thuja can certainly do that. And thereafter Natrum Mur can correct the damages the cause of that elevated FSH and LH etc has brought-on in the body.

Garcot is hitting the nail on the head when he says "Elevated hormonal levels are all the manifestation of a central disturbance in our bodies," The questions are where the central disturbances takes place and why? The Central disturbances are caused in the Central Nervous system, in the Central Endocrine glands, the supply line to the Endocrine glands which is the genetic code and stem cells. Thus the problem has its orgin in the starting point of the development system of the body.

What is basically happening is in the case of Mr. Baig in your son is Hypogonadism. The Gonads did not develop. The Hormonal imbalances caused, the hormonal imbalances has its root in endorcrine glands, the endorcrine glands to the genetic and stem cell roots. What happens there and why that happens there and what is the role of Thuja is what we need to understand to spill the beans.

An auto immune problems happen there. An attack by friendly WBC on the very system happens there right at or after the birth. The intensity of the attack is proportional to the defects each child gains in the course of their development like Dwarfism, hypogonadism, autistic, Retts', Down's, Adrinal insufficiency and consequent Multiple cysts in ovary, and many many modern syndromes. Instead of a selection of species and improving upon the species from the parent, it makes a de-selection of the species, which is a negative trend towards apes and animals or towards less than man in mind, development, brain, consciousness etc. though the faculties and the body are given in complete order.

Why this happens ? : I have just said the reason in my other article yesterday. It happens because the memory of the WBC to recognize a intruder like polio after polio vaccination in the previous generation depletes to a level that the memory is a faded mosaic which cannot recognise between friends or foes. Rather it reaches a stage of recognising foes as friends in a span of twenty five or thirty years after the vaccination. This is the stage at which the genetic transmission takes place from parent on conceiving the child . Automatically the genes transferred is an extra bundle of miasms or receptiveness to diseases, a set of white cells which recognises mildly friends as foes and the child takes birth with the extra chromosome of miasms and toxins. When the new born child is again vaccinated against Polio, the vaccine joins hands with this unfriendly WBC which becomes the enemy of the human body. It starts attacking the stem cells itself. That is where all kinds of development problems which are increasing at multiple progression in all countries who have enforced vaccination.

Hypogonadism, spermatorrhea, prostatitis, hypertrophys and atrophys, scarring,hydrocephalus, and the kind of problems faced at birth are all a part of this autoimmune problem.

What is the role of Thuja: Thuja happens to be the only recognized medicine in homeopathy and for that matter among all systems of medicines which works against the ill effects of the Vaccination. Therefore, it tends to reverse the memory somehow of the RBC to normal by removing the toxic effects of the vaccine in the RBC.

Once it is reversed, automatically the attack and the progress of the autoimmune problem is arrested. Then the next step is to reverse the further damages caused in the body due to this problem. The fundamental damages caused are in the area of functions of SALT, CALCIUM, PHOSPHORUS, POTASSIUM and the like. That is where the second primary medicine of Natrum Mur or Common Salt steps in. Then Calcium to correct first the Thalmus, hypothalmus, thyroid, hypothyroid, and consequent metabolistic derrangements in synthesis of amines and neurons and assimilation defects. Once these are cured, the children would and should behave normally and start having sufficient development. Since Calcium and Phosphorus as bone and muslce building factors, the strength of the backbone, the tones of the muscles are all affected. This has to be taken care of. The Hypertonic, hypotonic factors and scoliasis etc. or the other forms of ailments accompnying. This invariably affects the teeth, the bones, and thus the height too. The child tend to be dwarfish. That is why I asked in my other thread what is the height of the child for which I have not received an answer.

I hope I have adequately clarified the position as far as what my mind tells me. You will not fnd these explanation and thought sequence in anywhere in any books as it is a product of my mind. with best regards.

If someone gets neck pain after taking Thuja 30C for three days, how have addressed.

It maybe be from past, but it seems much worse..can't sleep and difficult to move head in any direction.

It seem to happen after 2nd dose and now after 3rd it is quite bad.

In reading up on thuja to see if there was a relation...I observed this in the proving of thuja.

http://books.google.com/books?id=vVICAAAAYAAJ&pg=PA55&lpg=PA55&dq=stiffened+in+neck+and+feet+thuja&source=bl&ots=L3xJX-Shrf&sig=n3RdlvDmNu16AHCtv6AwxXUPQeM&hl=en&sa=X&ei=485YT9_OJIT00gHj4oDkDw&ved=0CC8Q6AEwAA#v=onepage&q=stiffened%20in%20neck%20and%20feet%20thuja&f=false

Can you advise. I was taking to address past vaccination (had Guillain-Barre syndrome at 4 yrs of age). I had herpes and continue to get once i a while. I am female and in my 50s...tjhis past year I got many cystic acne on my chin (I've had over one year and new one pop up and old still there -- a few healed with scars but not a many). I was hoping Thuja would maybe address this as well...it did not.

I am starting my Nat Mur....today was first day and planned to continue for 3 days. Do you think I need to address my neck..I am concerned that it may not work itself out on its own. Since taking Thuja, I am quite moody and my IBS has come back (two days now).

Thank you.

THYMOLUM
(THYMOL)

A remedy having a wide field in genito-urinary diseases. It is indicated in pathological emissions, priapism and prostatorrhœa. The provings show an action limited to the sexual organs, producing a typical sexual neurasthenia. Specific for hookworm disease (Chenopodium).

Mental.--Irritable, arbitrary, must have his own way. Craves company. Energy gone.

Back.--Tired, aching throughout lumbar region. Worse, mental and physical labor.

Male.--Profuse, nightly, seminal emissions with lascivious dreams of a perverted character. Priapism. Urinary burning and subsequent dribbling of urine. Polyuria. Urates increased. Phosphates decreased.

Sleep.--Awakes tired and unrefreshed. Lascivious and fantastic dreams.

Relationship.--Compare: Carbon Tetrachloride as a remedy for Hookworms, according to Dr. Lambert, Suva, Fiji who employed it in 50,000 cases.

"1. Carbon tetrachloride is a vermifuge and vermicide of great potency, and has shown itself to be the best vermifuge for the treatment of hookworm in a country where the disease predominates.

"2. It gives little discomfort to the patient, is palatable, required no preparation of the patient, and when pure is apparently not toxic-all of which features are of advantage in a popular campaign.

"W. G. Smillie, and S. B. Pessoa, of Sao Paulo, Brazil, also have found carbon tetrachloride to be extremely efficient in removing hookworms. A single dose of 3 Cc given to adults has been proved to remove 95 per cent of all the hookworms harbored".

Modalities.--Thymol. Worse, mental and physical labor.

Dose.--Sixth attenuation.

Wild thyme is a commonly used domestic remedy, being employed especially for its antiseptic properties and its beneficial effect on the digestive system. The whole plant is anthelmintic, strongly antiseptic, antispasmodic, carminative, deodorant, diaphoretic, disinfectant, expectorant, sedative and tonic. It is taken internally in the treatment of bronchitis, catarrh, laryngitis, flatulent indigestion, painful menstruation, colic and hangovers. It is said to be effective in treating alcoholism. It should not be prescribed for pregnant women. Externally, it is applied to minor injuries, mastitis, mouth, throat and gum infections etc. The plant can be used fresh at any time of the year, or it can be harvested as it comes into flower and either be distilled for the oil or dried for later use. The seeds are used as a vermifuge. Wild thyme contains all the medicinal properties of the more commonly used garden thyme (T. vulgaris), though in a lesser degree. An essential oil distilled from the leaves is used in the treatment of stress-related conditions, though it can cause allergic reactions

THYROIDINUM
Dried Thyroid Gland of the Sheep

Thyroid produces anæmia, emaciation, muscular weakness, sweating, headache, nervous tremor of face and limbs, tingling sensations, paralysis. Heart rate increased, exophthalmus and dilation of pupils. In myxœdema and cretinism its effects are striking. Rheumatoid arthritis. Infantile wasting. Rickets. Delayed union of fractures. In half grain doses twice a day over a considerable period said to be effective in undescended testicle in boys. Thyroid exercises a general regulating influence over the mechanism of the organs of nutrition, growth and development. Thyroid weakness causes decided craving for large amount of sweets.

Of use in psoriasis; and tachycardia. Arrested development in children. Improves the memory. Goitre. Excessive obesity. Acts better with pale patients, rather than those of high color. Amblyopia. Mammary tumor. Uterine fibroid. Great weakness and hunger, yet loses flesh. Nocturnal enuresis. Agalactea. Begin treatment early in pregnancy. Dose 1 1/2 gr. 2 to 3 times daily. Vomiting of pregnancy (give early in morning before patient gets up). Fibroid tumors of the breast, 2x trit. Dilates arterioles (Adrenaline contacts them). Sensation of faintness and nausea. Marked sensitiveness to cold Hypothyroidism after acute diseases, i.e, weakness. Easy fatigue, weak pulse, tendency to fainting, palpitation, cold hands and feet, low blood pressure, chilliness and sensitive to cold (Thyroid 1x3 times daily). Has a powerful diuretic action in myxodema and various types of œdema.

Mind.--Stupor, alternating with restless melancholy. Irritable, worse least opposition; goes into a rage over trifles.

Head.--Feeling of lightness in brain. Persistent frontal headache. Eyeballs prominent. Face flushed; lips burn. Tongue thickly coated. Fullness and heat. Face flushed. Bad taste in mouth.

Heart.--Weak, frequent pulse, with inability to lie down. Tachycardia (Naja). Anxiety about chest, as if constricted. Palpitation from least exertion. Severe heart pain; Ready excitability of heart. Heart's action weak, with numbness of fingers.

Eyes.--Progressive diminution of sight with central scotoma (Carbon sulf).

Stomach.--Desire for sweets and thirst for cold water. Nausea worse riding in car. Flatulence, much flatus in abdomen.

Urinary.--Increased flow; polyuria; some albumen and sugar. Enuresis in weakly children who are nervous and irritable (1/2 gr night and morning). Urine smells of violets, burning along urethra, increase of uric acid.

Extremities.--Rheumative arthritis with tendency to obesity, coldness and cramps of extremities. Peeling of skin of lower limbs. Cold extremities. Aching pains. Œdema of legs. Trembling of limbs and entire body.

Respiratory.--Dry, painful cough with scanty, difficult expectoration and burning in pharynx.

Skin.--Psoriasis associated with adiposity (not in developing stage). Skin dry, impoverished. Cold hands and feet. Eczema. Uterine fibroids. Browny swelling. Swelling of glands of stony hardness. Sluggish cases. Jaundice with pruritus. Ichtyosis, lupus. Itching without eruption, worse night.

Relationship.--Compare: Spongia; Calc; Fucus; Lycopus; Iodothyrine, (the active principle isolated from thyroid gland, a substance rich in Iodine and nitrogen, affects metabolism, reducing weight, may produce glycosuria. Use cautiously in obesity, for a fatty heart may not be able to maintain the accelerated rhythm. Milk contains the internal secretion of the thyroid). Thymus gland extract (arthritis deformans; metabolic osteoarthritis, 5-grain tablets 3 times daily). High potencies very efficient in exophthalmic goitre.

Dose.--Crude Thyroid at times; better sixth to thirtieth potency. If the crude Thyroid is taken (two to three grains or more daily); the pulse should be watched. Must not be given in physiological doses where with feeble heart there is high blood pressure and not in tubercular patients.

Hello! This is a receipt for a question you recently asked at allexperts.com, in category Homeopathy. Most of our questions were answered in 3 days. Thanks for using our service!

Your question was

"Hi,

I was dignosed with hypothyroid 5 years back and was put on 100 mcg thyronom.
When dignosed my tsh was 12.6 and swelling left goiter however with regular dose of thyronom it's within the limits now. I have joint and leg aches regularly and I do get depressed very easily,have dry skin however my weight is ok. I do not like that im so dependant on thyronom and would like to switch to homeopathy slowly. After reading several of your posts I decided to try thyrodium 200 and I immediately feel uplifted after having it.. have skipped thyronom and taken thyrodium 6x twice in the day..Not sure if its working or it's just psycological but I would really like to give it a serious try. Not sure of the dosage and how many times should I skip thyronom in a week... Also if I should add any other homeopathy. I'm desperate to get rid of thyroxine.. Would really appreciate your help.. Also is taking temperature every morning a good way to check tsh. Please help.
Thanks
Divya

TRINITROTOLUENUM
T. N. T.
(TRINITROTOLUENE)

Symptoms found in munition workers handling T. N. T who inhale and ingest it and also absorb some through the skin. They were compiled by Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft and published in the December, 1926 number of the Journal of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

The destructive action of T. N. T on the red blood corpuscles is responsible for the anæmia and the jaundice with their secondary symptoms. The hemoglobin is changed so it cannot act satisfactorily as an oxygen carrier and as a result we have breathlessness, dizziness, headache, faintness, palpitation, undue fatigue, muscle cramps and cyanosis; also drowsiness, depression and insomnia. Later stages of the poisoning produce toxic jaundice and aplastic anæmia. The jaundice is the result of cellular destruction in contrast to obstructive jaundice.

Head.--Depression and headache (frontal). Aversion to company, apathetic and weeps easily. Faintness, dizziness, mental sluggishness; delirium, convulsions, coma. Face very dark.

Respiratory.--Nose dry with stuffed sensation. Sneezing, coryza, burning of trachea, choking weight on chest; dry, convulsive cough, raising mucous plugs.

Gastro-Intestinal.--Bitter taste, much thirst, sour regurgitation; dull burning behind the ensiform; nausea, vomiting, constipation followed by diarrhœa with cramps.

Cardio-Vascular.--Palpitation, tachycardia, bradycardia, intermittent pulse.

Urinary.--High colored urine, burning on urination, sudden desire, incontinence and retention.

Skin.--Hands stained yellow. Dermatitis, nodular erythema, vesicles, itching and burning; puffiness. Tendency to hæmorrhage under the skin and from the nose. Tired pain in back of knees.

Modalities.--Worse, alcohol (falls after one or two drinks of whisky). Tea (marked aversion).

Relationship.--Compare: Zinc; Phosph; Cina; Ars; Plumbum.

Dose.--Thirtieth potency has been used with success.

| TUBERCULINUM Constituion/Personality | By: sammyMalaysia | September 23 2006 |

Tuberculinum is made of pus from a tubercular abscess. Although this does not sound very friendly it is a great and important medicine. It is used when there is a history of tuberculosis in the family, in the first stadium of tuberculosis in a patient, or when someone suffers from regularly ailments from the bronchial tubes (like asthma, chronic bronchitis, chronic colds or flues, or non-recovery from pneumonia). But: also when the symptoms of a person match with the image of this remedy.

Tuberculosis was a widespread disease in the 19th. Century. This was also the time of the Romanticism in the arts: romantic music, paintings filled with nymphs and books filled with romantic, feeble and longing characters. Many 19th century poets and writers found their inspiration in exotic regions and distant islands.

The homoeopatic Tuberculinum shows many similarities with both the personalities of the victims of tuberculosis as well as the characters in the Romantic arts.

An important feature of Tuberculinum is the endless longing for what is not there. There is a feeling of dissatisfaction with their present state, together with the romantic idea that something different - another time, place, situation, person, whatever...- will bring a change for the better. The famous line in the song "Tomorrow, tomorrow, I love you tomorrow, you're only one day away" is a typical Tuberculinum thought. The problem is, however, that tomorrow will always stay one day away. Tuberculinum personalities cannot get hold of their physical strength; a good health with a strong immune system seems to be out of reach. That makes it understandable that they hope that fulfillment of their dreams somehow falls down from heaven, or is already present in another time or place. Another characteristic of Tuberculinum is that they want these changes to happen immediately. "I want it and I want it now!" If the idea of, for instance, a removal to another city has captured their mind, they want to move today or tomorrow, but definitely not wait until next month. They have the feeling that life is too short to gather all experiences it offers. (Keep in mind that tuberculosis killed many young people, who were just starting to make the choices for their own life.)

Now what is Tuberculinum longing for? It can be emotional fulfillment, or the desire to live intense, adventurous and complete. It can be a strong health. But it can also be unclear to the person; it can be some sort of un-easiness, some nervous anxiety that drives him fort.

"I got to keep on walking to someone I love my faith in your reality keeps me walking on

It seems I keep falling
For someone somewhere
One single hope for someone real Keeps me hanging on."

(Song "Keep on walking" by Gino Vannelli)

Another song-text example of Tuberculinum-thinking is this one:

"On the dock her soul is sinking but her spirit longs to roar oh life, she cries
there must be more."

(Song "Oh life" of Alan Parsons, from the CD "Try anything once" - note that also the title of the CD fits in the Tuberculinum picture)

Throughout the whole image of Tuberculinum we notice a strong changeability and restlessness: changing moods, changing philosophies, changing desires, changing symptoms or alternating symptoms, thoughts moving in every direction, inability to concentrate on one single subject, desire for "something different" like exotic food or unusual activities, desire to travel, a desire to move the body and the mind, a change of study, job or profession without really finding satisfaction. Physical complaints often get better if the person moves. Tuberculinum can be very sweet, kind and tender, but - especially when ill - can also be very obstinate and destructive. They show an inconsistency in tempers, enthusiasm alternates with apathy, activity with passivity, etc. Children can have strong fits of temper, destroy their toys and curse, especially when they cannot have things their way.

Often Tuberculinums are fine, romantic, melancholic and artistic types. They are well known as thin, pale, always tired and easily fainting people, but also robust and fat people can need this remedy. After all, tuberculosis was a widespread disease, so there is a big chance of recognizing it in the family history.

Tuberculinum feels better in the mountains, in the woods and in warm dry air, and worse on the moist seashore. They are very thirsty and can eat a lot and still loose weight. They love ice cream, smoked fish and smoked meat. A strange symptom is sweating on their nose. There can be a fear and allergy for cats and dogs. Tuberculinums have a lot of problems with the bronchial tubes, a low immunity, inflammations of the ears and tonsils, chronic skin eruptions, long lasting diarrhea, chronic fatigue and allergies.

TUBERCULOSIS
Tuberculosis is a slowly developing infectious disease. Most of the times the tuberculosis-bacilli are spread by air through breathing from one human being to another human being. Infected cows through their milk can also carry the disease. Usually the lungs are affected, but the bacteria can also spread to the brains, kidneys or bones. If the immunity-system works correct the bacteria will be destroyed or surrounding connective tissue will isolate them. In that case the disease cannot harm you. In case of a low immune system however, when the person is weak, ill or poorly fed, the disease will develop itself into consumption. In this second stage the symptoms of tuberculosis are damaged lung-tissue causing difficult breathing and a dry cough with bloody sputum, a slight fever, and loss of weight and fatigue. If the disease is present in other parts of the body it will cause infections and loss of tissue there as well.

Bacillinum.

A nosode of tuberculosis named and first described by Dr. Burnett, for whom it was prepared from tuberculous sputum by Dr. Heath. As this preparation has been experimented with separately, I think it, on the whole, advisable to give its symptoms apart from the other nosodes of phthisis.

http://in.news.yahoo.com/242/20090812/1512/tls-indian-natural-herb-tulsi-to-fight-b_1.html

" Ayurveda, the traditional 'science of life', has a remedy for diseases when every other stream of medicine fails. Now, at a time when swine flu is spreading like wildfire across the world, Ayurveda has the remedy in the form of the miraculous herb, the basil leaves commonly known as Tulsi.

Coccinia Indica And Diabetes

Tulsi, the purest and most sublime plant, has been known and worshipped in India for more than five millennia for its remarkable healing properties. Considered as an 'Elixir of Life', this wonder herb has now been claimed to keep the deadly swine flu at bay and help fast recovery in afflicted persons.

"The anti-flu property of Tulsi has been discovered by medical experts across the world quite recently. Tulsi improves the body's overall defence mechanism including its ability to fight viral diseases. It was successfully used in combating Japanese Encephalitis and the same theory applies to swine flu," Dr U K Tiwari, a herbal medicine practitioner says.

Apart from acting as a preventive medicine in case of swine flu, Tulsi can help the patient recover faster.

"Even when a person has already contracted swine flu, Tulsi can help in speeding up the recovery process and also help in strengthening the immune system of the body," he claims.

Dr Bhupesh Patel, a lecturer at Gujarat Ayurved University, Jamnagar is also of the view that Tulsi can play an important role in controlling swine flu.

"Tulsi can control swine flu and it should be taken in fresh form. Juice or paste of at least 20-25 medium sized leaves should be consumed twice a day on an empty stomach." This increases the resistance of the body and, thereby, reduces the chances of inviting swine flu," believes Patel.

As its name suggests, Tulsi has again proved to be the 'the incomparable' medicine - this time, in the prevention and cure of swine flu.

The symptoms of the H1N1 flu virus in people are similar to the symptoms of seasonal flu and include fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, body aches, headache, chills and fatigue. A significant number of people who have been infected with novel H1N1 flu virus also have reported diarrhea and vomiting. The high risk groups for novel H1N1 flu are not known at this time, but it's possible that they may be the same as for seasonal influenza. However, Please consult a practitioner in case of any such symptoms. Doctors have strictly advised against self medication. "

| Re:Indian natural herb Tulsi to fight back swine flu | By: udaya kumar-- | August 16 2009 |

Considering the fact that the Chicken Gunya, Dengue and similar fevers are caused by Aedes albopictus or tiger mosquito which are striped black and white, smaller in size and live on juices of plants and grass and usually do not bite human beings, fly at lower levels and therefore bites are mostly on legs, it needs a greater evaluation whether these fevers are infact being spread from the plants itself as the moquito which drinks the juice which contains the toxins and virus of the ailment in the plant is being transferred to human beings. Eupatroeum is an example of like cures like and now you are mentioning about Tulsi which is yet another harbour to mosquitoes. It is more of toxins from these plants entering the body in material form rather than viruses. The speed with which the Eupatorium perfoliatum cures the body pain itself is proof of like cures like the same way as Cinchona cures Malaria through China Officianalis. Again a mosquito involvement. What do you say of this mysterious link between plants and mosquito and human beings Garcot?

Hi Udaya,

I really appreciate your extraordinary sense of simplicity in your logic. Yes, it makes a lot of sense, and I am wondering, how come I never thought in these lines.

mosquitos, which live in thousands in our house at chennai, always biting us and not once infected us with any fever of any kind. That seems to confirm your view.

Warm regards

Dear Garcot,

If AIDS can spread from Monkeys, if Flue can come from Swine and Bovians, if Anthrax can spread from Cows, if Rabies can spread from Dogs, if Plague can spread from Rats, I do not see any reason why bacteria and virus loaded ailments cannot be afflicted from Plants. It must be a combination of toxins of the plants which are infact impure form of Ethers like Quinine in Cinchona which has a hexagonal structure with molecular formula of hydrocarbons nitrogen and oxygen. $C_{20}H_{24}N_2O_2$ i.e. Ether it its second element stage with carbon.
The second one is Eupatorium which should probably contain Serotinine which has a molecular formula of $C_{10}H_{12}N_2O$ with similar hydrocarbons and both poisonous with alkaloids in it. The property of Ether is that it exists in impure form in plants as poisons to human beings, it exists in human beings as evils, sins and diseases and cause for sufferings. If we purify that it becomes purer ether which is healthy and health giving or capable of metamorphosing a morbid body to healthy state and that we call medicine.

Further look at Tulsi (Basil) has the following: cinnamate, citronellol, geraniol, linalool , methyl chavicol, myrcene, pinene ocimene, terpineol.

Ocimene ($C_{10}H_{16}$/Myrcene($C_{10}H_{16}$) Around a 60% derivative of Ether. Pinene which is a perfect hydrocarbon $C_{10}H_{16}$. Very close to pure form of Ether are some of those Ether components which makes Tulsi close to god and a holy plant. When these Etherial matters in the plants are ingested into human body through mosquitoes and if they are not sufficiently pure in their forms, they become either poisonous or toxic and gives the same side effects as all the medicines in allopathic system which have been taken from alkhaloids are renowned for their side effects. The side effects in allopathic medicines are the same as the effects of ingestion of these alkaloids directly into the blood stream by the mosquitoes. I need not stress on the kind of side effect the allopathic medicines are bringing on to the human race. These toxins with the virus which carries it to different parts of the body is what makes the ailment fatal and virulent. And when we potentise the same juices from the plants and use it as medicines they work as God and Anti Gods. Since there is God in the body in the form of white cells and pure ether, the antigods do not have a chance left and they retreat without a fight. The cure is thus effected. Where as in the conventional system the idea is of fight and kill which is damaging and leaves a trail of blood shed in the form of side effects.

I hope I am clear in what I am trying to convey. We need to look at the whole system of application of medicine to the body in a new lime light.

A new category of Plant induced ailments through mosquitoes have to be categorised. Do not kill the plants to remove the menace, use the plants to cure what has been brought on by them. That is what we are doing by using Eupatorium to cure Dengue and China to cure Malaria and Tulsi to cure what not.

with regards.

Turmeric is one of nature's most powerful healers. The active ingredient in turmeric is curcumin. Tumeric has been used for over 2500 years in India, where it was most likely first used as a dye.

The medicinal properties of this spice have been slowly revealing themselves over the centuries. Long known for its anti-inflammatory properties, recent research has revealed that turmeric is a natural wonder, proving beneficial in the treatment of many different health conditions from cancer to Alzheimer's disease.

Here are 20 reasons to add turmeric to your diet:

1. It is a natural antiseptic and antibacterial agent, useful in disinfecting cuts and burns.
2. When combined with cauliflower, it has shown to prevent prostate cancer and stop the growth of existing prostate cancer.
3. Prevented breast cancer from spreading to the lungs in mice.
4. May prevent melanoma and cause existing melanoma cells to commit suicide.

5. Reduces the risk of childhood leukaemia.
6. Is a natural liver detoxifier.
7. May prevent and slow the progression of Alzheimer's disease by removing amyloyd plaque buildup in the brain.
8. May prevent metastases from occurring in many different forms of cancer.
9. It is a potent natural anti-inflammatory that works as well as many anti-inflammatory drugs but without the side effects.
10. Has shown promise in slowing the progression of multiple sclerosis in mice.
11. Is a natural painkiller and cox-2 inhibitor.
12. May aid in fat metabolism and help in weight management.
13. Has long been used in Chinese medicine as a treatment for depression.
14. Because of its anti-inflammatory properties, it is a natural treatment for arthritis and rheumatoid arthritis.
15. Boosts the effects of chemo drug paclitaxel and reduces its side effects.
16. Promising studies are underway on the effects of turmeric on pancreatic cancer.
17. Studies are ongoing in the positive effects of turmeric on multiple myeloma.
18. Has been shown to stop the growth of new blood vessels in tumours.
19. Speeds up wound healing and assists in remodeling of damaged skin.
20. May help in the treatment of psoriasis and other inflammatory skin conditions.

Turmeric can be taken in powder or pill form. It is available in pill form in most health food stores, usually in 250-500 mg. capsules.

Once you start using turmeric on a regular basis, it's fun to find new ways to use it in recipes. My favourite way to use it is to add a pinch of it to egg salad. It adds a nice flavour and gives the egg salad a rich yellow hue.

Contraindications: Turmeric should not be used by people with gallstones or bile obstruction. Though turmeric is often used by pregnant women, it is important to consult with a doctor before doing so as turmeric can be a uterine stimulant.

Study finds that Turmeric Prevents and Treats Diabetes

March 24 2013
Study finds that turmeric Prevents and Treats Diabetes
by David Gutierrez

Turmeric has a long history of use in a variety of traditional Asian medical systems for treating a wide variety of ailments. Now, Western scientists are increasingly finding that this culinary root and its active ingredients may be potent weapons in the fight against diabetes. Indeed, it has been shown to be effective at nearly every stage of diabetes and pre-diabetes.

Biochemical activity
One of the earlier studies on turmeric’s effectiveness in diabetes prevention was conducted by researchers from the National Centre for Cell Science in India and published in the European Journal of Pharmacology in 2007. Researchers exposed pancreatic cells from mice to a stressor after first incubating some of them in a solution of curcumin for 24 hours.

Curcumin is the active ingredient that gives turmeric its orange-yellow color. Along with related chemicals, it comprises the family of curcuminoids.

The researchers found that curcumin-treated cells were significantly less damaged by free radicals and suffered significantly less damage than untreated cells. This has implications for diabetes because damage to the pancreas can interfere with its ability to produce healthy levels of insulin.

“We show here for the first time, that prophylactic use of curcumin may effectively rescue islets from damage without affecting the normal function of these cellular structures,” the researchers wrote.

Another study, published in the journal Nutrition in 2011, found that when people ate a meal high in turmeric and other spices, their blood levels of triglycerides and insulin decreased significantly, even when that meal was high in fat. Antioxidant activity in the body was also increased.

Diabetes prevention and treatment
It’s not just in the short-term that turmeric provides protection against diabetes. A study published in the journal Diabetes Care in July 2012 found that it may actually prevent prediabetes from developing into diabetes.

The researchers assigned prediabetic participants to take either a 250 mg curcuminoid supplement or a placebo every day for nine months. By the end of the study, not a single person in the curcuminoid group had developed diabetes, compared with 16.4 percent of the participants in the placebo group.

But even if you have already been diagnosed with diabetes, it’s not too late for turmeric to provide real benefits. A 2012 study from Harbin Medical University and the Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention found that people with Type II diabetes who were given 300 mg of curcuminoids each day for three months dramatically lowered their glucose levels and insulin resistance, as well as their levels of hemoglobin A1c and free fatty acids.

“This is the first study to show that curcuminoids may have an anti-diabetic effect by decreasing serum fatty acid possibly through the promotion of fatty acid oxidation and utilization," the researchers wrote.

Turmeric has also been linked to a number of other health benefits, including reducing the inflammation and oxidation damage that can produce chronic diseases including diabetes, heart disease and cancer; promoting healthy fat loss; promoting liver health; and reducing the risk of heart disease. Turmeric is also one of the most effective cancer-fighting foods.

Turmeric equals exercise in its ability to prevent aging

Turmeric equals exercise in its ability to prevent aging

Sunday, March 31, 2013 by: David Gutierrez, staff writer

(NaturalNews) A chemical that naturally occurs in turmeric root appears to protect the heart from aging as much as moderate aerobic exercise, according to a trio of studies conducted by researchers from the University of Tsukuba in Japan.

Turmeric root has been an important component of traditional Asian medicinal systems for hundreds of years. In recent decades, scientific studies have confirmed the potent anti-inflammatory and antioxidant properties of the trio of turmeric chemicals known as "curcuminoids," which give the root its distinctive yellow-orange color. Although only one of these chemicals is properly known as “curcumin,” the name is commonly used to refer to all of them collectively.

The three new studies all compared the effects of exercise and curcumin on heart health and postmenopausal women over an eight-week period. All the studies were randomized, double-blind and placebo-controlled. Curcumin was delivered by means of colloidal nanoparticles.

Can turmeric prevent heart disease?
In the first study, researchers assigned 32 women to either take a curcumin supplement, engage in moderate aerobic exercise training, or undergo no intervention at all. The researchers measured participants’ vascular endothelial function – the responsiveness of the layer of cells that line the blood vessels, a key indicator of overall cardiovascular health – both at the beginning and end of the study. They found that while there was no improvement in the control group, endothelial function significantly increased in both the exercise and curcumin groups. Most surprisingly, the improvement in the two experimental groups was identical.

The second study examined curcumin’s effects on the responsiveness of arteries to changes in blood pressure (“arterial compliance”), another key measure of cardiovascular health. In this study, 32 women were randomly assigned to receive either a curcumin supplement or a placebo pill, or to undergo an exercise routine plus either a curcumin or placebo pill. The researchers found no significant improvement in the control group, significant (and equivalent) improvements in both the exercise-only and curcumin-only groups, and the greatest improvement among participants who exercised and also took the supplements.

In the final study, researchers examined the effects of exercise and curcumin on the rate of age-related degeneration of the heart’s left ventricle. 45 participants were randomly assigned into one of the same four groups used in the second study.

The researchers once again found that both exercise and curcumin produced significant increases in heart health. In this study; however, curcumin alone did not appear to provide any benefit. Specifically, brachial systolic blood pressure (SBP) decreased among participants who exercised, whether or not they took curcumin. In addition, heart-rate-corrected aortic augmentation index (AIx) and aortic SBP both decreased significantly only among participants who both exercised and took curcumin.

“Regular ingestion of curcumin could be a preventive measure against cardiovascular disease in postmenopausal women,” the authors of the first study wrote. “Furthermore, our results suggest that curcumin may be a potential alternative … for patients who are unable to exercise.”

Curcumin is best absorbed from turmeric root, rather than from supplements.

Antiaris toxicaria

Antiaris toxicaria
Scientific classification
Kingdom: Plantae

Division: Magnoliophyta

Class: Magnoliopsida

Order: Rosales

Family: Moraceae

Genus: Antiaris

Species: A. toxicaria

Binomial name
Antiaris toxicaria
Lesch.
Antiaris toxicaria (Upas or Ipoh) is an evergreen tree in the family Moraceae, native to southeastern Asia, from India and Sri Lanka east to southern China, the Philippines and Fiji; closely related species also occur in eastern Africa. It produces a highly poisonous latex, known in Java as "Upas", from the Javanese word for "poison".

It is a large tree, growing to 25-40 m tall, with a trunk up to 40 cm diameter, often buttressed at the base, with whitish bark. The leaves are elliptic to obovate, 7-19 cm long and 3-6 cm broad. The fruit is a red or purple drupe 2 cm in diameter. The latex, present in the bark and foliage, contains a cardiac glycoside named antiarin, which is used as an arrow poison.

The name of the upas tree became legendary from the mendacious account (professedly by one Foersch, who was a surgeon at Semarang in 1773) published in the London Magazine, December 1783, and popularized by Erasmus Darwin in Loves of the Plants (Botanic Garden, pt. ii.). The tree was said to destroy all animal life within a radius of 15 miles or more. The poison was fetched by condemned malefactors as an alternative to immediate execution; the criminal had to wait till the wind was blowing from him toward the tree, get the poison and get back before the wind changed; scarcely two out of twenty returned. All this is pure fable, and in good part not even traditional fable, but mere invention.

How to make Uranium at home

Commercially Uranium Nitrate is available so it is potentized to make medicine. People rarely know that inner core of all rocks contain Uranium as well Thorium. Red granite rocks contains most of the homeopathy grade Uranium. But external surface of rock has exhausted uranium but giving away radiations so use inner portion of the stones.

1. Find some natural granite pebbles; make sure the rock pieces are reddish in color. Reddish rocks contain uranium.

2. Break the pebbles up with a hammer, use a small portion from the inner stone, and do not use any piece of outer crust. This would give you Uranium-10C (approximately). Semi Transparent Rock should give you Silica 6x-6c

3. Make sure the stones are dry, or just let them stay in sunlight for an hour or two.

4. Stones should be about 20 grams.

5. Now put the stones on a clean metal surface and beat the stone with hammer. In other way you beat up the rock real fine.

6. When you think you can’t beat up the rock any more you stop.

7. Put the powder in a one litter mineral water bottle.

8. Shake it and let it settle for 10 minutes.

9. After 10 minutes heavier rock will settle down at the bottom but water will be still murky because of the micro silica particles.

10. Remove top 1/3 of the liquid without shaking the bottle.

That is your medicine. Use two drops three times a day just like any homeopathy medicine. You may see the results in just two days. All homemade medicines cause wonders to happen.

VARIOLINUM
Lymph from Small-pox Pustule

Used for "internal vaccination." Seems to be efficacious in protecting against, modifying and aiding in the cure of smallpox.

Head.--Morbid fear of small-pox. Deafness. Pain in occiput. Inflamed eyelids.

Respiratory.--Oppressed breathing. Throat feels closed. Cough with thick viscid, bloody mucus. Feeling of a lump in right side of throat.

Relationship.--Excruciating backache. Aching in legs. Tired all over with restlessness. Wrists pain. Pains shift from back to abdomen.

Fever.--Hot fever, with intense radiating heat. Profuse, bad-smelling sweat.

Skin.--Hot, dry. Eruption of pustules. Shingles.

Relationship.--Compare: Vaccin (same action); Malandrinum--the morbid product of the grease of the horse (a prophylactic of small-pox and a remedy for the ill-effects of vaccination; chronic eczema following vaccination).

Dose.--Sixth to thirtieth potency.

VERATRUM ALBUM
White Hellebore

A perfect picture of collapse, with extreme coldness, blueness, and weakness, is offered by this drug. Post-operative shock with cold sweat on forehead, pale face, rapid, feeble pulse. Cold perspiration on the forehead, with nearly all complaints. Vomiting, purging, and cramps in extremities. The profuse, violent retching and vomiting is most characteristic. Surgical shock. Excessive dryness of all mucous surfaces. "Coprophagia" violent mania alternates with silence and refusal to talk.

Mind.--Melancholy, with stupor and mania. Sits in a stupid manner; notices nothing; Sullen indifference. Frenzy of excitement; shrieks, curses. Puerperal mania. Aimless wandering from home. Delusions of impending misfortunes. Mania, with desire to cut and tear things (Tarant). Attacks of pain, with delirium driving to madness. Cursing, howling all night.

Head.--Contracted features. Cold sweat on forehead. Sensation of a lump of ice on vertex. Headache, with nausea, vomiting, diarrhœa, pale face. Neck too weak to hold head up.

Eyes.--Surrounded by dark rings. Staring; turned upwards, without luster. Lachrymation with redness. Lids dry heavy.

Face.--Features sunken. Icy coldness of tip of nose and face. Nose grows more pointed. Tearing in cheeks, temples, and eyes. Face very pale, blue, collapsed, cold.

Mouth.--Tongue pale, cold; cool sensation, as from peppermint. Dry in center not relieved by water. Salty saliva. Toothache, teeth feel heavy as if filled with lead.

Stomach.--Voracious appetite. Thirst for cold water, but is vomited as soon as swallowed. Averse to warm food. Hiccough. Copious vomiting and nausea; aggravated by drinking and least motion. Craves fruit, juicy and cold things, ice, salt. Anguish in pit of stomach. Great weakness after vomiting. Gastric irritability with chronic vomiting of food.

Abdomen.--Sinking and empty feeling. Cold feeling in stomach and abdomen. Pain in abdomen preceding stool. Cramps, knotting abdomen and legs. Sensation as if hernia would protrude (Nux). Abdomen sensitive to pressure, swollen with terrible colic.

Rectum.--Constipation from inactivity of rectum, with heat and headache. Constipation of babies, and when produced by very cold weather. Stools large, with much straining until exhausted, with cold sweat. Diarrhœa, very painful, watery, copious, and forcibly evacuated, followed by great prostration. Evacuations of cholera morbus and true cholera when vomiting accompanies the purging.

Respiratory.--Hoarse, weak voice. Rattling in chest. Much mucus in bronchial tubes, that cannot be coughed up. Coarse rales. Chronic bronchitis in the aged (Hippozanin). Loud barking, stomach cough, followed by eructation of gas; worse, warm room. Hollow cough, tickling low down, with blue face. Cough comes on from drinking, especially cold water; urine escapes when coughing. Cough on entering warm room from cold air (Bryonia).

Heart.--Palpitation with anxiety and rapid audible respiration. Pulse irregular, feeble. Tobacco heart from chewing. Intermittent action of heart in feeble persons with some hepatic obstruction. One of the best heart stimulants in homeopathic doses (J. S. Mitchell).

Female.--Menses too early; profuse and exhausting. Dysmenorrhœa, with coldness, purging, cold sweat. Faints from least exertion. Sexual mania precedes menses.

Extremities.--Soreness and tenderness of joints. Sciatica; pains like electric flashes. Cramps in calves. Neuralgia in brachial plexus; arms feel swollen, cold, paralytic.

Skin.--Blue, cold, clammy, inelastic, cold as death. Cold sweat. Wrinkling of skin of hands and feet.

Fever.--Chill, with extreme coldness and thirst.

Modalities.--Worse, at night; wet, cold weather. Better, walking and warmth.

Relationship.--Compare: Veratrinum-alkaloid from seeds of Sabadilla.--(electric pains, electric shocks in muscles, fibrillary twitchings); Cholos terrepina (cramps in calves); Camph; Cupr; Ars; Cuprum ars (intermittent, cold, clammy sweat); Narcissus poeticus (gastro-enteritis with much griping and cutting pain in bowels. Fainting, trembling, cold limbs, small and irregular pulse); Trychosanthes--(diarrhœa, pain in liver, dizziness after every stool); Agaric emetic (vertigo; longing for ice-cold water; burning pains in stomach); Agaric phalloides (cholera, cramps in stomach, cold extremities, urine suppressed). Veratrine (Increased vascular tension. It relaxes it and stimulates the elimination of toxins by skin, kidneys, and liver).

Dose.--First to thirtieth potency. In diarrhœa, not below the sixth.

Veratrum Album

(Busy Depression, wander aroind)
1. Hopeful
2. High spirited
3. Desires to wander
4. Does not want to come home.
5. Religious insanity
6. Plainly tells the truth or never tells the truth.
7. Fears his position in the society
8. Delusion that he is in communication with God or Devil.
9. Delusion he is God or Christ.

Veratrum Album Desire to wander, high spirited and hopeful Tuberculinum Desire to wander but low spirit.
Hydrastis High spirited, hopeful but no desire to Wonder

A child was ADHD. He used to sing a lot but didn’t pay attention to teachers and was not able to put his mind in studies.
When his parents took him to market he usually got lost.

Veratrum Album cured him.

Kids who need this medicine are bright even progressive and restless to the point of extremely busy. Veratrum children touch everything in sight and always moving to their next challenge. They think they know it all and can be quite bossy, self righteous and given to debate. Some of these children hug and kiss inappropriately. Often chilly they may have very cold hands and feet which turn blue or white, Vomiting diarrhea they love cold food, drinks, ice, pickles, and fruit. If you go out with a Veratrum child, he may get lost or wander around.

VERATRUM VIRIDE
White American Hellebore

Paroxysms of auricular fibrillation. Induces fall of both systolic and diastolic blood pressure. Congestions, especially to lungs, base of brain, with nausea and vomiting. Twitchings and convulsions. Especially adapted to full-blooded, plethoric persons. Great prostration. Rheumatism of heart. Bloated, livid face. Furious delirium. Effects of sunstroke. Œsophagitis. (Farrington). Verat vir, will raise the opsonic index against the diploccus pneumonia, 70 to 109 per cent. Congestive stage and early manifestations of hepatization in pneumonia. Zigzag temperature. Clinically, it is known that such diseases as Tiegel's contracture, Thompson's Disease, athetosis and pseudo-hypertrophic muscular paralysis present a symptomatology quite like that produced by Veratrum vir upon muscular tissue (A. E. Hinsdale, M. D).

VERATRUM VIRIDE.

A narrow, well developed red streak right through the middle of the tongue.

Intense fever, with twitching and tendency to spasms.

Veratrum viride is another remedy which at one time had a great reputation in the first or congestive stage of inflammatory diseases, and especially in those organs coming under the control of the pneumogastric nerve, viz., pharynx, œsophagus, stomach and heart. For a time the journals fairly bristled with reported cures of pneumonia, and its curative power was attributed to the influence of the remedy to control the action of heart and pulse. It was claimed that if we could control the quickened circulation so as to decrease the amount of blood forced into the congested lung, that you thereby gave the lung a chance to free itself of the existing engorgement.

It looked plausible, and certainly in many cases remarkable cures were effected, and that in a short time. I was a young physician and thought I had found a prize in this remedy. But one day I left a patient, relieved by this remedy of an acute and violent attack of pneumonia, to go to a town five miles distant, and when I returned found my patient dead. Then I watched others treated with this remedy, and found every little while a patient with pneumonia dropping out suddenly when they were reported better.

Now we don't hear so much of Veratrum vir. as the greatest remedy for the first stage of this disease. What was the matter? 1st. It was (like other fads) used too indiscriminately. 2d. It is not desirable (it is wrong) to control or depress the pulse, regardless of all the other conditions. 3d. The patients, who had weak hearts, were killed by this powerful heart depressant. A quickened circulation is salutary, in all inflammatory diseases, and is evidence that the Natural power to resist disease is there, and at work. The pulse will come to its normality when the cause of its disturbance is removed and never should be forced to do so until then. Here is a common fault of the old school notwithstanding their cry of "Tolle causam." So I find fault with Guernsey's keynote, "Great activity of the arterial system; very quick pulse." Next to Digitalis, Veratrum viride slows the pulse, as is abundantly shown in the provings. If quick pulse is ever a result of this remedy, it is a secondary or reactionary effect, like the sleeplessness of Opium or constipation of cathartics. So it seems to me that as an antiphlogistic (forgive me) it must go into the shade with the once vaunted Digitalis.
Then what is Veratrum viride good for? Well, I do not think that its sphere is yet fully defined, or can be without further provings and verification. The provings are already carried far enough to show that it must be a very powerful and useful remedy. That it inflames the œsophagus or stomach is well known, as is the fact that it congests the brain and lungs, but what are the characteristic symptoms that will enable us to prescribe this remedy in preference to the other remedies that do the same thing is not so well known. One peculiar symptom I believe to be characteristic, and which I have verified in a very severe case of erysipelas, which was accompanied by great delirium, is "a narrow, well-defined red streak right through the middle of the tongue." Again I believe Veratrum viride to be one of our best remedies for spasms, twitchings and convulsions, but do not know of any very reliable symptoms guiding us to its selection in the individual case. I once cured a man of a very severe and persistent attack of vomiting, which was aggravated on rising, with this remedy. He had suffered from several similar attacks before, but never any after this one, now several years ago.

VERBASCUM THAPSUS
Mullein
(VERBASCUM)

Has a pronounced action on the inferior maxillary branch of the fifth pair of the cranial nerves; on the ear; and respiratory tract and bladder. Catarrhs, and colds, with periodical prosopalgia. Quiets nervous, and bronchial, and urinary irritation, and cough.

Face.--Neuralgia affecting zygoma, temporo maxillary joint, and ear (Menyanth), particularly of left side, with lachrymation, coryza, and sensation as if parts were crushed with tongs. Talking, sneezing, and change of temperature aggravate the pains; also, pressing teeth together. Pains seem to come in flashes, excited by least movement, occurring periodically at same hour in morning and afternoon each day.

Ears.--Otalgia, with a sense of obstruction. Deafness. Dry, scaly condition of meatus (use locally).

Abdomen.--Pain extends deep down, causing contraction of sphincter ani.

Rectum.--Many movements a day, with twisting about navel. Hæmorrhoids, with obstructed, hardened stool. Inflamed and painful piles.

Respiratory.--Hoarse; voice deep, harsh; sounds like a trumpet; "basso profundo". Cough; worse at night. Asthma. Soreness in pharynx, cough during sleep.

Urinary.--Constant dribbling. Enuresis. Burning urination. Increase with pressure in bladder.

Extremities.--Cramp-like pain in soles, right foot, and knee. Lower extremities feel heavy. Thumb feels numb. Neuralgic pain in left ankle. Stiffness and soreness of joints of lower extremities.

Modalities.--Worse, change of temperature, talking, sneezing, biting hard (inferior dental nerve); from 9 am to 4 pm.

Relationship.--Compare: Rhus arom; Caust; Platin; Sphingurus (pain in zygoma).

Dose.--Mullein oil, (locally, for earache and dry, scaly condition of meatus. Also for teasing cough at night or lying down. Internally, tincture and lower potencies). Enuresis, five-drop doses night and morning.

Vervain
...people are perfectionists with a keen sense of justice and extreme mental energy that they willingly throw behind those causes that they believe in. Their enthusiasm can be infectious, and they feel a strong need to persuade others to their own point of view.

At an extreme Vervain people can become fanatics, unable to listen to alternative points of view, and they may put themselves under a great deal of stress because they find it so hard to switch off and relax. The remedy is given to help people in this state to pull back from time to time so that body and mind and be restored. It encourages the wisdom to enjoy life and the passage of time instead of always feeling the need to be active.

Dr Bach's description
Those with fixed principles and ideas, which they are confident are right, and which they very rarely change. They have a great wish to convert all around them to their own views of life. They are strong of will and have much courage when they are convinced of those things that they wish to teach. In illness they struggle on long after many would have given up their duties.

VINE
dominance and inflexibility

The attitude for this personality is DOMINEERING. It belongs to the group, OVERCARE FOR OTHERS. These individuals can be overbearing, ambitious and suffer from envy. These feelings can sometimes lead to the onset of GASTRIC AND DUODENAL ULCERS and CORONARY ARTERY DISEASE.

The Vine person is convinced of his or her leadership abilities and therefore assumes overcontrol of others. The opinions and wishes of others are disregarded. That can be abusive and stubborn as well as goal-oriented and these individuals don't normally attend to their own needs.

There is a tendency toward egocentrism with tyrannical needs. Vine opens the goals of the Higher Self because this state was preceded by overattempts to fight back and is created by powerful inner tensions.

All you need flowers, rain/mineral/river/spring water and a transparent glass pot.

1 Soak the flowers in the glass pot.
2 Place the place the pot in the sunlight for whole day.
3 At evening remove the flowers and water is your remedy.
4 Remedy can be diluted infinite times but make sure to shake the dilution vigorously otherwise it is not a homeopathy grade medicine.

To preserve the remedy you can put some Ethyl-alcohol/whisky/grain-alcohol.

Rock Water is the water from any mountain river or rather homeopathy grade Silicea.
Or soad some granite rocks in water in sunlight for a day, that is your remedy.

Viola tricolor hortensis ( hybrid)

Ref: http://www.ibotanika.com/type/1484/viola-tricolor-hortensis

Viola tricolor is one of many plant species containing cyclotides. These small peptides have proven to be useful in drug development due to their size and structure giving rise to high stability. One such cyclotide, vitri A, found in Viola tricolor is said to contain cytotoxic characteristics. This feature means that it could be used to treat cancers.

As its name implies, Heartsease has a long history of use in herbalism. It has been recommended, among other uses, as a treatment for epilepsy, asthma, skin diseases and eczema. It has expectorant properties, and so has been used in the treatment of chest complaints such as bronchitis and whooping cough. It is also a diuretic, leading to its use in treating rheumatism and cystitis.

Other uses

The flowers have also been used to make yellow, green and blue-green dyes, while the leaves can be used to make a chemical indicator.

"wisdom in your body is deeper than your deepest philosophy"

Walnut Bach Flower Remedy

...is the remedy to help to protect against outside influences in general, and against the effects of change in particular.

Walnut types are people who are fulfilling their purpose in life but who under the influence of the opinions, theories or beliefs of others, or of external circumstances in general, may be led to doubt their path. They are not like Cerato people, who actively seek out the opinions of others, but instead may be affected almost despite themselves.

As a remedy against the effects of change, Walnut is useful at all the transitions of life, from being born to teething to going to school to puberty to marriage to childbearing to retirement and beyond. It helps to break links with the past so that the person can move forward with confidence and without undue suffering.

Dr Bach's description
For those who have definite ideals and ambitions in life and are fulfilling them, but on rare occasions are tempted to be led away from their own ideas, aims and work by the enthusiasm, convictions or strong opinions of others. The remedy gives constancy and protection from outside influences.

Yellow wasps are found everywhere and in the homes also. It makes its nest from the mud secreated by its saliva. People in africa and India use this dissolved mud from its nest. If a child is always vomitting, just lick some saliva to child.

My brother who lives in India, his son was always vomitting. Doctors's wanted to operate him to readjust his pylorus valve. Every remedy failed, even all homeopathy treatments failed. Poor kid was always bathing in his own vomit and was not able to retain anything in his stomach.

But this remedy cured him.

Black and yellow mud dauber gathering mud
Scientific classification
Kingdom: Animalia
Phylum: Arthropoda
Class: Insecta
Order: Hymenoptera
Suborder: Apocrita
Superfamily: Apoidea

Families
Some Sphecidae and Crabronidae

Mud dauber (or "dirt dauber" in the southern U.S.) is a name commonly applied to a number of wasps from either the family Sphecidae or Crabronidae that build their nests from mud. Mud dauber may refer to:

The organ pipe mud dauber, Trypoxylon politum (family Crabronidae)
The black and yellow mud dauber, Sceliphron caementarium (family Sphecidae)
The iridescent blue mud dauber, Chalybion californicum (family Sphecidae)

Mud daubers are long, slender wasps, the latter two species above with thread-like waists. The name of this wasp group comes from the nests that are made by the females, which consist of mud molded into place by the wasp's mandibles. There are three common species of mud daubers, each with distinctive coloring: the organ-pipe mud dauber (solid black coloring), the black and yellow mud dauber, and a stunning metallic-blue mud dauber with blue wings.

The organ-pipe mud dauber, as the name implies, builds nests in the shape of a cylindrical tube resembling an organ pipe or pan flute. The black and yellow mud dauber's nest is comprised of a series of cylindrical cells that are plastered over to form a smooth nest about the size of a lemon. The metallic-blue mud dauber foregoes building a nest altogether and simply uses the abandoned nests of the other two species

It is amazing, I have already tried it on a patient because the nest was just growing on the corner of my wall. It worked amazingly.

Actually the remedy Verspa Carbro also has rubric:
Nausea and vomitting followed by creeping chills from feet upward.

But Vespa Carbro is more focused upon the sting of the insect rather than upon his stomach contents from where this mud is secreated.

Yes indeed it is very effective remedy. It is used through out Africa and now making its way in Indian folks.

In USA every third baby is a vomitting baby or homeopathically we call 'Lycopodium baby' funny thing is that even lycopodium fails to stop never ending milk vomitting.

But this seldome happenes with using this remedy.

Of-course, as far as I know this remedy is not ancient but recently making its way in villages of Punjab. Probably someone brought this idea from Africa and since these wasp nests are found in all homes so people experimented with this and accepted this remedy.

WATER VIOLET

This type of individual can appear proud and aloof. The delusion of being "above others" and “special” is maintained. But there is a deep down vulnerability and loneliness that shies away from confrontation (NARCISSISM). The desire for attention fuels the feelings of grandiosity. Active engagement with others is avoided.

ISOLATION LEAVES THE INNER SELF EMPTY. Pride alienates others and it may be the unconscious need to keep others away because of fear. The state emerges from deeply held humiliations and offenses. So the offended decides to raise himself above the offender instead of possibly receiving the appraisal of their personality. One then becomes unapproachable and unassailable and must then withdraw to deal with their own problems in their own way. Teachers and healers are often WATER VIOLET.

Crank Case Oil

For the sake of humanity, I am posting this post here that was originally posted by girilal at another website.

Currently I am running clinical trials of potentized ‘Used motor/engine/crankcase oil’. So far I have concluded that it relieves dry skin symptoms. It is too early to say what other thing it works for.

Following are the known indications of used motor oil.

Carcinogenic upon prolonged used (especially skin cancer)
Exposure causes dry/flaked/cracked skin.
Irritant
Prolonged use causes arthritis.
And much more…

More indications can be seen at or at many other websites.

http://www.atsdr.cdc.gov/toxprofiles/tp102.pdf
TOXICOLOGICAL PROFILE FOR USED MINERAL-BASED CRANKCASE OIL

If anybody here has any experience with motor oil or wants to give it a shot, is welcome to comment here.

Here is how to make the medicine:

1. One can obtain two drops from motor-oil-testing-wire/stick from the car (dirtier the better) or visiting a mechanic and ask for used motor oil.

2. Put two drops of it in few spoonful of whisky/vodka shake it well till it dissolves in the liquor (it dissolves in liquor)

3. Have one liter water bottle and half fill it with rain/mineral/spring/river water. Or just remove off half water from one liter water mineral/spring water bottle.

4. Use two drops from the liquid from stage 2 and add it to a half filled one liter water bottle from stage 3 and shake it very well (at least 100 times).

5. Drain most of the water from the bottle except last few spoonfuls and half fill it again with more water. Shake it vigorously (at least 100 times)

6. Your medicine is ready to use. Medicine is dilute enough to cause any side effect. In case of any doubts one can dilute it further infinite times. Use it as any other homeopathy medicine. Two to three drops twice a day for dry/cracked/flaked skin.

People with Psoriasis, Eczema, and Arthritis should also try it.

This remedy came to my mind because anytime I touched dirty-motor-oil or just opened the hood of an automobile my fingertips cracked and also my skin went dry.

In almost all cases it resolved dry skin problems. I don't know how deep I may affect eczema but I believe it stands in the line with Petroleum and Graphites. All people can make and try this medicine.

I think Waste Motor Oil contains Mother-of-all-IC-engine-pollution-contents plus more.

As oil used in a crankcase, motor oil breaks down to a wide variety of oxygenated and aromatic hydrocarbons. Other organic compounds found in waste oil include toluene, benzene, xylenes, and ethylbenzene. Also present are organic and inorganic compounds of chlorine, sulphur, phosphorus, bromine, nitrogen, and metals such as zinc, magnesium, barium, uranium and lead.

That’s why I think it is a composite remedy. I urge you to make a medicine and use it and bring the results here, for the benefit of all people.

Another thing I have observed that almost all motor mechanics have prematurely grey hairs. Either waste oil causes grey hairs or it causes other ailment that manifests itself with graying of the hairs.

Thanks Pat, you save me time to organize my privious posts.

Yes Crank case oil turned out to ba a valuable remedy but still unknown.
Biggest thing I have noticed that it brings chronic problems to the surface. I have at least ten asthma patients, whose asthma is gone but now they have eczema, most of them are happy to trade off asthma with eczema.

Dear Girilal,
The direction of cure is always from "Inward " to "Outword".

i.e. from Inner Organs to the Outer Skin.
Some call it the "skin phase' of the cure of the disease.

This is "Hering's Law of Cure".

By further proper medication ..the eczema will also go away.

unwanted thoughts and mental arguments

In this state we can see constant mental chatter, even in bed at night, preventing sleep. These individuals can also suffer from INSOMNIA, FRONTAL HEADACHES, AND GRINDING LOWER JAWS.

This constant flow of chatter “blocks the soul's progress.” There is preoccupation and intense worry (OBSESSIVE COMPULSIVE DISORDER, IRRITABLE BOWEL SYNDROME, ULCERS AND INDIGESTION).

One sees an inability to stop anxiety and compulsive thinking as with the states resolved by PINE, CHERRY PLUM and CRABAPPLE.

All you need flowers, rain/mineral/river/spring water and a transparent glass pot.

1 Soak the flowers in the glass pot.
2 Place the place the pot in the sunlight for whole day.
3 At evening remove the flowers and water is your remedy.
4 Remedy can be diluted infinite times but make sure to shake the dilution vigorously otherwise it is not a homeopathy grade medicine.

To preserve the remedy you can put some Ethyl-alcohol/whisky/grain-alcohol.

Rock Water is the water from any mountain river or rather homeopathy grade Silicea.
Or soad some granite rocks in water in sunlight for a day, that is your remedy.

WILD OAT

Shows the inability to decide one's future course of life. There is a lack of motivation and a feeling of indifference as well as a lack of appetite.

This remedy is an excellent help for such problems such as HEAD INJURIES, MENTAL DISORDERS, RETARDATION, OBESITY, PEPTIC ULCERS, NON-INSULIN DEPENDENT DIABETES, AND PHYSICAL ILLNESSES DUE TO LACK OF KNOWLEDGE, or DISINTEREST IN THE BODY.

One can experience aimlessness because of a lack of purpose in life, boredom and lack of concentration. Children can lose interest in school and play, like CERATO, HORNBEAM, GORSE, GENTIAN and SCLERANTHUS. These individuals start many things and are good at them but can't decide.

It is an excessively self-centered personality. There is a need for depth and breadth to tap into intuition, and like HOLLY, it is a

WILD ROSE

There is a deep sense of HOPELESSNESS. This individual lives in a fixed state of “negative personality.” A deep misunderstanding develops during the first days of life or from earlier existences and initiative is abandoned. There is resignation in regard to inner and outer life. The soul feels deserted and abandoned, as though hungry and there is no one there to attend to its needs.

The person is half dead. As in chronic illness or a “stuck” marriage, the person is beyond depression, but instead there is resigned acceptance. These individuals can be boring and tiresome. This remedy can also be used when processing EARLY CHILDHOOD, in psychotherapy. Wild Rose belongs to the group, LACK OF INTEREST IN PRESENT CIRCUMSTANCES.

One sees a lack of energy as well as a “flat affect”; it can be used in MENTAL ILLNESS, such as SCHIZOPHRENIC STATES, DEVELOPMENTAL DISORDERS, PSYCHOSIS, and SCHIZOID PERSONALITY where passivity is the major emotional presentation. There is a disinterest in fighting for health and a withdrawal from reality to protect the emotional life.

There is no joy in wishes or dreams. The personality becomes chronically entrenched in TERMINAL ILLNESS or DISABILITY

Rosa Canina
The Wild Rose state isn't one of despair or depression. In these conditions there is still an awareness that, while one's life is miserable, that there was a time when it wasn't, and there is, however deeply buried, the hope that it will again be so.

In the Wild Rose condition hope itself is barely a memory. It is a state of complete resignation to one's fate.

Sometimes this is a temporary condition. It can occur following a period of intense personal growth or concentrated creative activity. It is a common state at certain phases of therapy or counseling, usually those stages when people become aware how deep-rooted the belief and behavior patterns they follow are.

As a chronic condition, it is often caused by a child being habitually neglected, especially during the months of infancy. When one's needs aren't met at this time the self-protective response is often to abandon need and sink into a vegetative state.

The Wild Rose state is expressed in such key phrases as:

"Why should I change my job? One will be just as bad as another."

"I can't do anything about my bad health; it's hereditary."

Whether temporary or chronic, the condition is generally characterized by boredom and a state of low energy.

This condition is insidious, for the more someone believes that his life is hopeless the more he shuts himself off from seeing any possibility for hope. The world is viewed through a filter which reinforces a state of resignation.

An individual in this condition needs a jump start, and the Wild Rose Essence provides it. People who need it may need to prepared to take it on a long-term basis, at least for longer than for other Essences, because the person who needs it has created many insulating layers against reasons for optimism.

Often, the changes are gradual, almost imperceptible at first. The person feels herself awakening, as after a deep sleep. At first the limbs are stiff, the mind fuzzy, but in time a sense of vitality returns, and a feeling of anticipation, as life again becomes worth living.

I was in touch with and purchased many books from a Dr. Krishnamurthy many years ago, and then again last year. He is known for his unorthodox ways of using Bach flower remedies. He's come up with his own combinations, and wild rose is in several of them. For example, he recommends taking wild rose and sweet chestnut 2 doses/day, twice a week for obtaining wealth. It didn't work for me, but who knows? Even though I personally never benefited from any of his prescriptions, I do think that Dr. K is a good teacher. My husband calls him a "coook", and he's been maligned by a lot of other homeopaths also, but I heard that he has a very busy practice in Bangalore.

So, there's room for all possibilities and for all of us!

shen10,
Bach Flower remedies will help you if your mental states match with the negative state of the remedies. Otherwise, you may not stand to gain.

Negative Wild Rose, Sweet Chestnut are truly hopeless states in that - Wild Rose is one of utter resignation to his/her condition - that things will never improve - that the other option(s) will be equally bad or worse than the present option, what is the use ... therefore such people might not make any effort to improve. It is a very difficult mental state both to diagnose and to come out of.

Negative Sweet Chestnut state Oh my God is a difficult state. To cite an example, it is similar to someone who has lost everything (all his luggage, money, phone, documents, keys) while on a trip and no one around to turn to for help. He is truly at the end of the line. This remedy corresponds to a state of deepest anguish having tried everything and failed. he can imagine only destruction and annihilation waiting for him - nothing better. The Gorse state is also one of hopelessness - but he can be encouraged to try something else and he will come out of that state - but not the Sweet Chestnut - it is more of an ABJECT DESPAIR state.

Only if you are in similar mental states, you will stand to benefit from these remedies. If you read Dr K's notes further, he mentions that those who are of a particular remedy type or have that mental state will stand to benefit greatly by taking that remedy - but everyone is not of the particular remedy type or mental state - therefore, such people can see what the person of this remedy type does in the positive mental state and imitate that. Then they too will succeed.

Owing to the exorbitantly high fees charged, very few people actually approach Dr K for treatment - I have visited his house at Chennai several times - but never found even one patient. I myself benefitted greatly from his Homeo and BFR treatment - but I had to stop as I could no longer afford his fees.

Hi Rams,

I first studied Bach flower remedies in my early twenties, decades ago, so I'm aware that the mental state has to match. In fact, that is the sole basis of diagnosis in this method. I'm very fond of this system and I've had good results here and there.

Only Dr. K, to my knowledge, has come up with the kind of concoctions he did with the Bach flowers, and the purposes for which he recommends. them. I'm not saying that there's anything wrong with that; may be it works, like if did for you.

He is indeed very expensive, and he charged me even more because I live in the US. I've never met him, but had others purchase books and medicines from him for me. From his writings, he certainly seems to have a good understanding of homeopathy, but his remedy suggestions did not work for me or my son.

Still, I like to always learn something new, and I think it's interesting to read about his methods. He came up with a set of remedies that he calls New Bach Flower remedies, and the uses for these remedies ranges from acquiring wealth to repelling mosquitoes, as well as physical ailments. I remember reading about a remedy that even brings the power back when the power goes out. I purchased some of his new bach remedies, but they didn't work well for me. May be I'll try them again, it's been a while.

Even though he took a lot of money from me, and my husband makes fun of him, I'm grateful to Dr. K because early in my homeopathic studies, he recommended good books and gave me some of his articles.

shen10,
Nice to hear of your knowledge of BFR which you acquired decades ago. I do hope you will share more of it in helping patients out on this forum.

Dr K's approach SEEMS very different on the surface - as you go deeper, you realize what he is talking about. As you know, the Indian dealings are all very subtle - they may not tell you what the exact feeling is - it has to be inferred from their speech, expressions, mannerisms. This is unlike in the West, where people are more likely to tell you that they are depressed or low on confidence etc. As you are aware, in India, a majority will never accept their condition (mental / emotional state) to be so.. This is what warrants an alternate approach. So the mental states have to be inferred from the words, expressions etc. (Dr K's writings are more extensive in Tamil language than in English - when I approached him for his Notes on BFR in English he himself told me it would be better to buy his Tamil notes on BFR.....) He has merely adapted the flowers to the Indian scenario - he understands the Indian psyche extremely well - I am told his brilliance is better understood / appreciated if one reads his notes in Tamil language. His strength lies in translating the expressions, mannerisms, words spoken by the patient to the corresponding remedies. He is a keen observer.

As for his New BFR, I do not believe in them - because, I have seen the SAME case history at two different places in his notes (the names, places, time, incidents are all IDENTICAL) with merely the name of the flower changed to that of the New BFR - so it is not very convincing.

I was given expert homeopathic treatment along with a few BFR which seemed to really help me. I was under the impression (which I gathered from his writings) that he prescribes only to walk-in patients. He says he does not like treating patients online or over phone etc. He also seems to be very averse to computers. He sure has an eye out for money, as your husband says. He is a man of few words too.

His knowledge of homeopathy is extraordinary. I am sure you would have greatly benefitted if you took treatment from him through personal consultation rather than over email or phone.

did you happen to do his homeopathy course btw?

Hi Rams,

Funny you should ask. Last year, after my phone conversation with him, I did sign up for his homeo course, paid a handsome amount of money for it, and received only one mailing of some papers which contain the same information as in one of his pamphlets. I emailed him, and in response, he sent me the posting you just put under the chikungunya. I stopped my communication with him after that.

As for my and my son's treatment, to be fair, he did tell me that he prefers to see patients in person, but he also said that he was pretty sure he could help us. I'm surprised to hear you say that he's a man of few words because he talked a lot with me, and you're right, his knowledge of homeopathy is extraordinary, and he's a good teacher. I do not know tamil, so I'm sure that is a big loss in understanding his approach. He does speak English quite well. No doubt, he might have been able to better help us if we went in person.

Yes, of course, it is true that Indians are generally not forthcoming about their problems, and you have to read between the lines. The younger generation of Indians, however, especially the girls, are more open.

My uncle (who speaks Tamil very well) went to pick up some things from Dr. K for me last year, and he told me that he found Dr. K to be short tempered and agitated and told me to tell Dr. K that he should take some of his own medicines, but I never relayed that message!

|---|---|---|

By the way, "Nice to hear of your knowledge of BFR which you acquired decades ago" sounds like I was bragging. I was not! Besides giving away my age, all I was saying was that I'm comfortable with BFR because of my long association with them.

I will start a new thread about a couple of my experiences with BFR.

| Re:WILD ROSE - Bach Flower Remedy | By: HomeoEnthusiast-India- | March 8 2010 |

its really unfortunate that he just gave you a few pamphlets / papers in the name of a homeopathy course... the case of English BFR notes is also similar - just a few (6) cyclostyled handouts. The Tamil BFR is more comprehensive - has 18 "volumes".

Whenever I went to meet Dr K he had this frown / scowl on his face, and would give only one word answers to my queries - as if fearing that I might learn something from him for free - or as if he might end up sharing some knowledge to me, for which otherwise he could charge me a hefty fee ! I have never seen him smile.

Reg your other post, no bragging intended!! - its more of my selfishness to learn more abt BFR!
You would certainly be having a lot of insight from the remedies from your long association with them - therefore, i just wanted to get you to share your knowledge with us!!! On this forum, everyone is free to share their knowledge of alt med - bfr, homeo, yoga and other healing methodologies and alternate approaches to healing.

Regards,
-rams

Rams,

Do you have the 18 volumes in Tamil? That is what I was promised in English, but, as I said, that's not what I got. If his notes are available online, even in tamil, we can find a way to translate them. I wonder if he'd give the tamil ones to me, at least, but I doubt if they're online.

| Re:WILD ROSE - Bach Flower Remedy | By: HomeoEnthusiast-India- | March 8 2010 |

shen10,
i do not have the 18 volumes in Tamil - though I intend to purchase it sooner or later. will keep you posted if i can lay my hands on this.

I purchased the english version since I am more comfortable with English - but I felt that Dr K was hesitant to sell this and was trying to get me to buy his Tamil notes as it is more comprehensive (it is also slightly cheaper). i am yet to come across this material in tamil online.

people who have used his Tamil notes inform me that it is really too good and they can very easily relate to the descriptions / scenarios / identify the same in others easily. they are able to help others with their life problems.

the advantage of having his notes is that he has explained how to practise this system in the Indian context - of how the emotional states are to be inferred - with very good examples. (Some great truths await you, if you can go beyond the mosquito repellent or power cut buster part of it - that is!!!)

Hi Rams,

Please do let me know if you get a hold of the 18 volumes. Does the English version you purchased contain the same information as in the 18 volumes?

I'm sure you're right about discovering some hidden truths in his writings. Anyway, there's nothing wrong with restoring power just by your popping a couple of pills into your mouth. You can try it the next time power goes out in Chennai. I wish he had a remedy that would promote weight loss without having to watch your diet or exercise!

shen10,
As far as my understanding goes, the English version (6 booklets) is not a literal translation of his Tamil notes (18 books / booklets). It may at best be a condensation.

Whenever I read Dr K's notes, I seem to get some insights or certain things become more clear to me.

The essence of his teaching, according to me, is "Change your mind, Change your Life" - if you see things in this perspective, you will be able to appreciate better what he has written in his notes. What do we try to achieve with BFR? we try to clear the negative outlook / emotional states of the patient -essentially we change the mind. When that happens, the patient will feel a lot of positive changes in his life - this is precisely what Dr K is talking about. He is trying to apply this to every life situation and hence solve life problems. And he considers BFR to be the easiest method to achieve this.

For example, the mental states in disease hold the key for curing the disease - similarly, he has extended it to any life situation!

In some places, after he describes the "non conventional" uses of a flower, he explicitly mentions that this is not to be taken literally and people who are in a negative state of that BFR owing to a particular life situation only can solve that problem by taking that remedy. The method is best understood from his cases. So we cannot say his methods are all crazy or against Dr Bach's principles.

We must remember he is writing at a period where astrology, and its associated parihaarams are at their peak - and so many people are fooled by these parihaarologists who perform some homam, puja etc and charge heavily for the same. So a simple, cost-effective solution to life problems is certainly the need of the hour. It is in this perspective that Dr K's application of BFR is truly genius.

This is entirely my understanding of things.

Yes Max Varma and Pankaj Varma are one and the same...if you have been wondering !!

Bach Flower Remedies produce excellent results provided the correct remedy is chosen.

WILLOW REMEDY.

There is only one religion....called mankind.
There is only one law....the law of Karma
There is only one God....He is everywhere and with everyone and knows everything.

| Willow | By: MAX VARMANew Delhi and Vancouver | September 10 2006 |
|---|---|---|

Continuing:

WILLOW

is the remedy when a person is filled with resentments, bitterness,self-pity, blames others for the the ills in his/her life.

The prominent thougth in his/her mind is:

"Why has this happened to me !!
I did nothing wrong to deserve this misfortune !!"

"The others schemed or were thankless to bring this misfortune upon me !!"

The person carries grudges against other individuals...and his thought process is all the time submerged in the past "evils" done to him by others. His conversation is also full of such thoughts.

To the out side world he appears to be a "grumbler" and an irritable person spreading gloom and despair.....seldom seen enjoying life.

If the person is sick, he/she is a difficult patient and nothing pleases him / her.

If this state goes unchecked...the perso nbecomesa lot introspective and loses touch wit hthe reality of the world he lives in.

WILLOW is the remedy for him.

15 to 20 drops of this Flower Remedy...three times a day....in 1/4th glass of water .....will bring forth a sea change with in the person. Changes begin to show up with the first few doses itself.
Take the med for atleast two weeks for a more sure cure.
Best wishes

The important thing to note is that when the mind is disturbed, it brings upon the body many physical ailments.

In case of Bach Flower Remedies...if the mind symptoms match..then by taking the remedy.....you will notice that the physical symptoms of ailments begin to disappear.

To Pankaj

I am glad that you are sharing your knowledge and experience on the use of the Bach Flower Remedies on this Forum and hope that you will not limit your posts only to the Flower Remedies.

A question that I would like to ask you is:

If a patient consults you, would you use a Flower Remedy in preference to a Homeopathic Remedy ?

Joe

| Re: Willow - The Bach Flower Remedy | By: MAX VARMANew Delhi and Vancouver | September 10 2006 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Joe,

It depends upon the ailment ....I will make a judgement....if the Flower Remedy matches very well with the symptoms then I will prescribe that.

The problem is that a majority of the patients disclose physical ailments....and with allopathic reports thrown in...the sphere of the mind analysis takes a back stage.

Whereas....the mind symptoms ought to be brought out first and fore-most in a patient's medical history...for a proper homeopathic analysis.

There is a guy who is active on ABC...he is asking the question:

"what caused it??".....very relevant and must be asked first of all.

Best wishes,
Max Varma

Willow...

...is for people who feel resentful and bitter about the way their lives have gone. They begrudge others their successes and happiness, and are reluctant to admit when their own lives go well, preferring to concentrate on what is going wrong. Willow people are grumblers, and when ill make bad patients because they are never satisfied with what is done for them.

Willow can be compared to Holly in that it too is a negative state directed towards others. But where Holly burns with hatred and suspicion, Willow smoulders with resentment and self-pity.

The remedy is given to encourage the rebirth of optimism and faith, and to help the person in the negative Willow state to be more generous in praise of others and also more aware of how his own negative thinking can attract the very ill-fortune that he blames on others.

Dr Bach's description

For those who have suffered adversity or misfortune and find these difficult to accept, without complaint or resentment, as they judge life much by the success which it brings. They feel that they have not deserved so great a trial, that it was unjust, and they become embittered. They often take less interest and less activity in those things of life which they had previously enjoyed.

| How to Make Willow (Bach Flower Remedy) | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 10 2006 |

Willow

Willow Tree is found all over the world. To make Bach flower remedy any variety would work.

Most common is the Weeping Willow. Willow Genera is called Salix.

Aspirin was used to be made from Willow trees. Just boil the bark and concentrate was aspirin but in these days Aspirin is artificially made.

In India we have Bottle Brush tree as well black willow planted all over.

How to make Willow Bach Flower remedy:

Tree flowers half the year. Take some flowers and put them in a clear glass container, and expose it to Sun Light for whole day.

Your Willow Bach Flower remedy is ready. It can be diluted infinite times, there is no potency question but after each dilution shake the container vigorously to potentize it. Otherwise it is not a medicine.

Homeopathically dilutions as well potentization, both are the key.

I have more to say about Willow …. Later on.

Most websites describing Bach Flower remedies seem to indicate a dose of remedy to be 2 drops of the remedy in water, juice or other liquids or on the tongue... (Rescue Remedy - 4 drops make one dose.) Can you enlighten us more on the use of 15-20 drops? Also, can you share more of your Bach Flower experiences? (I am recently into Bach Flower remedies and reading up as much info that I can lay my hands on! I look forward to your valuable inputs.)

One to two drops is too small a dose for Bach Flower remedies.

For homeopathic remedirs...yes 2 or 3 drops in small quantitiy of water works.

For bach flower remedies ...one has to take a bigger dose.

Dear Friends,
Any experience with the use of Ashwagandha ? Please share.
thanks,
Pankaj Varma

Ashwagandha
.....has been used as a sedative, a diuretic, a rejuvenating tonic, an anti-inflammatory agent, aphrodisiac and an immune booster. It is especially beneficial in stress related disorders such as arthritis, hypertension, diabetes, general debility, etc. It has also shown impressive results when used as stimulants for the immune system. It is considered as an adaptogen that stimulates the immune system and improves the memory.

Ashwagandha increases the count of white blood cells and prepares the body to produce antigens against various infections and allergies. It is also considered as a tonic for the heart and lungs as its regular intake controls the blood pressure and regulates the heartbeat. It has a strong nourishing and protective effect on the nervous system.

Health Benefits of Ashwagandha

- It works as anti-inflammatory substance therefore helps in reducing swellings and restoring blood supply.
- It relieves stress due to presence of vata suppressant properties which helps in nurturing nervous system.
- It helps in promoting calmness and mental satisfaction in mind due to its good penetrating powers, which helps to counter negative adaptogens.
- It has an excellent healing properties therefore has great effects in healing wounds and injuries.
- It helps in relieving from the feel of numbness and burning sensation in extremities.
- It helps in providing nourishment to the brain for its better function and greater ability to work.
- It improves mental ability, helps in gaining retaining power and improves mental concentration.
- Ashwagandha revitalizes body and decreases untimely fatigue caused due weak body strength accumulation of negative energies in the body.
- It works as a rasayan i.e. a substance that helps in preventing early aging and rejuvenates whole body to provide youth.
- It works as powerful immune booster that helps in fighting any foreign invasion in the body.
- It is a powerful aphrodisiac thereby helps in enhancing the sexual powers and long lasting endurance.
- It also helps in increasing sperm count and also the quality of sperms.
- It gives good results in leucorrhoea, as it possesses the properties that suppress kapha.
- It is also useful in upper respiratory tract infection (URTI) and in asthmatic conditions

Ashwagandha: Wonder Herb of India

By Dr. Michael Tierra

There is an herb regarded as a 1st class adaptogenic tonic in one of the world's greatest herbal medical systems, an herb which can compare favorably to the world’s most renowned herbal tonics such as ginseng (Panax ginseng) , astragalus (Astragalus membranaceus) , dang gui (Angelica sinensis), reishi mushroom (Ganoderma lucidum) and South American suma (Pfaffia paniculata) and like these has been held in high regard by generations of people over the course of millennia for its ability to increase vitality, energy, endurance and stamina , promote longevity and strengthen the immune system without stimulating the body’s reserves. In fact having the ability to nurture the nervous system, counteract anxiety and stress to promote a calm state of mind. this same herb, having powerful anti-inflammatory properties, is specific for treating arthritic and rheumatic conditions. As if all of this were not enough, it is easily the most potent tonic aphrodisiacs in the entire botanical kingdom. With all of these uses, Withania somnifera, better known in India as ashwagandha, is destined to rise significantly and take its place with all the other better known tonics.

In 1978, as part of a tour to India, I had the opportunity to live in a small South Indian village outside of Bangalor, for three weeks. One day my gracious host and I were walking at sunset along the dirt road adjacent to a cultivated field of rice, and knowing my interest in native Indian herbs and the ancient traditional system of medicine called Ayurveda, he casually pointed out a few non-descript plants growing on the border of a rice field as Ashwagandha. I was very excited to see this remarkable plant which I had only recently studied in various books in the United States. I made way walking along the drier border of the rice field and picked several of the seed laden red berries to bring back to my residence and herb school in Santa Cruz, called the Garden of Sanjivani.

It was early in my career and I was so linked with my identity as an herbalist that I often mused whether I could serve as an herb doctor in a country where the native plants were unfamiliar. So far, in the village where I stayed, ashwagandha and the neem tree were the only native herbs I knew. Notwithstanding this fact, many local villagers, wanting to meet their esteemed visitor from America, hearing that I was involved in healing, came to the abode where I was staying seeking advice for a wide variety of problems. Fortunately, most of these were of a chronic type associated with aging and it just so happened that the single native herb to which I was recently introduced, ashwagandha, was perfect.

One of the important lessons I was to learn from this experience was that being an herb doctor meant more than a knowledge of a particular set of familiar herbs. It also included the ability to ‘think like an herbalist’ to be ever vigilant and watchful for the gifts that nature abundantly provides everywhere in the form of both botanicals as well as the local knowledge and wisdom of the use of plants.

One man in his early 80’s came complaining of chronic pain in his lower back and elbow. I directed him to my new found patch of ashwagandha and he sent one of his sons out to dig some roots for him to make tea. Three days later, he came to thank me since he had already showed considerable improvement. Another young child was suffering from a severe adverse reaction to a recent polio vaccine. The arm that had been injected with the vaccine only a few months previous hung limp and malformed from lack of proper maturation. The villagers commented that every time the local medical core visited their village to administer vaccinations, there were always a few such casualties. I remember thinking how in a more alienated society such as the Western world, such things may also happen, but our neighbors have no opportunity to witness such reactions because our lives are so separate compared to that of a South Indian village. Once again, ashwagandha was the perfect herb to give for non-inflammatory childhood mal-development.

A young boy around the age of 14 was brought to me with chronic bronchitis. After taking ashwagandha for only a week, he was completely cured. I must confess that I was a little trepidatious of becoming known as the “one herb doctor from America”. Since no one else seemed to care and everyone was getting such positive results from ashwagandha. I took consolation in the famous axiom of the late Dr. Christopher, “it is better to know one herb well, than a smattering of many”.

During my stay, I had the opportunity to prescribed ashwagandha for a wide variety of conditions ranging from male impotence, for which Withania is a near specific, to chronic vaginal discharge. For many of these I was not there long enough to directly observe the results, but I was later told that everyone to whom I had recommended the herb had either experienced significant improvement or in more had completely recovered from their chronic condition.

Interestingly, the people took no notice of the fact that I was recommending the same herb to everyone. In fact, it was a local herb with which they were all very familiar. Its a curious thing that I had observed when living in proximity with the Karok Indians of Northern California that some native people, having recently fallen under the seduction of Western ways including Western medicine, actually appreciated being reminded, especially from a representative of much envied and powerful country such as the US, of the powerful yet much safer effects of their native medicine. Placebo effect notwithstanding, it seemed that the fact that I recommend it seemed to make it all the more powerful and effective in their eyes.

Three months later I returned to the Garden of Sanjivani in Santa Cruz and planted my ashwagandha seeds. I was amazed at how easily they germinated and continue to re-seed themselves year after year in the area bordering the San Lorenzo river, long after I had moved away. Despite this, one need not be concerned about its becoming an invasive pest. Since it is as easy to control as another more famous Solanaceae representative, the tomato to which it is closely related.

Over the years I have noticed how herbs with more complex, seemingly opposite properties, such as ashwagandha, are generally the strongest and most useful. Unlike many tonics, Ashwagandha is also anti-inflammatory, anti-arthritic, anti-anxiety calmative and aphrodisiac. To herbalists, this seems strange since it is also a member of a family of plants that include the familiar belladonna and henbane, also well respected anti-inflammatory nervines but toxic not particularly known for their nutritional tonic properties. This certainly qualifies ashwagandha as one of the most paradoxical herbs. Perhaps it is for this reason that so far it has not yet established itself with the equal esteem of the other more well known tonics mentioned above.

There is still one other highly significant and practical fact about ashwagandha. Most tonics like ginseng, require special growing conditions and several years to develop their tonic properties (ginseng requires 7 years). Ashwagandha is unique as a tonic herb in that it is exceptionally easy to cultivate and is ready for harvest after only one year of growth. This represents a very real consideration that if ashwagandha were used more, would relieve some of the threat of extinction from the wild of other highly popular herbs such as wild ginseng (Panax quinquefolium), golden seal (Hydrastis canadensis) , suma (Pfaffia paniculata) and lady’s slipper (cypripedium pubescens) for instance. This is not to say that any tonic can be substituted for each other, but too often, because of excessive commercial promotion, people are induced to overuse and just as often, misuse certain endangered herbs for purposes that another more common herb may be even more effective.

The unique properties of ashwagandha [1] , while being an energy tonic like ginseng or codonopsis for instance, is uniquely more beneficial for calming the mind, relieving arthritis and building sexual energy while ginseng and codonopsis (Codonopsis pilosula also known as “bastard ginseng” because it is an acceptable milder substitute) is more specifically effective for low energy caused by digestive weakness. Astragalus, classified as another Qi or energy tonic in Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM), is stronger as an immune tonic. Again, these properties are equally shared by ginseng, codonopsis and ashwagandha, but more indirectly because of their effects on other physiological systems. Ashwagandha is also useful for strengthening the female reproductive system for which it is commonly combined with another Ayurvedic herb called shatavari (Asparagus racemosa) but the Chinese herb, dang gui (Angelica sinensis and A. acutiloba), renowned as a blood tonic, is especially beneficial in gynecology for deficient blood conditions, anemia and irregular menstruation. The uniqueness of Ashwagandha is that it achieves its results through strengthening the nervous system and potentiate reproductive hormones.

Also known in English as winter cherry, Ashwagandha is one of the most highly valuable herb in the Ayurvedic medical system. On another trip to India I met with several Ayurvedic doctors and heads of prominent Ayurvedic pharmacies. I decided to ask them the kind of inane [2] question that I am often asked, “what do you think is the most valuable Ayurvedic herb?” There was an unequivocal answer that ashwagandha was at least equally regarded in Ayurvedic medicine as ginseng is in TCM.

In order to appreciate the traditional uses and properties of ashwagandha it is necessary to offer a brief description of the Ayurvedic system of medicine. Ayurveda, translated as Science of Health, is probably the oldest existing system of natural healing in the world. Dating back over many millennia, it is likely to be even older than Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM) and may be its origin, as it certainly is the origin of Tibetan medicine, Middle Eastern Tibb medicine and our own ancient Greco-Roman medicine. Nearly suppressed by the English during their occupation of India through the 19th and first part of the 20th centuries, Ayurveda is finally making significant inroads of acceptability throughout all countries of the Western world.

Ayurveda is based on a system of Tridosha or Three Humours which classifies all Dating back over many millennia, it may go back even further in antiquity than TCM and is certainly the basis for Traditional Tibetan Medicine [3] , Middle Eastern Tibb or Unani medicine which form the basis for much of ancient Greco-Roman medicine [4] . Nearly suppressed in India by the occupying English during the 19th and early 20th centuries, Ayurveda is gaining in popularity throughout many Western countries.

Ayurveda is based on a system of Tridosha or Three Humours which classifies all individual constitutions of people, diseases, herbs and other non-herbal remedies and therapies according to whether they are Vata (air or nerve oriented), Kapha (water or mucoid type) or Pitta (fire type) [5] . Herbs that have pungent, sour and salty flavors stimulate fire; herbs that are astringent (drying) and bitter stimulate vata-air, or the nerve centered humour; herbs that are sweet, salty and sour stimulate or increase Kapha-water, or the mucoid humour. In contrast, herbs that are sweet, sour and salty flavored ameliorate Vata-air, which means that they have a particular affinity for the nervous system. Herbs that are astringent, sweet and bitter ameliorate Pitta-fire, meaning that they are soothing and anti-inflammatory. Finally herbs that are pungent, bitter and astringent ameliorate Kapha-water, which means they tend to increase digestive fire, expel and dry excessive fluid build up in the system, including clearing excessive fat from the body, and the accumulation of cholesterol and other fatty deposits in the veins and arteries of the body.

Because the primary quality and flavor of ashwagandha is sharp and pungent, this indicates that it is warming, raises metabolism, stimulates digestion, clears mucus, improves circulation. Unlike TCM, Ayurvedic also identifies a secondary post-digestive flavor, which for ashwagandha is sweet. It is this effect, which is not necessarily directly identified by one’s sense of taste, that occurs when a substance is converted into a still purer nutritive extract [6] . Following this, the post digestive sweet flavor of ashwagandha represents its deep nutritive, hormonal properties as well as its ability to strengthen and nourish the nervous system.

An even deeper and more profound transformation of food occurs after 7 days. This is when food is transformed into blood. Only after a month does the most refined essence of food transform into semen. It is at this deepest level that ashwagandha exhibits its profound aphrodisiac properties.

In the TCM system, ashwagandha would be used as a Kidney Yang tonic because of its warming, aphrodisiac properties. In this, it is deeper acting than other herbs, such as the African yohimbe, the South America muira puama or the milder Central American damiana. One may have to take ashwagandha longer, at least a month, to notice its aphrodisiac effects.

The distinctive earthy odor and flavor of ashwagandha is due to the presence of certain steroidal lactones or Withanolides [7] . It is from this characteristic odor which its Sanskrit name, "like a horse", derives. While the largest majority of medicinal herbs are not particularly prized or known for their appealing flavor, ashwagandha for most may be promoted to the forefront of those herbs with the least taste-smell appeal. Fortunately, it is possible to formulate ashwagandha into pills, capsules and alcoholic extracts to create greater public acceptance.

Traditionally, herbs are classified organoleptically according to their smell, flavor, texture, shape and even their color [8] . This has been the traditional way for herbalists in older times to come to a recognition of the unique biochemistry and therapeutic actions of plants. It is only in recent times that this is being replaced by complex laboratory analysis. The post digestive flavor of Ashwagandha is not so much sensorially identified, but because it exhibits tonic nutritive properties. The classification of herbs, foods and substances into the category of flavors, may not always be based on individual sensory experiences but also according to function.

Different people will have different reactions but for most, at first the reaction to taking ashwagandha even after a few days is a sense of increased warmth and more energy. As stated, eventually this further transmutes to heightened libido. For this reason, tonics like ashwagandha or ginseng are seldom prescribed to otherwise normal and relatively healthy adolescents or for that matter, otherwise normal individuals under the age of 40 years. Given specific signs and indications of chronic weakness and deficiency, ashwagandha is, however, specifically indicated for individuals of all ages. For such conditions, it is best to take ashwagandha in powder or alcoholic extract with warm scalded milk and honey.

So why is it that more people do not know or use ashwagandha? Mainly because it has not yet permeated the arena of the largely fad-driven natural supplements industry of the West. An important second reason is that many, including most Western herbalists, as yet do not fully understand and appreciate the many diametrically opposed and therefore, confusing therapeutic properties of this valuable herb. Supplements become best sellers when the industry can latch onto one specific attribute of a particular substance to popularize. This, unfortunately, has happened to many herbs such as Feverfew and St. Johnswort (Hypericum perfoliatum), both herbs having more extensive therapeutic properties than that for which they have become popularly known.

The issue of herbal marketing poses some further serious reservations among herbalists, not only because it can create a demand for a particular herb that can threaten its survival, as in the case of wild golden seal (Hydrastis canadensis), American ginseng (Panax quinquefolium), osha (ligusticum porteri) and ladies slipper (Cypripedium pubescens), but also because of the y to create concentrated extracts to heighten certain drug-like effects. This has certainly been true of Chinese ephedra also known as Ma Huang which has epinephrine and pseudo-epinephrine alkaloids that are very similar to adrenaline. Ma Huang is traditionally one of the best herbs for treating asthma. However, by overly concentrating its herbal constituents, it is more drug-like with properties similar to meth-amphetamine, and it is in that form that it is abused in the popular herb market place included as a stimulant in herbal pep pills, diet formulas and even in pseudo-mind altering formulas. When prepared in this way, Ma Huang can be more of a health risk than a benefit. As a result of incidents implicating it as the cause of certain adverse reactions, the popular availability of the herb may be threatened as a result of stepped up legal restrictions.

Given the sensational tendency of marketeering, the aphrodisiac effects of ashwagandha may take precedence over all its other outstanding properties. Ashwagandha should be considered as the premiere herb for all negative conditions associated with aging [9] . This includes its use for the prevention and inhibition of senile dementia and Alzheimer’s Disease [10] , low energy and arthritis [11] .

The other important properties of ashwagandha includes its traditional use as an alterative for detoxification, anti-inflammatory, antiseptic, antitussive (alleviating coughs), bitter (in small doses, stimulating appetite), sedative and as an overall rejuvenative.

Ashwagandha is specific for a wide range of conditions including arthritic inflammation, anxiety, insomnia, respiratory disorders including emphysema, asthma bronchitis and coughs, nervous disorders, gynecological disorders, especially functional female and male infertility and impotence. From this it would seem that ashwagandha should be considered for all immuno-compromised diseases including TB and AIDS, chronic upper respiratory diseases, degenerative symptoms attendant to aging, juvenile mal-development and growth, chronic neurological diseases especially anxiety, nervousness, depression and insomnia, weak digestion, fluid retention caused by lowered body metabolism and last but certainly not least, for low sexual libido.

Other Species and Parts of the Herb that are Used

So far, all discussion is about the use of the root which possesses the most valued tonic properties. However, the bitter leaves are used as a hypnotic in the treatment of alcoholism and to relax the spasms of the lungs for the treatment of asthma and emphysema. They can also be made into an anti-inflammatory poultice and topically applied for boils and carbuncles. Internally, as with so many other strongly bitter herbs, they are anthelmintic (clearing worms). The seeds of the fruits are diuretic and can be used as a substitute for rennet to curdle milk.

Ashwagandha Coagulans, a related species and occasional adulterant, primarily uses the inside kernel of the seed capsule containing “withanin” which is similar to rennet to curdle milk. “About a tablespoon of the mixture of seeds with a little milk (1 in 40) is enough to coagulate a gallon of milk in approximately a half an hour.” [12] Alcohol will destroy the coagulating principle but the dried capsules can be used. A. coagulans is also therapeutically used as an alterative and emetic.

History, Description and Pharmacology

The use of ashwagandha in Ayurvedic medicine extends back over 3000 to 4000 years to the teachings of an esteemed rishi (sage) Punarvasu Atriya [13] . It has been described in the sacred texts of Ayurveda, including the Charaka and Sushruta Samhitas where it is widely extolled as a tonic especially for emaciation in people of all ages including babies, enhancing the reproductive function of both men and women. It has also been used for inflammations especially for arthritic and rheumatic conditions and as a major tonic to counteract the ravages of aging and promote youthful longevity. Some of its other traditional uses have been as a mild purgative for chronic constipation and for the treatment of swollen glands.

Ashwagandha is a small woody shrub or herb in the Solanaceae family that grows usually about 2 feet in height and is naturally found in diverse areas ranging from Africa, the Mediterranean and East into India. Because of its wide range, there is considerable morphological and chemotypical variations in terms of local species. Considering its powerful healing properties, except for the bright red fruit, it is a fairly plain, nondescript plant. The fruit is harvested in the late fall and the bright yellow seeds are dried for planting in the following spring. The cultivated Nagori species of Ashwagandha seems to be significantly larger, one source describing it as a shrub growing from 5 to 7 feet tall. However, the primary alkaloids of both the wild as well as the cultivated species are the same.

The commercial supplies of ashwagandha are obtained from both wild and commercial sources. The fresh root of one year old plants are harvested from January to March. It is either dried whole or cut in short transverse pieces and dried directly in the sun. Quality is determined by the size of the main tap root as well as its color, odor and flavor.

The major biochemical constituents of ashwagandha from which its primary medicinal properties emanate, are based upon the actions of certain steroidal alkaloids and steroidal lactones in a class of constituents called withanolides [14] . These serve as important hormone precursors which the body is then able, as needed, to convert into human physiological hormones. If there is an excess of a certain hormone, the plant based hormone precursors occupy the so-called hormone receptor sites, without converting to human hormones, to block absorption. In this way, ashwagandha, like other adaptogenic tonic herbs, is amphoteric and can serve to regulate important physiological processes, increasing or decreasing as needed.

The term adaptogen was first defined by the Russians [15] as a result of their extensive research on the tonic, Siberian Ginseng (Eleutherococcus senticosus). The definition of adaptogen is based on the following, according to Brekhman: 1). Safety of the adaptogen’s action on the organism; 2). A wide range of regulatory activity, but manifesting its action only against the actual challenge to the system; 3). Act through a nonspecific mechanism to increase the nonspecific resistance (NSR) to harmful influences of an extremely wide spectrum of physical, chemical and biological factors causing stress; 4). Has a normalizing action irrespective of the direction of foregoing pathological changes.

An adaptogenic herb of which ashwagandha would be a first rate example [16] , allows one to adapt to a variety of is a class of herbs that allows one to adapt to a variety of heightened stressful circumstances. This will result in heightened stamina and endurance for athletic competition, the workplace and conditions of inclement environment and weather conditions.

With its ease of cultivation, there is hardly a reason that most people and certainly old age nursing homes does not have its own garden patch of ashwagandha as a hedge, so to speak, against the ravages of aging decrepitude. Given the fact that for better or worse, more people are living longer in the world than any other time in its history, trying to save enough money in long term retirement accounts for a comfortable old age and at the same time sensing real concerns at the thought of dwindling governmental entitlement benefits, it seems imperative that everyone grow their personal supply of ashwagandha and learn how to prepare and take it.

Besides over 3000 years of empirical experience, numerous studies on both animals and humans have attested to the anti-arthritis and mind calming properties of crude preparations of the herb. The combined alkaloids seem to exhibit calming, anti-convulsant and antispasmodic properties against many spasmogenic agents on the intestinal, uterine, bronchial, tracheal and blood-vascular muscles. It is described as similar but considerably weaker that papaverine and phenobarbitone [17] . Other constituents, namely the sitoindosides enhance pathogenic devouring phagocytes. Even anti-tumor properties have been found based on the use of the crude extract on mice both in living specimens as well as against cancer cells in the petri dish.

PREPARATIONS:

Ashwagandha is used in Ayurvedic medicine as a powder, decoction, medicated wine, mixed with clarified butter, combined with honey or sugar syrup or as a medicated oil. The most common form is as an alcoholic extract or capsules, of the powdered root.

Dosage is as follows:

Powder:

3-6 grams daily or up to 5 to 10 grams as an occasional tonic

Decoction:

16 to 31 grams added to heated cow’s milk

Alcoholic Extract:

2 Tblsp., 2-4 times daily.

Mixed with ghee or honey:

1 tsp. 2 times daily

Narayana Taila Oil:

Internally, 3-10 drops; or freely applied externally to painful, arthritic joints.

Contraindications and Toxicity:

Large doses of ashwagandha may possess abortifacient properties so that it should not be taken drink pregnancy unless under the direction of an experienced health professional. It is also contraindicated in conjunction with sedatives or anxioletics (a substance that reduces anxiety) or if one is suffering from stomach ulcers. Traditionally, like other tonics such as ginseng, ashwagandha should not be taken when there are signs of inflammation or advanced arterial congestion. For this reason is may be best to precede or accompany taking it with a general detoxifying herb or formula such as Yogaraj guggul.

Ashwagandha is relatively safe when taken in the prescribed range of dosage. [18] Large doses, however, have been shown to cause gastrointestinal upset, diarrhea and vomiting. Finally, because ashwagandha has been found to potentiate the effects of barbituates, it is generally recommended that it be not taken under such conditions.

Ashwagandha according to the TCM model:

Because of its actions and flavors, ashwagandha would be classified as a Yang tonic with particular affinity for the Kidneys, because of its hormonal action, and the Heart, because of its ability to calm the mind and relieve anxiety and insomnia. As an anti-arthritis and antispasmodic, it has wind dispelling properties. Ashwaganda is used by herbalist Alan Tillotson and his Chinese herbalist wife, Naixin, for cases where ginseng is too stimulating or hot and the patient appears nervous and fragile. For fatigue caused by overwork without nervousness, he prefers to use Siberian ginseng.

Some Traditional and Non-Traditional Ayurvedic Combinations Using Ashwagandha are as Follows:

General Use: The root is taken in 30 gram dosage for general debility, consumption, mal -nourishment in children, senile debility, rheumatic and arthritic conditions, nervous exhaustion, fatigue, brain-gag, memory weakness, senile dementia, muscular weakness, spermatorrhea and leucorrhea. Normally this can be taken as a powder 10 grams three times daily mixed with warm milk or water, or as a one to 5 alcoholic extract, one or two tablespoonsful three times daily.

For insomnia, ashwagandha can be mixed with valerian root and oyster shell.

As a general nerve tonic, especially for hypoglycemia or low blood pressure, ashwagandha is combined with Goksura.

For chronic fatigue ashwagandha is combined with another great Ayurvedic tonic herb, shatavari (Asparagus racemosa), licorice, amla (emblica myrobalan) and multi-minerals, especially calcium and magnesium. If there is mild inflammation or low grade fevers Dr. Mana, a prominent Nepalese Ayurvedic doctor gives a separate formula to reduce inflammation along with the ashwagandha preparation.

For impotence it can be used alone or combined with fried Cow-hage seeds. The method is to remove the inside of the seeds and mix this with ashwagandha and ginger.

For weak lungs, ashwagandha is combined with Sida cordifolia (Bala).

Milk, to stimulate production: combine with equal parts Dioscorea batatas (also available as Shan Yao, a Chinese herb) and licorice and make a decoction of 30 grams of the mixture. Take three times daily.

Nerve tonic: combine with Goksura (Hygrophila spinosa) equal parts. This is especially good for hypoglycemia and low blood pressure.

Nutrition of malnourished children, Improving: Make a paste of the root with ghee and milk. Administer three times daily.

Skin diseases: Make a salve of ashwagandha or mix the powder with sesame oil and apply topically.

Sterility, Female: Boil a decoction of 30 grams in water down to half a cup, add mild and one tablespoon of ghee (clarified butter) and a teaspoon of honey. Take three times daily for two weeks after menstruation.

I got my order for the Ashwagandha. I took a tablet and it had no taste so that was really great. I have a hard time swallowing pills so I chewed it. I bought the Planetary Herbals brand.

While I was shopping for it, I ran into a product that is for the thyroid. So I ordered a bottle of that to try out. That product also has 50 mg of Ashwangandha.

Hi garcot
I think its too early to tell.

It may take a bit longer for me to see results if I am dealing with a severe case of inflammation on my entire body.

I'm only taking one tablet a day right now. Maybe when I increase it to two I will notice the difference.

THE ONLY CHANGE I HAVE NOTICED TODAY:

I notice that my pants around my legs are very lose. It is possible that it is working on my legs where I have been suspecting I have too much weight that is unjustifiable by my diet. I don't know if it's bloating, inflammation, water retention or fat. Today, I am doubting it is fat as I don't think fat can disappear overnight.

I took a picture of myself in the mirror on Thursday at the locker room and it looks like my thighs are too big.

I will keep you posted.

Thanks for asking.

Thought I'd post the details of the Ashwagandha that I am taking for anyone who may read this thread in the future.

Planetary Herbals Full Spectrum 570 MG

This morning I took my waist and hip measurements and tried on my bathing suit to find out whether or not the Ashwagandha has had any affect on my torso. As of this morning, it appears that is has not.

Of course, the herb has had an obvious affect on my legs and thighs after just 4 tablets. They are noticeably slimmer. I suspected that my thighs were too large and that something was wrong.

You said that Ashwagandha makes you relax. It appears to be making me sleep too much. Is that how it affects you? I'm not sure I want to spend all day sleeping. 😃 😃 😃 😃 😃

It is very possible it has started working on my torso too. Possibly by 1/4 of an inch. I'm not totally sure yet because I forgot to take my measurements before I ate anything.

More follow up on this thread. The Ashwagandha is apparently giving me headaches that are due to possibly better circulation to my brain which I seriously need.

I also have the picture I took of myself in the mirror at the locker room in my bathing suit . I'm thinking of sending Joe De Livera a copy so he can help me see the results before and after.

Hi Sweetie

You are so kind with your help.

Thanks for explaining how it works. I can vouch for your explanation from experience. I AGREE TOTALLY WITH WHAT YOU ARE SAYING.

It is amazing how intelligent this herb is. You are right, it knows where the repair is needed. It is smarter than I am.

TODAY, I HAVE FELT SO MUCH LIGHTER . MY PANTS FEEL BIG ALL OVER AND YET THE MEASURING TAPE SHOWS NO CHANGES.

MY BLOUSE FEEL LOOSE ALL OVER AS WELL. THE INFLAMMATION ON MY BACK IS WAY DOWN. I DID NOT HAVE TO TIE IT DOWN TODAY. NORMALLY, I HAVE TO TIE MY BACK DOWN BECAUSE THE MUSCLES NEED SUPPORT.

THE MEASURING TAPE AND THE SCALE DO NOT DO JUSTICE TO ALL THE WONDERFUL MIRACLES I AM FEELING.

THE MEASURING TAPE SHOWS NO CHANGES IN MY TORSO AND THE SCALE WENT DOWN ONLY TWO POUNDS.

IT IS AMAZING.

you are being loved by me for all of your kind help.

Ashwagandha:

Rationale:

Ashwagandha improves immunity by activating macrophages, thereby enhancing their ability to engulf and destroy toxic microorganisms and other antigens that may gain entrance into the body. This aspect of ashwagandha would be expected to increase resistance to bacterial and viral diseases.

Dosage:

1,800 - 4,000 mg per day (using crude Ashwagandha capsules or tablets).

450 - 1,000 mg per day (using Ashwagandha capsules tablets concentrated at a ratio of 4:1).

2 - 4 ml per day (using Ashwagandha 1:1 fluid extract).

thanks garcot, for the great info.

From experience, I suggest starting out slow with just one tablet a day. The tablet I'm taking is only 570 mg and it is working very quickly. I've also been experiencing headaches within two hours after taking it. The headaches are very light. I don't know how bad they could be if I took two tablets instead of one.

I've been having a hard time waking up in the mornings because it is creating deep sleep. Maybe this is when it is doing most of it's work. Just another reason to take it slow. You don't want to get to work late, etc. Fortunately for me, my cat has been waking me up.

Thanks again Garcot

Hi Pat,

The dosage suggested is meant for really sick patient whose vitality is very low, which is not the case with you. You are quite energetic and don't have any real problem. You should eat a dosage which just works as an energiser and nothing more.

X-RAY
Vial containing alcohol exposed to X-Ray

Repeated exposure to Roentgen (X-ray) has produced skin lesions often followed by cancer. Distressing pain. Sexual glands are particularly affected. Atrophy of ovaries and testicles. Sterility. Changes take place in the blood lymphatics and bone marrow. Anæmia and leukæmia. Corresponds to stubbornness as in burns, they refuse to heal. Psoriasis.

Has the property of stimulating cellular metabolism. Arouses the reactive vitality, mentally and physically. Brings to the surface suppressed symptoms, especially sycotic and those due to mixed infections. Its homeopathic action is thus centrifugal, towards the periphery.

Head.--Sticking pains in different parts of head and face. Dull pain in right upper jaw. Stiff neck. Sudden cricks in neck, pains more severe behind ears. Pain in muscles of neck when lifting head from pillow. Fullness in ears, ringing in head.

Mouth.--Tongue dry, rough, sore. Throat painful on swallowing. Nausea.

Male.--Lewd dreams. Sexual desire lost. Re-establishes suppressed gonorrhœa.

Extremities.--Rheumatic pains. General tired and sick feeling. Palms rough and scaly.

Skin.--Dry, itching eczema. Erythema around roots of nails. Skin dry, wrinkled. Painful cracks. Warty growths. Nails thicken. Psoriasis.

Modalities.--Worse, in bed, afternoon, evening and night; open air.

Dose.--Twelfth potency and higher.

Compare: Electricitas.--Sugar of milk saturated with the current (Anxiety, nervous tremors, restlessness, palpitation, headaches. Dreads approach of thunder-storms; heaviness of limbs).

Magnetis Poli Ambo.--The Magnet.--Sugar of milk or distilled water exposed to influence of entire mass (Burning lancinations throughout the body; pains as if broken in joints, when cartilages of two bones touch; shooting and jerkings; headache as if a nail were driven in; tendency of old wounds to bleed afresh).

Magnetis Polus Arcticus.--North pole of the magnet.--(Disturbed sleep, somnambulism, cracking in cervical vertebræ, sensation of coldness; toothache).

Magnetis Polus Australis.--South pole of the magnet.--(Severe pain in inner side of nail of the big toe, ingrowing toenail; easy dislocation of joints of foot; feet are painful when letting them hang down).

Good wishes. Milap Singh

This Nosode is listed in the Materia Medica of Nosodes by Doc H. C. Allen and the provings were carried out by Dr J.B. Campbell in 1897!!

I have used it to deal with burns created by Xray treatment of cancers.

I have often wondered why it was not used on the survivors of Hiroshima and Chyernoble and any other radiation phenomena.

XANTOXYLUM FRAXINEUM
Prickly Ash
(XANTHOXYLUM)

Its specific action is on the nervous system and mucous membranes. Paralysis, especially hemiplegia. Painful hæmorrhages, after-pains, neuralgic dysmenorrhœa, and rheumatic affections, offer a therapeutic field for this remedy, especially in patients of spare habit and nervous, delicate organization. Indigestion from over-eating or from too much fluid. Sluggish capillary circulation. Neurasthenia, poor assimilation, insomnia, occipital headache. Increases mucous secretion of mouth and stimulates the secretion from all glands with ducts opening in the mouth.

Mind.--Nervous, frightened. Mental depression.

Head.--Feels full. Weight and pain on vertex. Pain over eyes, throbbing pressure over nose, pressure in forehead; head seems divided; ringing in ears. Occipital headache. Sick headache with dizziness and flatulence.

Face.--Neuralgia of lower jaw. Dryness of mouth and fauces. Pharyngitis (Wyethia).

Abdomen.--Griping and diarrhœa. Dysentery, with tympanites, tenesmus; inodorous discharges.

Female.--Menses too early and painful. Ovarian neuralgia, with pain in loins and lower abdomen; worse, left side, extending down the thigh, along genito-crural nerves. Neuralgic dysmenorrhœa, with neuralgic headaches; pain in back and down legs. Menses thick, almost black. After-pains (Arnica; Cup; Cham). Leucorrhœa at time of menses. Neurasthenic patients who are thin, emaciated; poor assimilation with insomnia and occipital headache.

Respiratory.--Aphonia. Constant desire to take a long breath; oppression of chest. Dry cough, day and night.

Sleep.--Hard and unrefreshing; dreams of flying. Sleeplessness in neurasthenics.

Relationship.--Compare: Gnaph; Cimicif; Staph; Mezer; Piscidia-White dogwood--(a nerve sedative. Insomnia due to worry, nervous excitement, spasmodic coughs; pains of irregular menstruation; regulates the flow. Neuralgic and spasmodic affections. Use tincture in rather material doses).

Dose.--First to sixth potency.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

Does it hurt on the lower right side of your back?
1.) Introduction to This Article
ObesitySmokingStressPoor Physical ShapeBad Posture
Pain can be the result, for example improper body mechanics, which may result in overstretching of your muscles and ligaments. A sprain or a strain can result and you are now the proud owner of some serious back pain. - Moreover, if you rupture a disc, you will find that it can bulge outward. You may not be able to see this from looking at your back from the outside, but inside your bulging disc may put pressure on one of the 50 nerves that are rooted in the spinal cord. - Yes, you guessed it, this can cause problems. A pinched nerve can cause pain and it can also cause numbness or pain down one of your legs.
Other common contributors to low back discomfort can include:

Lower Right Back Pain? Consider Morning Stretches
Ice, in conjunction with preforming the stretching exercises twice a day should ease the pain but, once the pain is gone, if you continue with the stretches twice a day, you can keep the lower right back pain from returning so, consider morning stretches as well as evening stretches to keep your sciatica at bay.

Hysteria, epilepsy, chorea, hypochondriasis, come within the sphere of this remedy.

Mind.--Suicidal; depressed; laughing and weeping moods alternate.

Head.--Pressure on top, in right temple, associated with backache.

Male.--Great lassitude following coitus. Sexual power increased.

Female.--Intermittent neuralgia of left ovary. Acrid, profuse leucorrhœa, with retarded menses.

Respiratory.--Dry cough, with stitches in chest. Dyspnœa.

Solidago Virgaurea

Extremities.--Unusual tired feeling. Chorea, especially during sleep. Fidgety legs (Tarant). Lameness in arms and spasmodic twitching.

Modalities.--Worse, during sleep.

Relationship.--Compare: Agar; Stram; Tarant; Cicuta; Aethusa.

Dose.--Tincture, to third potency.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

Read this on osteoporosis, though I do not completely agree with him:

http://www.homeopathic.com/Articles/Using_homeopathy_for_ailments/A_Homeopathic_Perspective_on_Osteoporosis.html

Following are some of the common medicines for osteoporosis: Silicea, Calcarea carbonica, Calcarea phosphorica, Calcarea fluorica, Phosphorus and Natrum muriaticum.

Check Lactic Acid for Diabetes with Brittle bone, osteoporosis.

My 17 month old grand daughter sweats a lot in this HOT weather. As such she has rash on the back of her neck. Dunno if it itches, but she likes the application of Echinacea. Her mother and Aunt have th same problem. She is also stubborn,may have got it from me or my son. Please help!!

Use one single dose of Sulphur 30 followed by Calcarea Carb 30 three times a day for one day. Sulphur should not follow Calcarea.

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | June 9 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Udaya I nforgot to write. In the second week of April she got high fever with convulsions. She had to be hospitalised. There she got urine infection and had to stay for a week, with drip on her feet. Sinc then she has gone weak. She keeps on falling while running. No patience to walk. i'll get the medicines today only. Sulphur One day and Calcarea Carb the next?

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 9 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Did she have tonsils when she had convulsions. If not give her three doses of Cina 30 also and see for results. Anyhow before that I would like to see the results of Sulphur and Calcarea. In fact Calcarea is the prescribed medicine but Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea and at the same time both are antipsoric and should work miraculously on skin. with best wishes.

--

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | June 10 2011 |

Thanks. She had sore throat when she was younger, lead to allergy. then the dr gave her medicines. ok, will give her Sulphur soon. Maybe tonight.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 10 2011 |
|---|---|---|

It may not be strepto surfacing to skin level. Sulphur would be sufficient alongwith Calcarea. Strepto is best addressed with Hepar Sulph. with best wishes.

--

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | June 11 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Udaya, she has got a bad cold. Actually she is very suscetible to cold. Her mother had got Pleurisy after her birth. Was on drugs for a year. In the meantime, She was lso feeding her daughter with the Doctor's advice.
So now have not given her any medicine. My staff got Sulpur 200 instead of 30. What advice can you give me. Also se sweats a lot, her skin i clammy all the time. Please advise me. Should I give her Hepar 30 or wait for Sulphur.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 11 2011 |
|---|---|---|

I would suggest Sulphur + Calcarea carb as originally suggested. If Sulphur is 200C use single dose once. Repeat Calcarea Carb thereafter upto three doses. Calcarea should not be given after Sulphur. with best wishes.

--

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | June 12 2011 |
|---|---|---|

I am confused. I've managed to get Sulphur 30, single dose. Will give it to her tonight only. Then tomorrow Calcarea Carb 3 doses a single day only.
You wrote before in this page only "Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea ". But before in another posting you had said, Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea. Above also you have written Sulphur should not be given after calcarea. Anyway tonight 1 dose of Sulphur 30 then tomorrow will give er 3 doses of Calcrea. will report thereafter.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 12 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea is a precaution from the books. Repetition of that is not only for you but for everyone who reads this forum. I have taken Sulphur after Calcarea on myself and experimented but nothing happened to me. However, if someone masters writes that before, there must be some reason and we should not ignore it. Therefore the caution.

The Sulphur has to be taken only one dose. But second time I wrote specifically only one dose because you said you could get only 200C potency.

Your schedule as of now is correct and please proceed with it.

Usually the sequence would be Sulphur+Calcarea Carb+Lycopodium. which means it can be repeated again and again without Sulphur following after Calcarea due to the fact that Lycopdium is coming in between the two when they are repeated continuously. The reason for these three are because they are all anti-psoric polychrests. I did not ask the child to take lyco because no symptoms of lyco are present. When lyco is removed from the middle of the classic trio, the repetition of the medicine by mistake would make Calcarea Carb follow sulphur and therefore the caution. with best wishes.

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | August 17 2011 |
|---|---|---|

My grand daughter was advised 1 dose of Thuja 200 followed by Bacilinum 10 M, One dose, 30 ml water, mark 2 doses. Give 1 the next day then refilled with water upto the 6th day.last dose on the 7th. I gave her Sulphur. Then she went to her uncle's house in Bihar. He is a Peditrician. He found worms in her stomach and gave her such medicine. The worms [not roundworms] got expelled. The my son gave her Cal Carb. My question is she gets fever again n again. Ars 30 seems to suit her.And she is very naughty. short tempered too. What can be done to relieve her from fevef. The dr gave her anti convulsion medicine if the fevef goes higher than 100.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | August 17 2011 |
|---|---|---|

See my reply of June 9. I have already suspected worms and recommended Cina and Sulphur. I quote
Did she have tonsils when she had convulsions. If not give her three doses of Cina 30 also and see for results. Anyhow before that I would like to see the results of Sulphur and Calcarea. In fact Calcarea is the prescribed medicine but Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea and at the same time both are antipsoric and should work miraculously on skin.

==========
the above suggestions hold till date. Cina and Sulphur are for worms and they can also stop convulsions, high fever, skin rashes and emaciation. Arsenic Album 30 may be given upto three doses for one day and repeated whenever necessary,. Arsenic fever will have restlessness, nausea and chill, it may also aggravate at 2 p.m. or 2 a.m.

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | August 18 2011 |

She did have tonsilitis. She gets fever again and again too. very restless. Ars and Ipecac 30 were given alternately in the last fever. Maybe 2 doses each. It helped. This was the remedy given by my late doctor and had advised us to remember this.Her immunity is also low.
So now Udaya what will you advise us. please

Jayashree Kanoi

|---|---|---|
| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | August 18 2011 |

I would suggest Cina, Sulphur and Belladonna or Baryta Carb as the case may be. Calcarea Carb may also work in tonsils if it is constitutionally the medicine for her. Otherwise Hepar sulph should be tried for Tonsils. With low immune level, thuja, natrum mur therapy should be given as foundation.

It may not be strepto surfacing to skin level. Sulphur would be sufficient alongwith Calcarea. Strepto is best addressed with Hepar Sulph. with best wishes.

Dear Udaya, she has got a bad cold. Actually she is very suscetible to cold. Her mother had got Pleurisy after her birth. Was on drugs for a year. In the meantime, She was lso feeding her daughter with the Doctor's advice.
So now have not given her any medicine. My staff got Sulpur 200 instead of 30. What advice can you give me. Also se sweats a lot, her skin i clammy all the time. Please advise me. Should I give her Hepar 30 or wait for Sulphur.

I would suggest Sulphur + Calcarea carb as originally suggested. If Sulphur is 200C use single dose once. Repeat Calcarea Carb thereafter upto three doses. Calcarea should not be given after Sulphur. with best wishes.

I am confused. I've managed to get Sulphur 30, single dose. Will give it to her tonight only. Then tomorrow Calcarea Carb 3 doses a single day only.
You wrote before in this page only "Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea ". But before in another posting you had said, Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea. Above also you have written Sulphur should not be given after calcarea.
Anyway tonight 1 dose of Sulphur 30 then tomorrow will give er 3 doses of Calcrea. will report thereafter.

Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea is a precaution from the books. Repetition of that is not only for you but for everyone who reads this forum. I have taken Sulphur after Calcarea on myself and experimented but nothing happened to me. However, if someone masters writes that before, there must be some reason and we should not ignore it. Therefore the caution.

The Sulphur has to be taken only one dose. But second time I wrote specifically only one dose because you said you could get only 200C potency.

Your schedule as of now is correct and please proceed with it.

Usually the sequence would be Sulphur+Calcarea Carb+Lycopodium. which means it can be repeated again and again without Sulphur following after Calcarea due to the fact that Lycopdium is coming in between the two when they are repeated continuously. The reason for these three are because they are all anti-psoric polychrests. I did not ask the child to take lyco because no symptoms of lyco are present. When lyco is removed from the middle of the classic trio, the repetition of the medicine by mistake would make Calcarea Carb follow sulphur and therefore the caution. with best wishes.

My grand daughter was advised 1 dose of Thuja 200 followed by Bacilinum 10 M, One dose, 30 ml water, mark 2 doses. Give 1 the next day then refilled with water upto the 6th day.last dose on the 7th. I gave her Sulphur. Then she went to her uncle's house in Bihar. He is a Peditrician. He found worms in her stomach and gave her such medicine. The worms [not roundworms] got expelled. The my son gave her Cal Carb. My question is she gets fever again n again. Ars 30 seems to suit her.And she is very naughty. short tempered too. What can be done to relieve her from fevef. The dr gave her anti convulsion medicine if the fevef goes higher than 100.

See my reply of June 9. I have already suspected worms and recommended Cina and Sulphur. I quote
Did she have tonsils when she had convulsions. If not give her three doses of Cina 30 also and see for results. Anyhow before that I would like to see the results of Sulphur and Calcarea. In fact Calcarea is the prescribed medicine but Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea and at the same time both are antipsoric and should work miraculously on skin.

the above suggestions hold till date. Cina and Sulphur are for worms and they can also stop convulsions, high fever, skin rashes and emaciation. Arsenic Album 30 may be given upto three doses for one day and repeated whenever necessary,. Arsenic fever will have restlessness, nausea and chill, it may also aggravate at 2 p.m. or 2 a.m.

She did have tonsilitis. She gets fever again and again too. very restless. Ars and Ipecac 30 were given alternately in the last fever. Maybe 2 doses each. It helped. This was the remedy given by my late doctor and had advised us to remember this.Her immunity is also low.
So now Udaya what will you advise us. please

I would suggest Cina, Sulphur and Belladonna or Baryta Carb as the case may be. Calcarea Carb may also work in tonsils if it is constitutionally the medicine for her. Otherwise Hepar sulph should be tried for Tonsils. With low immune level, thuja, natrum mur therapy should be given as foundation.

| Peripheral Neuropathy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | April 6 2011 |

in the firstweek ofAugust I passed only blood in place of stool in the afternoon. At night i felt some thing and went into the toilet. Was shocked to see my pyjamas full of blood. I cleaned up and came out, but fell in the dark. Next day was hospitalised. many tests like, colonoscopy, endoscopy, xray, sonography, etc. were done, all were clear. nothing wrong.But still was passing blood in stool. and very weak. hen the blood stopped returned home. after a few days was finding it difficult to breathe. Back to hospital. This time was so weak that could not stand. was given oxygen for 4-5 days. then returned home. At home was bed ridden. could not even sit, though not so the first time.
was in bed for 5 months. the nurse used to do everything for me, even feed me as i was unable to eat and drink by myself. dont know which doctor said that i ws suffering from Peripheral Neuropathy. was on homeopathy only. my doctor gave me Aspidosperma in liquid dose. plus other medicines too. slowly got better.
now i have numb hands and feet below ankles. still need someone to take me to the bathroom as am unable to walk by myself. no medicine seems to help me. can you in th forum help me here?

Dear Jayashri~

You are so courageous in facing these challenges and recovering your strength.
I am not an expert although I've seen various conditions when I give healing treatments (Reiki).

I don't know where you are, I'm wondering if you are able to find a physio-therapist to do range of motion exercises on your hands & feet.

Also, I think firm massage of your hands and feet would help circulation.

My heart goes out to you, I'm sure the homeopaths will send you excellent advice on this forum.

Wishing you good spirits and a powerful return to full health and strength.

Very best wishes ~ Sonia ('Wise & Well')

Thanks a lot Sonia. I do take massage. Had gone for physio too till the lady said no more was needed. My homeopath is good but not very. Normally i would take advise from Pankaj, not possible any more. I hope Udaya, Joe would take up my case.

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: udaya kumar-- | April 7 2011 |

My dear Jayashree,
It should be diabetic peripheral neuropathy. Is your diabetes brittle?
Use the following medicines 5 drops each in half glass of water together, three times a day for one day report and proceed.

1. Helonias Q
2. Phlorizinum 2X
3. Syzygium Jambolanum Q.
4. Avena Sativa Q.

Use the following medicines three times a day for three days >
1. Carboveg 30

Use the following medicine one dose a week
1. Acid Phos 200.

Hamamelis, Aloes, Ficus Indica/Religiosa, phosphorus may be thought of according to symptoms if the bleeding does not yield to Carboveg. Acid Phos and Avena Sativa should help with the peripheral symptoms and debility as well as other aspects as per symptoms.

In the mean time give complete set of symptom so that I can be more precise in suggestion of medicines. with best wishes.

Dear Udaya,
yes i am diabetic. My bleeding has stopped but my hands and feet are numb which makes it difficult to hold small things and walking without help.
This is what i need help for.
please do guide me here.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: udaya kumar-- | April 10 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Jayashree,
All the medicines mentioned above were chosen taking the numbness of the limbs into consideration. Helonias is good for both Diabetes Insipedus and Mellitus alongwith all kinds of debilities. Avena Sativa has also been chosen with numbness of upper limbs in particularly into consideration and its extremities symptoms are-Numbness of limbs, as if paralyzed. Strength of hand diminished. A combination of Phlorizinum and Syzygium is intended to keep diabetes under control, which may not be used if found too much. You may use Alfalfa Q for digestion and assimilation if found necessary alongwith Avena Sativa. Nutrition to nerves is fundamental in revival. with best regards.

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | April 22 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Udaya, Sorry for the late reply.
,n I do not understand what You meant by brittle. Though my sugar is not very high normal - fasting and 225-260PP, I have got all the problems it can give. Am on Lantus Inj 40 iu daily and other medicines too.

A friend recommended Lyco 200 twice a day for my numbness. It has helped somewhat. I can now walk alone and also pick up things. Do I really need to get all the meddicines. Pankaj used to say abt 1-2 medicines are enough at a time.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: udaya kumar-- | April 22 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Jayashree,
By brittle I meant, unstable or labile diabetes which will have extreme swings in glucose level and usually it is in these types which are insulin dependent that neuropathy usually sets in.

Lyco helps in sending the various subtle Airs to their respective places and thereby reinstate the blood supplies to the nerve endings. This is one way of removing numbness which is also done by causticum, arnica, carbo veg and the kind of medicines. But, if you are looking at correcting the cause for the diabetes and curing it, the indicated medicines are the ones. I do not say that you take all the medicines. Neither I can pin point on one medicine with accuracy sitting at a distance. Your feedbacks are important clues towards such choice of correct medicines. However, I think it is better even to take 10 homeo medicines at a time rather than taking all that toxic chemicals in the name of medicines, which are cause and end to all modern maladies. The choice is yours.

I am using the medicines you suggested only. Before I used to take only them but later added Ars Brom which had helped me before. For last 2-3 weeks my sugar lessened and i've decreased myLantus Inj from 40 I.U. to 30. Also stopped Syzygium as sugar was too low.
Hypericum which potency? I have 30.

Use one single dose of Sulphur 30 followed by Calcarea Carb 30 three times a day for one day. Sulphur should not follow Calcarea.

Udaya I nforgot to write. In the second week of April she got high fever with convulsions. She had to be hospitalised. There she got urine infection and had to stay for a week, with drip on her feet. Sinc then she has gone weak. She keeps on falling while running. No patience to walk. i'll get the medicines today only. Sulphur One day and Calcarea Carb the next?

Did she have tonsils when she had convulsions. If not give her three doses of Cina 30 also and see for results. Anyhow before that I would like to see the results of Sulphur and Calcarea. In fact Calcarea is the prescribed medicine but Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea and at the same time both are antipsoric and should work miraculously on skin. with best wishes.

Dear Udaya, she has got a bad cold. Actually she is very suscetible to cold. Her mother had got Pleurisy after her birth. Was on drugs for a year. In the meantime, She was lso feeding her daughter with the Doctor's advice.
So now have not given her any medicine. My staff got Sulpur 200 instead of 30. What advice can you give me. Also se sweats a lot, her skin i clammy all the time. Please advise me. Should I give her Hepar 30 or wait for Sulphur.

I am confused. I've managed to get Sulphur 30, single dose. Will give it to her tonight only. Then tomorrow Calcarea Carb 3 doses a single day only.
You wrote before in this page only "Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea ". But before in another posting you had said, Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea. Above also you have written Sulphur should not be given after calcarea.
Anyway tonight 1 dose of Sulphur 30 then tomorrow will give er 3 doses of Calcrea. will report thereafter.

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 12 2011 |

Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea is a precaution from the books. Repetition of that is not only for you but for everyone who reads this forum. I have taken Sulphur after Calcarea on myself and experimented but nothing happened to me. However, if someone masters writes that before, there must be some reason and we should not ignore it. Therefore the caution.

The Sulphur has to be taken only one dose. But second time I wrote specifically only one dose because you said you could get only 200C potency.

Your schedule as of now is correct and please proceed with it.

Usually the sequence would be Sulphur+Calcarea Carb+Lycopodium. which means it can be repeated again and again without Sulphur following after Calcarea due to the fact that Lycopdium is coming in between the two when they are repeated continuously. The reason for these three are because they are all anti-psoric polychrests. I did not ask the child to take lyco because no symptoms of lyco are present. When lyco is removed from the middle of the classic trio, the repetition of the medicine by mistake would make Calcarea Carb follow sulphur and therefore the caution. with best wishes.

My grand daughter was advised 1 dose of Thuja 200 followed by Bacilinum 10 M, One dose, 30 ml water, mark 2 doses. Give 1 the next day then refilled with water upto the 6th day.last dose on the 7th. I gave her Sulphur. Then she went to her uncle's house in Bihar. He is a Peditrician. He found worms in her stomach and gave her such medicine. The worms [not roundworms] got expelled. The my son gave her Cal Carb. My question is she gets fever again n again. Ars 30 seems to suit her.And she is very naughty. short tempered too. What can be done to relieve her from fevef. The dr gave her anti convulsion medicine if the fevef goes higher than 100.

the above suggestions hold till date. Cina and Sulphur are for worms and they can also stop convulsions, high fever, skin rashes and emaciation. Arsenic Album 30 may be given upto three doses for one day and repeated whenever necessary,. Arsenic fever will have restlessness, nausea and chill, it may also aggravate at 2 p.m. or 2 a.m.

She did have tonsilitis. She gets fever again and again too. very restless. Ars and Ipecac 30 were given alternately in the last fever. Maybe 2 doses each. It helped. This was the remedy given by my late doctor and had advised us to remember this.Her immunity is also low.
So now Udaya what will you advise us. please

I would suggest Cina, Sulphur and Belladonna or Baryta Carb as the case may be. Calcarea Carb may also work in tonsils if it is constitutionally the medicine for her. Otherwise Hepar sulph should be tried for Tonsils. With low immune level, thuja, natrum mur therapy should be given as foundation.

Dear Udaya, she has got a bad cold. Actually she is very suscetible to cold. Her mother had got Pleurisy after her birth. Was on drugs for a year. In the meantime, She was lso feeding her daughter with the Doctor's advice.
So now have not given her any medicine. My staff got Sulpur 200 instead of 30. What advice can you give me. Also se sweats a lot, her skin i clammy all the time. Please advise me. Should I give her Hepar 30 or wait for Sulphur.

I would suggest Sulphur + Calcarea carb as originally suggested. If Sulphur is 200C use single dose once. Repeat Calcarea Carb thereafter upto three doses. Calcarea should not be given after Sulphur. with best wishes.

I am confused. I've managed to get Sulphur 30, single dose. Will give it to her tonight only. Then tomorrow Calcarea Carb 3 doses a single day only.
You wrote before in this page only "Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea ". But before in another posting you had said, Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea. Above also you have written Sulphur should not be given after calcarea. Anyway tonight 1 dose of Sulphur 30 then tomorrow will give er 3 doses of Calcrea. will report thereafter.

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 12 2011 |

Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea is a precaution from the books. Repetition of that is not only for you but for everyone who reads this forum. I have taken Sulphur after Calcarea on myself and experimented but nothing happened to me. However, if someone masters writes that before, there must be some reason and we should not ignore it. Therefore the caution.

The Sulphur has to be taken only one dose. But second time I wrote specifically only one dose because you said you could get only 200C potency.

Your schedule as of now is correct and please proceed with it.

Usually the sequence would be Sulphur+Calcarea Carb+Lycopodium. which means it can be repeated again and again without Sulphur following after Calcarea due to the fact that Lycopdium is coming in between the two when they are repeated continuously. The reason for these three are because they are all anti-psoric polychrests. I did not ask the child to take lyco because no symptoms of lyco are present. When lyco is removed from the middle of the classic trio, the repetition of the medicine by mistake would make Calcarea Carb follow sulphur and therefore the caution. with best wishes.

My grand daughter was advised 1 dose of Thuja 200 followed by Bacilinum 10 M, One dose, 30 ml water, mark 2 doses. Give 1 the next day then refilled with water upto the 6th day.last dose on the 7th. I gave her Sulphur. Then she went to her uncle's house in Bihar. He is a Peditrician. He found worms in her stomach and gave her such medicine. The worms [not roundworms] got expelled. The my son gave her Cal Carb. My question is she gets fever again n again. Ars 30 seems to suit her.And she is very naughty. short tempered too. What can be done to relieve her from fevef. The dr gave her anti convulsion medicine if the fevef goes higher than 100.

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | August 17 2011 |
|---|---|---|

See my reply of June 9. I have already suspected worms and recommended Cina and Sulphur. I quote
Did she have tonsils when she had convulsions. If not give her three doses of Cina 30 also and see for results. Anyhow before that I would like to see the results of Sulphur and Calcarea. In fact Calcarea is the prescribed medicine but Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea and at the same time both are antipsoric and should work miraculously on skin.

==========
the above suggestions hold till date. Cina and Sulphur are for worms and they can also stop convulsions, high fever, skin rashes and emaciation. Arsenic Album 30 may be given upto three doses for one day and repeated whenever necessary,. Arsenic fever will have restlessness, nausea and chill, it may also aggravate at 2 p.m. or 2 a.m.

|---|---|---|

She did have tonsilitis. She gets fever again and again too. very restless. Ars and Ipecac 30 were given alternately in the last fever. Maybe 2 doses each. It helped. This was the remedy given by my late doctor and had advised us to remember this.Her immunity is also low.
So now Udaya what will you advise us. please

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | August 18 2011 |
|---|---|---|

I would suggest Cina, Sulphur and Belladonna or Baryta Carb as the case may be. Calcarea Carb may also work in tonsils if it is constitutionally the medicine for her. Otherwise Hepar sulph should be tried for Tonsils. With low immune level, thuja, natrum mur therapy should be given as foundation.

|---|---|---|

in the firstweek ofAugust I passed only blood in place of stool in the afternoon. At night i felt some thing and went into the toilet. Was shocked to see my pyjamas full of blood. I cleaned up and came out, but fell in the dark. Next day was hospitalised. many tests like, colonoscopy, endoscopy, xray, sonography, etc. were done, all were clear. nothing wrong.But still was passing blood in stool. and very weak. hen the blood stopped returned home. after a few days was finding it difficult to breathe. Back to hospital. This time was so weak that could not stand. was given oxygen for 4-5 days. then returned home. At home was bed ridden. could not even sit, though not so the first time.
was in bed for 5 months. the nurse used to do everything for me, even feed me as i was unable to eat and drink by myself. dont know which doctor said that i ws suffering from Peripheral Neuropathy. was on homeopathy only. my doctor gave me Aspidosperma in liquid dose. plus other medicines too. slowly got better.
now i have numb hands and feet below ankles. still need someone to take me to the bathroom as am unable to walk by myself. no medicine seems to help me. can you in th forum help me here?

Dear Jayashri~

You are so courageous in facing these challenges and recovering your strength.
I am not an expert although I've seen various conditions when I give healing treatments (Reiki).

I don't know where you are, I'm wondering if you are able to find a physio-therapist to do range of motion exercises on your hands & feet.

Also, I think firm massage of your hands and feet would help circulation.

My heart goes out to you, I'm sure the homeopaths will send you excellent advice on this forum.

Wishing you good spirits and a powerful return to full health and strength.

Very best wishes ~ Sonia ('Wise & Well')

My dear Jayashree,
It should be diabetic peripheral neuropathy. Is your diabetes brittle?
Use the following medicines 5 drops each in half glass of water together, three times a day for one day report and proceed.

1. Helonias Q
2. Phlorizinum 2X
3. Syzygium Jambolanum Q.
4. Avena Sativa Q.

Use the following medicines three times a day for three days >
1. Carboveg 30

Use the following medicine one dose a week
1. Acid Phos 200.

Hamamelis, Aloes, Ficus Indica/Religiosa, phosphorus may be thought of according to symptoms if the bleeding does not yield to Carboveg. Acid Phos and Avena Sativa should help with the peripheral symptoms and debility as well as other aspects as per symptoms.

In the mean time give complete set of symptom so that I can be more precise in suggestion of medicines. with best wishes.

Dear Jayashree,
All the medicines mentioned above were chosen taking the numbness of the limbs into consideration. Helonias is good for both Diabetes Insipedus and Mellitus alongwith all kinds of debilities. Avena Sativa has also been chosen with numbness of upper limbs in particularly into consideration and its extremities symptoms are-Numbness of limbs, as if paralyzed. Strength of hand diminished. A combination of Phlorizinum and Syzygium is intended to keep diabetes under control, which may not be used if found too much. You may use Alfalfa Q for digestion and assimilation if found necessary alongwith Avena Sativa. Nutrition to nerves is fundamental in revival. with best regards.

Dear Udaya, Sorry for the late reply.
,n I do not understand what You meant by brittle. Though my sugar is not very high normal - fasting and 225-260PP, I have got all the problems it can give. Am on Lantus Inj 40 iu daily and other medicines too.

A friend recommended Lyco 200 twice a day for my numbness. It has helped somewhat. I can now walk alone and also pick up things. Do I really need to get all the meddicines. Pankaj used to say abt 1-2 medicines are enough at a time.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: udaya kumar-- | April 22 2011 |

Dear Jayashree,
By brittle I meant, unstable or labile diabetes which will have extreme swings in glucose level and usually it is in these types which are insulin dependent that neuropathy usually sets in.

Lyco helps in sending the various subtle Airs to their respective places and thereby reinstate the blood supplies to the nerve endings. This is one way of removing numbness which is also done by causticum, arnica, carbo veg and the kind of medicines. But, if you are looking at correcting the cause for the diabetes and curing it, the indicated medicines are the ones. I do not say that you take all the medicines. Neither I can pin point on one medicine with accuracy sitting at a distance. Your feedbacks are important clues towards such choice of correct medicines. However, I think it is better even to take 10 homeo medicines at a time rather than taking all that toxic chemicals in the name of medicines, which are cause and end to all modern maladies. The choice is yours.

My 17 month old grand daughter sweats a lot in this HOT weather. As such she has rash on the back of her neck. Dunno if it itches, but she likes the application of Echinacea. Her mother and Aunt have th same problem. She is also stubborn,may have got it from me or my son. Please help!!

Use one single dose of Sulphur 30 followed by Calcarea Carb 30 three times a day for one day. Sulphur should not follow Calcarea.

Udaya I nforgot to write. In the second week of April she got high fever with convulsions. She had to be hospitalised. There she got urine infection and had to stay for a week, with drip on her feet. Sinc then she has gone weak. She keeps on falling while running. No patience to walk. i'll get the medicines today only. Sulphur One day and Calcarea Carb the next?

Did she have tonsils when she had convulsions. If not give her three doses of Cina 30 also and see for results. Anyhow before that I would like to see the results of Sulphur and Calcarea. In fact Calcarea is the prescribed medicine but Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea and at the same time both are antipsoric and should work miraculously on skin. with best wishes.

Thanks. She had sore throat when she was younger, lead to allergy. then the dr gave her medicines. ok, will give her Sulphur soon. Maybe tonight.

It may not be strepto surfacing to skin level. Sulphur would be sufficient alongwith Calcarea. Strepto is best addressed with Hepar Sulph. with best wishes.

Dear Udaya, she has got a bad cold. Actually she is very suscetible to cold. Her mother had got Pleurisy after her birth. Was on drugs for a year. In the meantime, She was lso feeding her daughter with the Doctor's advice.

So now have not given her any medicine. My staff got Sulpur 200 instead of 30. What advice can you give me. Also se sweats a lot, her skin i clammy all the time. Please advise me. Should I give her Hepar 30 or wait for Sulphur.

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 11 2011 |

I would suggest Sulphur + Calcarea carb as originally suggested. If Sulphur is 200C use single dose once. Repeat Calcarea Carb thereafter upto three doses. Calcarea should not be given after Sulphur. with best wishes.

--

|---|---|---|
| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | June 12 2011 |

I am confused. I've managed to get Sulphur 30, single dose. Will give it to her tonight only. Then tomorrow Calcarea Carb 3 doses a single day only.
You wrote before in this page only "Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea ". But before in another posting you had said, Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea. Above also you have written Sulphur should not be given after calcarea.
Anyway tonight 1 dose of Sulphur 30 then tomorrow will give er 3 doses of Calcrea. will report thereafter.

Jayashree Kanoi

|---|---|---|
| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 12 2011 |

Sulphur should not be given after Calcarea is a precaution from the books. Repetition of that is not only for you but for everyone who reads this forum. I have taken Sulphur after Calcarea on myself and experimented but nothing happened to me. However, if someone masters writes that before, there must be some reason and we should not ignore it. Therefore the caution.

The Sulphur has to be taken only one dose. But second time I wrote specifically only one dose because you said you could get only 200C potency.

Your schedule as of now is correct and please proceed with it.

Usually the sequence would be Sulphur+Calcarea Carb+Lycopodium. which means it can be repeated again and again without Sulphur following after Calcarea due to the fact that Lycopdium is coming in between the two when they are repeated continuously. The reason for these three are because they are all anti-psoric polychrests. I did not ask the child to take lyco because no symptoms of lyco are present. When lyco is removed from the middle of the classic trio, the repetition of the medicine by mistake would make Calcarea Carb follow sulphur and therefore the caution. with best wishes.

My grand daughter was advised 1 dose of Thuja 200 followed by Bacilinum 10 M, One dose, 30 ml water, mark 2 doses. Give 1 the next day then refilled with water upto the 6th day.last dose on the 7th. I gave her Sulphur. Then she went to her uncle's house in Bihar. He is a Peditrician. He found worms in her stomach and gave her such medicine. The worms [not roundworms] got expelled. The my son gave her Cal Carb. My question is she gets fever again n again. Ars 30 seems to suit her.And she is very naughty. short tempered too. What can be done to relieve her from fevef. The dr gave her anti convulsion medicine if the fevef goes higher than 100.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | August 17 2011 |
|---|---|---|

See my reply of June 9. I have already suspected worms and recommended Cina and Sulphur. I quote
Did she have tonsils when she had convulsions. If not give her three doses of Cina 30 also and see for results. Anyhow before that I would like to see the results of Sulphur and Calcarea. In fact Calcarea is the prescribed medicine but Sulphur is given for boosting the power of Calcarea and at the same time both are antipsoric and should work miraculously on skin.
==========
the above suggestions hold till date. Cina and Sulphur are for worms and they can also stop convulsions, high fever, skin rashes and emaciation. Arsenic Album 30 may be given upto three doses for one day and repeated whenever necessary,. Arsenic fever will have restlessness, nausea and chill, it may also aggravate at 2 p.m. or 2 a.m.

--

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | August 18 2011 |
|---|---|---|

She did have tonsilitis. She gets fever again and again too. very restless. Ars and Ipecac 30 were given alternately in the last fever. Maybe 2 doses each. It helped. This was the remedy given by my late doctor and had advised us to remember this.Her immunity is also low.
So now Udaya what will you advise us. please

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: udaya kumar-- | August 18 2011 |
|---|---|---|

I would suggest Cina, Sulphur and Belladonna or Baryta Carb as the case may be. Calcarea Carb may also work in tonsils if it is constitutionally the medicine for her. Otherwise Hepar sulph should be tried for Tonsils. With low immune level, thuja, natrum mur therapy should be given as foundation.

--

| Re:Baby sweats a lot and gets allergy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | August 19 2011 |

in the firstweek ofAugust I passed only blood in place of stool in the afternoon. At night i felt some thing and went into the toilet. Was shocked to see my pyjamas full of blood. I cleaned up and came out, but fell in the dark. Next day was hospitalised. many tests like, colonoscopy, endoscopy, xray, sonography, etc. were done, all were clear. nothing wrong.But still was passing blood in stool. and very weak. hen the blood stopped returned home. after a few days was finding it difficult to breathe. Back to hospital. This time was so weak that could not stand. was given oxygen for 4-5 days. then returned home. At home was bed ridden. could not even sit, though not so the first time.
was in bed for 5 months. the nurse used to do everything for me, even feed me as i was unable to eat and drink by myself. dont know which doctor said that i ws suffering from Peripheral Neuropathy. was on homeopathy only. my doctor gave me Aspidosperma in liquid dose. plus other medicines too. slowly got better.
now i have numb hands and feet below ankles. still need someone to take me to the bathroom as am unable to walk by myself. no medicine seems to help me. can you in th forum help me here?

Dear Jayashri~

You are so courageous in facing these challenges and recovering your strength.
I am not an expert although I've seen various conditions when I give healing treatments (Reiki).

I don't know where you are, I'm wondering if you are able to find a physio-therapist to do range of motion exercises on your hands & feet.

Also, I think firm massage of your hands and feet would help circulation.

My heart goes out to you, I'm sure the homeopaths will send you excellent advice on this forum.

Wishing you good spirits and a powerful return to full health and strength.

Very best wishes ~ Sonia ('Wise & Well')

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: udaya kumar-- | April 7 2011 |
|---|---|---|

My dear Jayashree,
It should be diabetic peripheral neuropathy. Is your diabetes brittle?
Use the following medicines 5 drops each in half glass of water together, three times a day for one day report and proceed.

1. Helonias Q
2. Phlorizinum 2X
3. Syzygium Jambolanum Q.
4. Avena Sativa Q.

Use the following medicines three times a day for three days >
1. Carboveg 30

Use the following medicine one dose a week
1. Acid Phos 200.

Hamamelis, Aloes, Ficus Indica/Religiosa, phosphorus may be thought of according to symptoms if the bleeding does not yield to Carboveg. Acid Phos and Avena Sativa should help with the peripheral symptoms and debility as well as other aspects as per symptoms.

In the mean time give complete set of symptom so that I can be more precise in suggestion of medicines. with best wishes.

|---|---|---|

Dear Udaya,
yes i am diabetic. My bleeding has stopped but my hands and feet are numb which makes it difficult to hold small things and walking without help.
This is what i need help for.
please do guide me here.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: udaya kumar-- | April 10 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Jayashree,
All the medicines mentioned above were chosen taking the numbness of the limbs into consideration. Helonias is good for both Diabetes Insipedus and Mellitus alongwith all kinds of debilities. Avena Sativa has also been chosen with numbness of upper limbs in particularly into consideration and its extremities symptoms are-Numbness of limbs, as if paralyzed. Strength of hand diminished. A combination of Phlorizinum and Syzygium is intended to keep diabetes under control, which may not be used if found too much. You may use Alfalfa Q for digestion and assimilation if found necessary alongwith Avena Sativa. Nutrition to nerves is fundamental in revival. with best regards.

Thanks Udaya,
Will start the medicines soon, but now i am on Kali Bich and Bryonia due to a bad cold and cough. will wait for my medicines (Antibiotics) to finish, then start the above.

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | April 22 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Udaya, Sorry for the late reply.
,n I do not understand what You meant by brittle. Though my sugar is not very high normal - fasting and 225-260PP, I have got all the problems it can give. Am on Lantus Inj 40 iu daily and other medicines too.

A friend recommended Lyco 200 twice a day for my numbness. It has helped somewhat. I can now walk alone and also pick up things. Do I really need to get all the meddicines. Pankaj used to say abt 1-2 medicines are enough at a time.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: udaya kumar-- | April 22 2011 |

Dear Jayashree,
By brittle I meant, unstable or labile diabetes which will have extreme swings in glucose level and usually it is in these types which are insulin dependent that neuropathy usually sets in.

Lyco helps in sending the various subtle Airs to their respective places and thereby reinstate the blood supplies to the nerve endings. This is one way of removing numbness which is also done by causticum, arnica, carbo veg and the kind of medicines. But, if you are looking at correcting the cause for the diabetes and curing it, the indicated medicines are the ones. I do not say that you take all the medicines. Neither I can pin point on one medicine with accuracy sitting at a distance. Your feedbacks are important clues towards such choice of correct medicines. However, I think it is better even to take 10 homeo medicines at a time rather than taking all that toxic chemicals in the name of medicines, which are cause and end to all modern maladies. The choice is yours.

Dear Jayashree,
Is there some progress? Also take the following :
Immerse sun dried Amla in one ounce water along with one spoon of ground powder of Seeds of Jambolan (Jamun). Drink the water two spoons every three hours. Stop insulin when diabetes reaches normal.

Dear Udaya,sorry for the late reply.
My sugar has lessened quite a bit. I've stopped taking Syzygium and am taking Arsenic Bromide Q, which a homeopath had advised. My sugar was normal on sunday.

But my feet and hands are still numb. Little better than before but.... If I do not take the medicines one day they are worse.
What else can I do??

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | June 8 2011 |

I am using the medicines you suggested only. Before I used to take only them but later added Ars Brom which had helped me before. For last 2-3 weeks my sugar lessened and i've decreased myLantus Inj from 40 I.U. to 30. Also stopped Syzygium as sugar was too low.
Hypericum which potency? I have 30.

1. Acid Phos 200.

Hamamelis, Aloes, Ficus Indica/Religiosa, phosphorus may be thought of according to symptoms if the bleeding does not yield to Carboveg. Acid Phos and Avena Sativa should help with the peripheral symptoms and debility as well as other aspects as per symptoms.

In the mean time give complete set of symptom so that I can be more precise in suggestion of medicines. with best wishes.

Dear Jayashree,
All the medicines mentioned above were chosen taking the numbness of the limbs into consideration. Helonias is good for both Diabetes Insipedus and Mellitus alongwith all kinds of debilities. Avena Sativa has also been chosen with numbness of upper limbs in particularly into consideration and its extremities symptoms are-Numbness of limbs, as if paralyzed. Strength of hand diminished. A combination of Phlorizinum and Syzygium is intended to keep diabetes under control, which may not be used if found too much. You may use Alfalfa Q for digestion and assimilation if found necessary alongwith Avena Sativa. Nutrition to nerves is fundamental in revival. with best regards.

Dear Udaya, Sorry for the late reply.
,n I do not understand what You meant by brittle. Though my sugar is not very high normal - fasting and 225-260PP, I have got all the problems it can give. Am on Lantus Inj 40 iu daily and other medicines too.

A friend recommended Lyco 200 twice a day for my numbness. It has helped somewhat. I can now walk alone and also pick up things. Do I really need to get all the meddicines. Pankaj used to say abt 1-2 medicines are enough at a time.

|---|---|---|

Dear Jayashree,
By brittle I meant, unstable or labile diabetes which will have extreme swings in glucose level and usually it is in these types which are insulin dependent that neuropathy usually sets in.

Lyco helps in sending the various subtle Airs to their respective places and thereby reinstate the blood supplies to the nerve endings. This is one way of removing numbness which is also done by causticum, arnica, carbo veg and the kind of medicines. But, if you are looking at correcting the cause for the diabetes and curing it, the indicated medicines are the ones. I do not say that you take all the medicines. Neither I can pin point on one medicine with accuracy sitting at a distance. Your feedbacks are important clues towards such choice of correct medicines. However, I think it is better even to take 10 homeo medicines at a time rather than taking all that toxic chemicals in the name of medicines, which are cause and end to all modern maladies. The choice is yours.

in the firstweek ofAugust I passed only blood in place of stool in the afternoon. At night i felt some thing and went into the toilet. Was shocked to see my pyjamas full of blood. I cleaned up and came out, but fell in the dark. Next day was hospitalised. many tests like, colonoscopy, endoscopy, xray, sonography, etc. were done, all were clear. nothing wrong.But still was passing blood in stool. and very weak. hen the blood stopped returned home. after a few days was finding it difficult to breathe. Back to hospital. This time was so weak that could not stand. was given oxygen for 4-5 days. then returned home. At home was bed ridden. could not even sit, though not so the first time.
was in bed for 5 months. the nurse used to do everything for me, even feed me as i was unable to eat and drink by myself. dont know which doctor said that i ws suffering from Peripheral Neuropathy. was on homeopathy only. my doctor gave me Aspidosperma in liquid dose. plus other medicines too. slowly got better.
now i have numb hands and feet below ankles. still need someone to take me to the bathroom as am unable to walk by myself. no medicine seems to help me. can you in th forum help me here?

Dear Jayashri~

You are so courageous in facing these challenges and recovering your strength.
I am not an expert although I've seen various conditions when I give healing treatments (Reiki).

I don't know where you are, I'm wondering if you are able to find a physio-therapist to do range of motion exercises on your hands & feet.

Also, I think firm massage of your hands and feet would help circulation.

My heart goes out to you, I'm sure the homeopaths will send you excellent advice on this forum.

Wishing you good spirits and a powerful return to full health and strength.

Very best wishes ~ Sonia ('Wise & Well')

My dear Jayashree,
It should be diabetic peripheral neuropathy. Is your diabetes brittle?
Use the following medicines 5 drops each in half glass of water together, three times a day for one day report and proceed.

1. Helonias Q
2. Phlorizinum 2X
3. Syzygium Jambolanum Q.
4. Avena Sativa Q.

Use the following medicines three times a day for three days >

Dear Jayashree,
By brittle I meant, unstable or labile diabetes which will have extreme swings in glucose level and usually it is in these types which are insulin dependent that neuropathy usually sets in.

Lyco helps in sending the various subtle Airs to their respective places and thereby reinstate the blood supplies to the nerve endings. This is one way of removing numbness which is also done by causticum, arnica, carbo veg and the kind of medicines. But, if you are looking at correcting the cause for the diabetes and curing it, the indicated medicines are the ones. I do not say that you take all the medicines. Neither I can pin point on one medicine with accuracy sitting at a distance. Your feedbacks are important clues towards such choice of correct medicines. However, I think it is better even to take 10 homeo medicines at a time rather than taking all that toxic chemicals in the name of medicines, which are cause and end to all modern maladies. The choice is yours.

Dear Udaya,sorry for the late reply.
My sugar has lessened quite a bit. I've stopped taking Syzygium and am taking Arsenic Bromide Q, which a homeopath had advised. My sugar was normal on sunday.

But my feet and hands are still numb. Little better than before but.... If I do not take the medicines one day they are worse.
What else can I do??

in the firstweek ofAugust I passed only blood in place of stool in the afternoon. At night i felt some thing and went into the toilet. Was shocked to see my pyjamas full of blood. I cleaned up and came out, but fell in the dark. Next day was hospitalised. many tests like, colonoscopy, endoscopy, xray, sonography, etc. were done, all were clear. nothing wrong.But still was passing blood in stool. and very weak. hen the blood stopped returned home. after a few days was finding it difficult to breathe. Back to hospital. This time was so weak that could not stand. was given oxygen for 4-5 days. then returned home. At home was bed ridden. could not even sit, though not so the first time.
was in bed for 5 months. the nurse used to do everything for me, even feed me as i was unable to eat and drink by myself. dont know which doctor said that i ws suffering from Peripheral Neuropathy. was on homeopathy only. my doctor gave me Aspidosperma in liquid dose. plus other medicines too. slowly got better.
now i have numb hands and feet below ankles. still need someone to take me to the bathroom as am unable to walk by myself. no medicine seems to help me. can you in th forum help me here?

Dear Jayashree,
All the medicines mentioned above were chosen taking the numbness of the limbs into consideration. Helonias is good for both Diabetes Insipedus and Mellitus alongwith all kinds of debilities. Avena Sativa has also been chosen with numbness of upper limbs in particularly into consideration and its extremities symptoms are-Numbness of limbs, as if paralyzed. Strength of hand diminished. A combination of Phlorizinum and Syzygium is intended to keep diabetes under control, which may not be used if found too much. You may use Alfalfa Q for digestion and assimilation if found necessary alongwith Avena Sativa. Nutrition to nerves is fundamental in revival. with best regards.

Dear Udaya, Sorry for the late reply.

,n I do not understand what You meant by brittle. Though my sugar is not very high normal - fasting and 225-260PP, I have got all the problems it can give. Am on Lantus Inj 40 iu daily and other medicines too.
A friend recommended Lyco 200 twice a day for my numbness. It has helped somewhat. I can now walk alone and also pick up things. Do I really need to get all the meddicines. Pankaj used to say abt 1-2 medicines are enough at a time.

Dear Joe,

I have gone through your numerous posts regarding the treatment of diabetes by using Arnica. I went to the nearest homeo store and brought Arnica 30. Let me inform you that there is no higher dose of Arnica available in our country.
I became a diabetic about a year back and i have been trying to manage the problem by consuming low glycemic diet and i have not taken any sort of medication yet.
Could you please explain how i need to prepare the wet dose of arnica. Also when i need to take the medicine. Please guide me in preparing the wet dose because there are a lot of varying opinions on the wet dose of arnica.
Sir your assistance will be of great help for me. Thank you.

I forgot to tell you that my fasting readings are 120-130 and i am a male of 26 years. My doctor suggested that i should use Metformin but i tried to improve thee condition by managing my diet.

I shall copy my default therapy for Diabetes below:

I have pioneered in the treatment of Diabetes both Type I and Type II with Arnica 6c in the Wet dose taken twice daily.

The Wet dose of any Homeopathic remedy is made as follows:

Order the remedy in the Ethanol pack also referred to as Liquid Dilution in a bottle preferably with a dropper arrangement.
Get a 500ml bottle of Spring Water from the nearest supermarket.
Pour out about 3cm of water from the bottle to leave some airspace.
Insert 3 drops of the remedy into the bottle and shake the bottle hard before you sip a capfull of the bottle or a large teaspoonful which is the dose.
Shaking the bottle hard is homeopathic succussion and this shaking must be done at least 6 times before sipping a capful of the bottle as prescribed.

Please visit the links below to read the response of patients who have used my therapy

Dear Udaya, Sorry for the late reply.
,n I do not understand what You meant by brittle. Though my sugar is not very high normal - fasting and 225-260PP, I have got all the problems it can give. Am on Lantus Inj 40 iu daily and other medicines too.
A friend recommended Lyco 200 twice a day for my numbness. It has helped somewhat. I can now walk alone and also pick up things. Do I really need to get all the meddicines. Pankaj used to say abt 1-2 medicines are enough at a time.

Dear Jayashree,
By brittle I meant, unstable or labile diabetes which will have extreme swings in glucose level and usually it is in these types which are insulin dependent that neuropathy usually sets in.

Lyco helps in sending the various subtle Airs to their respective places and thereby reinstate the blood supplies to the nerve endings. This is one way of removing numbness which is also done by causticum, arnica, carbo veg and the kind of medicines. But, if you are looking at correcting the cause for the diabetes and curing it, the indicated medicines are the ones. I do not say that you take all the medicines. Neither I can pin point on one medicine with accuracy sitting at a distance. Your feedbacks are important clues towards such choice of correct medicines. However, I think it is better even to take 10 homeo medicines at a time rather than taking all that toxic chemicals in the name of medicines, which are cause and end to all modern maladies. The choice is yours.

in the firstweek ofAugust I passed only blood in place of stool in the afternoon. At night i felt some thing and went into the toilet. Was shocked to see my pyjamas full of blood. I cleaned up and came out, but fell in the dark. Next day was hospitalised. many tests like, colonoscopy, endoscopy, xray, sonography, etc. were done, all were clear. nothing wrong.But still was passing blood in stool. and very weak. hen the blood stopped returned home. after a few days was finding it difficult to breathe. Back to hospital. This time was so weak that could not stand. was given oxygen for 4-5 days. then returned home. At home was bed ridden. could not even sit, though not so the first time.
was in bed for 5 months. the nurse used to do everything for me, even feed me as i was unable to eat and drink by myself. dont know which doctor said that i ws suffering from Peripheral Neuropathy. was on homeopathy only. my doctor gave me Aspidosperma in liquid dose. plus other medicines too. slowly got better.
now i have numb hands and feet below ankles. still need someone to take me to the bathroom as am unable to walk by myself. no medicine seems to help me. can you in th forum help me here?

Dear Jayashri~

You are so courageous in facing these challenges and recovering your strength.
I am not an expert although I've seen various conditions when I give healing treatments (Reiki).

I don't know where you are, I'm wondering if you are able to find a physio-therapist to do range of motion exercises on your hands & feet.

Also, I think firm massage of your hands and feet would help circulation.

My heart goes out to you, I'm sure the homeopaths will send you excellent advice on this forum.

Wishing you good spirits and a powerful return to full health and strength.

Very best wishes ~ Sonia ('Wise & Well')

My dear Jayashree,
It should be diabetic peripheral neuropathy. Is your diabetes brittle?
Use the following medicines 5 drops each in half glass of water together, three times a day for one day report and proceed.

1. Helonias Q
2. Phlorizinum 2X
3. Syzygium Jambolanum Q.
4. Avena Sativa Q.

Use the following medicines three times a day for three days >
1. Carboveg 30

Use the following medicine one dose a week
1. Acid Phos 200.

Hamamelis, Aloes, Ficus Indica/Religiosa, phosphorus may be thought of according to symptoms if the bleeding does not yield to Carboveg. Acid Phos and Avena Sativa should help with the peripheral symptoms and debility as well as other aspects as per symptoms.

In the mean time give complete set of symptom so that I can be more precise in suggestion of medicines. with best wishes.

Dear Jayashree,
All the medicines mentioned above were chosen taking the numbness of the limbs into consideration. Helonias is good for both Diabetes Insipedus and Mellitus alongwith all kinds of debilities. Avena Sativa has also been chosen with numbness of upper limbs in particularly into consideration and its extremities symptoms are-Numbness of limbs, as if paralyzed. Strength of hand diminished. A combination of Phlorizinum and Syzygium is intended to keep diabetes under control, which may not be used if found too much. You may use Alfalfa Q for digestion and assimilation if found necessary alongwith Avena Sativa. Nutrition to nerves is fundamental in revival. with best regards.

Dear Jayashree,
Is there some progress? Also take the following :
Immerse sun dried Amla in one ounce water along with one spoon of ground powder of Seeds of Jambolan (Jamun). Drink the water two spoons every three hours. Stop insulin when diabetes reaches normal.

Dear Udaya,sorry for the late reply.
My sugar has lessened quite a bit. I've stopped taking Syzygium and am taking Arsenic Bromide Q, which a homeopath had advised. My sugar was normal on sunday.

But my feet and hands are still numb. Little better than before but.... If I do not take the medicines one day they are worse. What else can I do??

Did you try the medicines I suggested on 18th May. Use Hypericum to strengthen the nerves.

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | June 8 2011 |
|---|---|---|

I am using the medicines you suggested only. Before I used to take only them but later added Ars Brom which had helped me before. For last 2-3 weeks my sugar lessened and i've decreased myLantus Inj from 40 I.U. to 30. Also stopped Syzygium as sugar was too low.
Hypericum which potency? I have 30.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: udaya kumar-- | June 8 2011 |
|---|---|---|

Hypericum 30 is the best potency if benefits are not accrued 200 could be used. Also use Avena Sativa Q as a tonic 5 drops three times daily. with best wishes.

--

| Re:Peripheral Neuropathy | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | June 9 2011 |

Thank You Udaya. I am taking Avena once daily with all the other medicines. Will increase to thrice from today only.

Cardiomegaly, Hypertrophy and Cardiopathy are conditions of heart resulting from other ailments in the body. You can see that his father has Cardiomegaly. Lypoma can be attributed to leakage of chromophins through the nerve sheaths or spine. Back problem should be there in that case in the subject. If back problem is there, Sciatic pain, hip problem, shoulder blade problems are not far behind along with cramp in feet and they all are interconnected. Please check and see if thee is any granulations or lipoma on right hand arms on the exterior or interior sides. The problem should be traced to thuja and therefore a predisposition indurations, lipomas, from parentage and therefore the father's ailments were sited. Invariably the hypertension, the right hand not able to lift, the indurations takes us to the adrinals. He has to start with Thuja 30 and Natrum Mur 30 (Natrum Mur will remove his migraine from acidity). At the same time Nux Vomica and Phosphorus are required considering that Lipoma is not going to yield with Thuja or Natrum Mur. The possibility of softening the lipoma is more than cure. In order to achieve cure, the patient need to sacrifice a lot like regulate food or change food altogether, change other habits, do yoga or prnayama etc. alongwith the medicines. If not cure cannot be achieved as the benefits from medicines will soon be overwhelmed by the causes that contribute to the advancement of the ailments. The only solution I can see here for complete cure is 21 days of Kaya Kalpa Chikisthsa with any eminent Ayurvedic centre. I have given one such address in one case before. If Acidity is the only aim then that can be tackled with Nux Vomica temporarily alongwith Hydrastis and Pulsatilla.

I too was a skeptic because the health food stores sales person told me to take the pellets dry. They didn't work because I took the pellets dry directly from the container.

Later, I hired a homeopath who taught me to take the pellets in water.

I do not believe in taking homeopathy dry. I only use it in water.

|---|---|---|
| Re:Story about a skeptic turned into a successful homeopath | By: udaya kumar-- | June 23 2010 |

I very rarely use wet doses. I have found dry doses as effective as the wet doses. I would not say more effective.

|---|---|---|
| Re:Story about a skeptic turned into a successful homeopath | By: garcotBangalore | June 24 2010 |

Dosing:

I have a open approach. It all depends on the sensitivity level of the patient, water purity and lots of other factors which are very dynamic.

Personally, both wet doses and dry doses work well for me and my wife.

What is noticed however, while using wet doses is to ensure, it is pure mineral water or atleast doesn't contain impurities, sediments etc.... presence of these substances ( including many minerals already slightly potentised because of turbulance through which the water reaches our homes) seem to alter the behaviour of the remedy though I cannot confirm.

Another factor that affects is, choosing the right remedy. Choosing a wrong remedy during acute illness, causes severe aggravations in many patients and it would be prudent here, to use a wet doses at lower potencies to check the reaction of patient first before using higher potency in wet or dry form.

Dr.Luc has to use water from flowing streams when he was in Africa.

His experience is that contaminated water/ bottle doesn't make a difference as long as the remedy is right.

Farook J. Master says that he asked few patients to take the medicine while chewing pan as an experiment. He says the medicine still worked.

I take coffee alongwith the remedy and it still works. But this rule will not hold good for people who seldom take coffee. Same story may be true for habitual pan chewers.

Successing is not possible with dry pellets. If a wet dose doesn't work with the first sip, I succuss 50 to 100 times and then it works.

We may think a remedy doesn't work but if it was succussed it would.

There is the option of taking a remedy in water 5 times and successing 10 times, which equals 50 times or you can succuss 50 times all at once. I like successing all at once so I don't have to bother doing it ten times. I can't keep track. But for my animals I write it down.

Thanks garcot

i start this medicine on 04-06-2010. i got relif very much but not 100 % cure.

is this required to repeat.? or required to take any thing else.after these 2 days dose.

please update

| | | |

Good morning

still my cough occurring again & again.
a pin type sensation start in my throat & very thin mucus (light green ) come during cough .
this occur mainly in morning & evening.

Please suggest me.

| Re:Infection throat | By: garcotBangalore | June 13 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Please try Pulsatilla 30c ( it is mainly a combi of KaliSulph and Kaliphos).

If you are not a very sensitive or emotional person, you can try just Kalisulph 30c single dose in the evening for 3 days.
Or
You can use KaliSulph 6X + Ferrum Phos 3X tissue salt 2 pills of each, 3 times a day for couple of days.

It would be better, if you can fill up the questionnaire and post here.

Dear Praveen,

Though this site is for homeopathy, but I would like to pass on some valueable home remedy for throat problems:

Massage the portion between thumb and Index finger on the darker side of both hands with pure ghee for 10-15 minutes twice a day and all throat problems will vanish soon.This is really very effective, as this portion is having acupressure points for throat problems.

Sorry to Udaya and Garcot for adding this post.

Thanks and Regards,

Home remedy:
take about 15 tulsi leaves, a pinch of turmeric and a pinch of dhania powder. Put it in 2 cups of water and boil till water halves. Strain and add sugar to taste. Should be taken at bedtime and as hot as you can bear. It does help in throat problem.

i have lots of phelgm which comes out from time to time during the day with cough.
I took Gel 30-C and Antim Tart 30-C for 4 days stopped 5 days ago.
Any other remedy which can clear this phelgm

If the phlegm is white try Kalimur or NatMur.
If yellow, try Kalisulph.

jayashree,

The brownish color could be due to coffee or tea that you may be having. If you don't have them both, try a few doses of Merc.sol in medium potency.

Hope it helps.

Jayashree,

When I repertorised with limited symptoms, I got Rhus-tox ! If the other symptoms match, you can try a single dose in 200c potency. I can understand this, if it is a virus leaving some of its foot marks in your system.

cancer of the GastroEsophageal junction

Hi,
My father has been diagonised with the cancer of the stomach - adenocarcinoma with signet ring cells in the GEJ.

After 3 chemos and suppotive supplements from traditional chinese medicines and ornithogallum and chelidonium, we see that his stomach wall thickening has come doen from 2 cm to 1.1cm
We have been advised to go for surgery after a ct scan after 1st week of june. My father is 68 years old and has had no previous history of diabetes or BP.
Should we go for the surgery or wait and continue our treatment.
What are the chances for a complete cure without the surgery?
Thanks for any help and prayers.

|---|---|---|

I am very sad to learn of your father's cancer in his Gastro Esophageal Tract.
How old is he ?
You mentioned "Junction" and did you mean to identify the Lower Esophageal Valve ?

Also did he suffer from GERD in the past ?

Did he complain of any Gastric problems after meals ?
If so what treatment has he taken ?

I am not a Physician but I would recommend that if he has been diagnosed positively with Cancer, it is best to have surgery to stop the spread of the Cancer which will make a bad situation far worse.

Hi Joe,
He is 68 years old. He did have GERD. He only took pantacid to avoid the gastric problem.
The cancer is exhibiting itself as a tickening of the gastric wall in the lesser curvature (distal).

He would very soon undergo a surgery, in the mid of June.

Tanuja

All I can state at this late stage is that I shall pray for your dad.

It seems such a pity that he did not consult me some years ago as I may have been able to prevent him from getting cancer.

Even today he will benefit from taking Nat Phos 6x 3 tablets after each meal and Arnica 30c in the Wet dose which you can make as follows:

The Wet dose of any Homeopathic remedy is made as follows:

Order the remedy in a 5ml Ethanol pack also referred to as Liquid Dilution in a bottle preferably with a dropper arrangement.

Get a 500ml bottle of Spring Water from the nearest supermarket.
Pour out about 3cm of water from the bottle to leave some airspace.
Insert 3 drops of the remedy into the bottle and shake the bottle hard before you sip a capfull which is the dose.
Shaking the bottle hard is homeopathic succussion and this shaking must be done every time before sipping a capful of the bottle which can be used as a dose.

Hi Joe,
Hi Jayashree,

He has been taking ornithogalum and chelidonium every day.
We are being told that it is not a good idea to avoid the surgery scheduled some time in mid June. The good news is that it is curative.
With NatPhos trying to balance the alkaline/acid ratio, will it act agaist other treatment he is on that makes the body totally alkaline?
I have read the sodium bicarbonate therapy sometime back. Thanks for the link. It also gave a way to test if he has candida or not. He started with that for 2 days.. and then stopped it to undergo the chemo. The chemo makes him so tired that he feels less motivated to do anything..

He is also taking TCM traditional chinese medicine.
Thanks,
Tanuja

Did you try NatMur in low potencies ( 1X , 2X or 3X) on a daily basis?

It may do the magic that you are looking for...

| Re:water retention problem. | By: garcotBangalore | May 18 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Hi Sai,

I am still not sure, whether you are talking about water retention or fluid retention. I recommended very low potencies for the very reason you said natmur 30c didn't work.

You need to let me know, whether you have retention in upper part or lower part of the body.

If it is low part, upper part is expected to be dry and vice-versa.

Is your urination and flow etc. normal?

1X to 3X of Nat Mur is almost very similar to shaking a bottle of water about 20 to 30 times before drinking the same! Believe me, it tastes better than the normal water. And in the olden days, many ayurvedic masters used to recommend swishing the water in our mouth about 10 times before gulping the same.

Look at Nat.Sulph in very low potency too.

Thank you for your reply.I have most of the upper part getting the retention(hands and face swelling and heavyness in the stomach.and the weight also changing 2 to 3 kg).And I do not have any urination problem.And you mention about NatMur 3x is that the same as NatMur30cc.I am taking 5 pills 3 times a day.Please let me know if the dose is Ok.

Thank you so much.

|---|---|---|

Hi Sai,

Nat Mur 3X is very low potency compared to 30c. So they are not the same.

Nat Mur 3X in the bio-chemic form is available and it should work well.

If you have not tried NatMur 30c, you can try a couple of doses and see whether you feel better.

Best wishes

| Re:water retention problem. | By: garcotBangalore | May 19 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Sai,

You need to post the filled up questionnaire to enable us to suggest the right remedy.

Did you check up your lymphatic system?

Water retention problems arise when fluid is not removed by the lymph system properly, it is retained in the body tissues where it causes swelling (edema). Water retention in the body is most common in the feet and legs, but it can occur in the hands, arms, abdominal cavity.

This is a condition that results when water leaks into the body tissues from the blood. In normal circumstances, the fluid is drained from the body tissues through the lymphatic system – a network of tubes throughout the body that removes waste and extraneous material, and empties it back into the bloodstream.

The causes for the above is a central disturbance that needs correction.

Meanwhile, you can also go through is thread at the other forum if it interests you, if you haven't already read.

http://abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/216059/

http://www.mothernature.com/Library/Bookshelf/Books/23/137.cfm

Please let me know, whether you had any injuries to the head or the back, which will confirm Nat.Sulph as the primary remedy.

Best Wishes

Hi Sai,

I am sorry, you need to fill up the questionnaire giving all the details, like your age, gender, your likes and dislikes ( food, people, environment etc). Also please mention, what food aggravates and what food ameolerates your condition.

Water rentention doesn't happen in isolation, and there would accessary problems that you need to tell us.

Please appreciate, an appropriate remedy cannot be suggested without understanding the patient.

Though, Nat.sulph seems to be the primary remedy, there are other remedies needs to be suggested alongwith it to strengthen your vital force.

Please also tell us about your current excercise regime.

Best wishes

| Relapse of malaria | By: shiva | March 17 2010 |
|---|---|---|

A 52 yrs male was attacked by P.vivax malaria parasites in June 09. He was treated by a course of Chloroquine ( Resochin-DS). After completion of the course, the malaria antigen test was again got done in July 09 and the result was found negative. But he is again attacked by the same P, vivax parasite on 5.3.10 which is got confirmed through the malaria antigen test . Now, again he is treated with the same chloroquine drug. At present he has no problem except weakness and low BP . The peripheral blood smear also did not show malaria parasite today. The doctor has advised for G6PD tests for blood after three weeks to assess any cause of relapse of malaria.

What may be the causes of relapse of malaria? Are there any homeo remedy to prevent such relapses to the said patient in coming future? What is the preventive homeo remedy to protect the other family members against spread of malaria ?

| Re:Relapse of malaria | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | March 17 2010 |
|---|---|---|

For Malaria the best medicine as advised by my late Sir is Ars 6 or 30 alternated with Ipecac 6 or 30. Both must be same potency. First take every 2 hours and then when the patient is better increase the frequency time.

Jayashree Kanoi

| Re:Relapse of malaria | By: udaya kumar-- | March 17 2010 |
|---|---|---|

The best medicines for Malaria are as Jayashree has rightly pointed out:
1. Arsenicum Album
2. Ipec.

I have found Cina very effective in breaking and destroying the Malaria germs from the blood stream. Other medicines are :
1. Nux Vomica
2. China
3. Natrm Mur
4. Apis Mel
5. Arnica
6. Belladonna
7. Pulsatilla
8. Rhus Tox.
9. Sulphur
10.Bryonia
11. Calcarea Carb
12. Veratrum Album.
13. Merc Sol.
14. Chininum Sulph
15. Gelsemium

Malaria can relapse many times. It can come annually also in certain cases in high ranges. Mostly discontinuation of course treatment and not doing follow up check ups regularly are responsible for it. Malaria can change into jaundice as well as restlessness to the extent that it can be termed as psychiatric problem. In cases where symptoms of jaundice are seen Merc. Sol has been found effective. and where restlnessness and further symptoms are there, Arsenic Album is found curative. Even after Merc Sol if there is excess heat in the face, with headache, toothache, and face pain, Belladonna is helpful. In prolonged fever, Cina should help t other medicines. High fever can be corrected by Rhus Tox, Ipec, Arsenica, and intermittent medium fever by Bryonia. Where the case has been complicated by Allopathic medicines, Nux Vomica and Natrum Mur will be higly effective. In such cases the shivering will be high.

In China there will be shivering, chillness, Heat(fever) and sweat where as in Arsenic Album there will be chill, heat and no sweat, while there will be restlessness and nausea, vomitng.

The main symptoms of Arsenic Album are :
1. Fver will start arund 1 P.m. or after Midnight (around 2.a.m. usually). Sivering and heat will be there together or alternating. Heat inside and chill outside. Restlessness with anxiety or fear, Drinking water little by little in large quantities. Nausea and Vomit. Bitterness in the mouth, Severe headache, All symptoms aggravate when there is fever and shiverng. Medicine is suitable and moreeffective for those who have been using lot of quinine and complicated the case.

2. Ipec: Nausea and vomiting are important symptoms of Ipec.There will be distention in the chest before the shiverig starts. Thirstlessness when there is shivering. More thirst when there is heat(fever) in the body.

3. Nux : Will not cover the body even when there is sweat, due to fear of heat or fever. Dizziness or vertigo. Cramp like in stomch and below knees. Tinnitis.headache, constipation, thirst, Pain on the the sides of the body,.

4. Arnica ; Intermittent fever. Scanty urine, thirst, pain in bones, Thirst and shivering together., restlessness, the whole body is sore and feels like beaten up., Bed seems rough and try to find soft space on bed. Turning in the bed several times, If the blanket or cover is removed immediatey shivering starts, Intolerable heat, Sore sweats etc.

he other symptoms of the medicines should also be checked.

The best way to avoid Malaria is to avoid mosquito bite. cover all windows with wire nettng. Keep rooms clean and ventilated and light should reach ever corner of the rooms. Do not allow water to clog. Request health centres to disinfect larger areas around the house having malaria patient. Use Staphisagria to repel mosquito bite. May use mosquito repellers. Cover the body fully while sleeping or use mosquito nets. etc.etc.

Thanks for valuable suggestions for treating malaria by Arsenic alb and Ipecac. At present the patient does not have any fever at all. After taking the course of chloroquine the blood sample shows no trace of malaria parasite His present symptoms are low appetite, great weakness and nervousness . He suffers from chronic diarrhea after eating both the principal meal and also becomes anemic . It is found that most of his symptoms are in line with that of China If Cina has the ability to destroy any trace of malaria germ from the blood stream , can he take it to avoid further relapse? Is it advisable to give him both Cina and china in 30C on the basis of above ?
Thanks for suggesting Malaria Off 200 by Dr. Rana for preventive action. The symptoms of which will be got checked from materia medica.

China is a great medicine under these conditions. You can give a test dose at 30c potency, and I am sure, the patient is going to love this remedy. It can also be used as a tonic, till the patient recuperates. But, please get the feedback from the patient after the first dose.

If Cina gets indicated, it can be used.

Dear Udaya,

In my case, Malaria got treated with conventional medicines and got well and after a week I got Typhoid and got treated, recovered and after a few days got Malaria again! Thanks to all the allopathic drugs, I lost 50% of my hair on the head! This was 15 years ago, when I did not even know what Homeopathy is.....

I don't know why telepathy didn't work in me to reach you.

Warm regards
Garcot

Dear Garcot,
15 years ago should place you somewhere in your late 20 or early 30s when the economic activity in your mind should be at its peak as well as the brimming libido leaving no room in your mind to keep the thoughts at rest and in SHANTI as in a calm lake that you achieve telepathic powers or connectivity with cosmic consciousness. There is always a purpose and design in all meetings and that happens only in TIME. As for Malaria, I have seen at close proximity cases of relapses that ran into years of treatment which I had been afflicted with Malaria once in early 1970s and never after that, though I have been in the midst of the Malaria stricken areas of epidemic dimensions. with regards.

This is the case of a patient who suffered from malaria and treated with chloroquine . Due to malarial influence the patient is suffering from anaemia, severe weakness, nervousness, loss of appetite, dull headache and shoulder ache, watery stool in morning and sleeplessness . This case is initiated to select some homeo remedy for improvement of the above symptoms as well as to prevent further relapse of the malaria attack to the said patient in near future.
On the basis of earlier postings, It is observed that most of the symptoms of China are in line with that of the patient .
Accordingly, the patient has taken China 30 three doses a day for three days. China has improved his weakness and appetite slightly. Will he continue with China 30 as above for some more period to treat his above symptoms ? Cina is not given as it is not indicated to the patient .

You can continue China 30 for longer period. it is a medicine for convalescence. It is a great remedy for affter effects of Malaria. Arsenic Album Should also be given. Cina 30 was advised on my own personal experiments and results and you will not find any reference of that in any of the books or any matching symptoms. The basic philosophy in the use of Cina is that it is a medicine which will work in kind of microorganism entering the body as parasites and thrive in the body. It was experimented on Malaria and the pathologists findings in an instant case cofirmed the thought process. with best wishes.

Pancreas By: M.A. Rana March 2 2010

Dear Doctors.
Patient 58 having Sugar from last 12 years. now enjoying good health after having Homeopathic treatment. The sugar level was 90 but now-a-days it is 120. Doctors have discovered that his Pancreas is not working at night and this is the reason his BFS is high at morning. I try to read about Pancreatinum but no reference is available at your site. Would you please write some thing on it. I have already requested to patient to provide symptoms of and after awaking up. Iris culd also play big role on it.
Thanks.

Re:Pancreas By: girilal New Jersey USA March 3 2010

It can be tried. There is a way to make best pancriatum.

Go to a butcher shop and obtain a pancreas of a chicken. It is called pitta of chicken and it is always removed and discarded.

Best if used home rooster's pancreas, instead of the cultivated one but just try whatever you can find.

People report amazing results. Mix it in glycerine and make it 1C, then dilute it in alcohol to 6C or just potentize it to 6C straight.

You will know the effect in a day. If just any effect, good or bad or ugly or whatever. I suggest, potentize further or obtain highest potency available from market.

Dear Mr. Girilal
Thanks for your useful information. Kindly elaborate little more or in details of the method given above. Should we cut pancreas and dip or use as is.
Thanking you in advance.

| Re:Pancreas | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | March 6 2010 |
|---|---|---|

This is a usual folk remedy, diabetics are told to eat Chicken Pancreas once a while and no wonder it works but for a duration. Pancreas is so foul tasting so people usually avoid it at any cost.

Just take a whole chicken pancreas and crush it in blender in glycerene. The reason to use glyverene is because it dissolves lipids and enzymes. Let the liquid stay for two days and then shake it extremely well with a spoon.

Then you can potentize it with water. Add hundred times water in some bottle (make sure bottle remains half empty so you can shake it very well).
Then discard most of the liquid but keep 1/100th part. This makes 2C. Then add about 100 times water again and repeat. You can do it infinitely, but make at least 6C. Try it for 2 weeks. If there is any effect. Then take a daily dose but raise the potency by 1C each day in water. But if you want to preserve a certain potency, then make the last batch in Alcohol.

Dear Ranaji,

Pancreatinum the basic symptom is pain in stomach one hour after eating. If night problem is there, I think Lycopodium should work better. I would certainly suggest starting with Thuja and Natrum Mur before indciated medicines are given.

Dr. Giri Lal and Mr. M. A. Rana

As you mentioned Pancreas as called in Hindi Pitta. But Pancreas is called as Tilli and Galblader is called as Pitta. What is the correct Pancreas (Tilli) of Galblader (Pitta) ? My sugar is higher in fasting and would like to make this EXCELLENT medicine.
Thanks.

| Re:Pancreas | By: udaya kumar-- | December 20 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Pancreas is not called Pitta in Hindi. Pitta means only Bile.
Pancrease is neither called Tilli
Neither Gall bladder is called pitta.

Gall Bladder is Pittaashay
Pancreas - Agnya-ashay or Paachak granthi
Spleen - Plihaa or Tilli

Pitta or Pitha is one of the tridoshas and it is the imbalance of the fire in the body. Fire creates energy and jadaragni is the fire in the abdomen which has its source in pancrease as the energy transformation takes place in pancrease through insulin production. Therefore it is Agnyaashay or agnyaashaya(m). as in different vernacular languages.

Evidence of Internet Sex Addiction in Custody Evaluations
The facts about Internet sex addictions are alarming. It would appear that it's becoming epidemic. It's destroying our families and everyone would agree our children should not be exposed to it.
A recent study indicates one-third of divorce litigation is caused by online affairs.
Statistics show more than 72,000 sexually explicit sites on the web and an estimated 266 new xxxx sites being added each day. These sites alone generate a revenue of $1 billion dollars each year.

According to an MSNBC survey one in 10 respondents said they are addicted to sex and the Internet, according to an online survey of 38,000 Internet users.
Take a Look Into What Your Teen Is Doing Online With Computer Forensic Examinations
As if our teen children did not already have enough places to get in trouble that we as parents have to continuously monitor and worry about, the cyber highways of the Internet have created even countless other areas for teenagers to misbehave in. Not only do we need to monitor their behavior to ensure that they are not up to things they should not be doing, but much of the monitoring that all parents should take part in is for the safety of our kids.

Hi everyone. Im wondering if someone can suggest a remedy both internally and topically for me. If one received stitches on their head and were trying to minimize the scarring what should one take to accomplish this. Homeopathy or other suggestions are most welcome. Thanks so much.

| Re:Stitches | By: garcotBangalore | February 20 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Internally you can take Arnica and can apply Calendula externally, if you want to stick to Homeopathic way.

I personally, apply Haldi paste, prepared by mixing cooking grade haldi powder with just sufficient olive oil and applying the paste over the cuts.

There may be other remedies indicated, like Hepar, Ars., Sulph., Ledum, Hypericum, petroleum based on the nature of the wound/cuts. Normally, since only deep cuts call for stitches, I would personally, use Arnica followed by Ledum and then Hypericum all taken internally at any potency between 6c- 30c. And would use Haldi paste externally.

Ofcourse, there are many other ways. During Vietnam war for example , the american soldiers were using Magnesium chloride, which was considered to be one of the best anti-biotics for even major wounds.

I would not advise Calendula application as the medicine will dry the top part and then there may be pus inside. Writing from personal experience. Better to take 10 drops of Echinacea Q daily with the Arnica. Apply only the Haldi mixture as advised by Garcot.

MERCURIUS SOLUBILIS
Quicksilver (MERCURIUS - HYDRARGYRUM)

Every organ and tissue of the body is more or less affected by this powerful drug; it transforms healthy cells into decrepit, inflamed and necrotic wrecks, decomposes the blood, producing a profound anæmia. This malignant medicinal force is converted into useful life saving and life preserving service if employed homeopathically, guided by its clear cut symptoms. The lymphatic system is especially affected with all the membranes and glands, and internal organs, bones etc. Lesions produced by mercury very similar to those of syphilis. Very often indicated in the secondary stage of syphilis where there is a febrile chloro-anæmia, rheumatoid pains behind sternum, around joints, etc; ulcerations of mouth and throat, falling of the air, the eruptions and ulcerations of mouth and throat, etc. These are the special conditions and stages to which Mercur is homeopathic and where the 2x will do surprising work. Again, hereditary syphilis manifestations, are within its range; bullæ, abscesses, snuffles, marasmus, stomatitis or destructive inflammations. Tremors everywhere. Weakness with ebullitions and tremblings from least exertion. All Mercury symptoms are worse at night, from warmth of bed, from damp, cold, rainy weather, worse during perspiration. Complaints increase with the sweat and rest; all associated with a great deal of weariness, prostration, and trembling. A human "thermometer". Sensitive to heat and cold. Parts are much swollen, with raw, sore feeling; the profuse, oily perspiration does not relieve. Breath, excretions and body smell foul. Tendency to formation of pus, which is thin, greenish, putrid; streaked with thin blood.

Mind.--Slow in answering questions. Memory weakened, and loss of will-power. Weary of life. Mistrustful. Thinks he is losing his reason.

Head.--Vertigo, when lying on back. Band-feeling about head. One-sided, tearing pains. Tension about scalp, as if bandaged. Catarrhal headaches; much heat in head. Stinging, burning, fetid eruptions on scalp. Loss of hair. Exostosis, with feeling of soreness. Scalp tense; oily sweat on head.

Eyes.--Lids red, thick, swollen. Profuse, burning, acrid discharge. Floating black spots. After exposure to glare of fire; foundrymen. Parenchymatous keratitis of syphilitic origin with burning pain. Iritis, with hypopyon.

Ears.--Thick, yellow discharge; fetid and bloody. Otalgia, worse warmth of bed; at night sticking pains. Boils in external canal (Calc pic).

Nose.--Much sneezing. Sneezing in sunshine. Nostrils raw, ulcerated; nasal bones swollen. Yellow-green, fetid, pus-like discharge. Coryza; acrid discharge, but too thick to run down the lip; worse, warm room. Pain and swelling of nasal bones, and caries, with greenish fetid ulceration. Nosebleed at night.

Copious discharge of corroding mucus. Coryza, with sneezing; sore, raw, smarting sensation; worse, damp weather; profuse, fluent.

Face.--Pale, earthy, dirty-looking, puffy. Aching in facial bones, Syphilitic pustules on face.

Mouth.--Sweetish metallic taste. Salivary secretions greatly increased; bloody and viscid. Saliva fetid, coppery. Speech difficult on account of trembling tongue. Gums spongy, recede, bleed easily. Sore pain on touch and from chewing. Whole mouth moist. Crown of teeth decay. Teeth loose, feel tender and elongated. Furrow in upper surface of tongue lengthwise. Tongue heavy, thick; moist coating; yellow, flabby, teeth-intended, feels as if burnt, with ulcers, Fetid odor from mouth, can smell it all over room. Alveolar abscess, worse at night. Great thirst, with moist mouth.

Throat.--Bluish-red swelling. Constant desire to swallow. Putrid sore throat; worse right side. Ulcers and inflammation appearing at every change in weather. Stitches into ear on swallowing; fluids return through nose. Quinsy, with difficult swallowing, after pus has formed. Sore, raw, smarting, burning throat. Complete loss of voice. Burning in throat, as from hot vapor ascending.

Stomach.--Putrid eructations. Intense thirst for cold drinks. Weak digestion, with continuous hunger. Stomach sensitive to touch. Hiccough and regurgitation. Feels replete and constricted.

Abdomen.--Stabbing pain, with chilliness. Boring pain in right groin. Flatulent distention, with pain. Liver enlarged; sore to touch, indurated. Jaundice. Bile secreted deficiently.

Stool.--Greenish, bloody and slimy, worse at night, with pain and tenesmus. Never-get-done feeling. Discharge accompanied by chilliness, sick stomach, cutting colic, and tenesmus. Whitish-gray stools.

Urine.--Frequent urging. Greenish discharge from urethra; burning in urethra on beginning to urinate. Urine dark, scanty, bloody, albuminous.

Male.--Vesicles and ulcers; soft chancre. Cold genitals. Prepuce irritated; itches. Nocturnal emissions, stained with blood.

Female.--Menses profuse, with abdominal pains. Leucorrhœa excoriating, greenish and bloody; sensation of rawness in parts. Stinging pain in ovaries (Apis). Itching and burning; worse, after urinating; better, washing with cold water. Morning sickness, with profuse salivation. Mammæ painful and full of milk at menses.

Respiratory.--Soreness from fauces to sternum. Cannot lie on right side (Left side, Lycop). Cough, with yellow muco-purulent expectoration. Paroxysms of two; worse, night, and from warmth of bed. Catarrh, with chilliness; dread of air. Stitches from lower lobe of right lung to back. Whooping-cough with nosebleed (Arnica) Cough worse, tobacco smoke.

Back.--Bruised pain in small of back, especially when sitting. Tearing pain in coccyx; better, pressing on abdomen.

Extremities.--Weakness of limbs. Bone-pains and in limbs; worse, night. Patient very sensitive to cold. Oily perspiration. Trembling extremities, especially hands, paralysis agitans. Lacerating pain in joints. Cold, clammy sweat on legs at night. Dropsical swelling of feet and legs.

Skin.--Almost constantly moist. Persistent dryness of the skin contra indicates mercurius. Excessive odorous viscid perspiration; worse, night. General tendency to free perspiration, but patient is not relieved thereby. Vesicular and pustular eruptions. Ulcers, irregular in shape, edges undefined. Pimples around the main eruption. Itching, worse from warmth of bed. Crusta lactea; yellowish-brown crusts, considerable suppuration. Glands swell every time patient takes cold. Buboes. Orchitis (Clemat, Hamam, Puls).

Fever.--Generally gastric or bilious, with profuse nightly perspiration; debility, slow and lingering. Heat and shuddering alternately. Yellow perspiration. Profuse perspiration without relief. Creeping chilliness, worse in the evening and into night. Alternate flashes of heat in single parts.

Modalities.--Worse, at night, wet, damp weather, lying on right side, perspiring; warm room and warm bed.

Relationship.--Compare: Capparis coriaccea (polyuria, glandular affections, mucous diarrhœa; influenza); Epilobium--Willow herb--(chronic diarrhœa with tenesmus and mucous discharges; ptyalism, dysphagia; wasting of body and much debility; cholera infantum); Kali hyd (in hard chancre); Mercur acet (Congestion with stiffness, dryness and heat of parts affected. Eyes inflamed, burn and itch. Lack of moisture. Throat dry, talking difficult. | Re: Mercurius solubilis/vivis (Mercury / Quicksilver) | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 21 2006 |

Mercurius solubilis means fluid mercury or quicksilver; mercurius vivis is 'living' mercury: two forms of the homoeopathic mercury who are very much alike and therefore discussed together.

There is a metal mercury, a planet Mercury and a god Mercury, who ofcourse all are interrelated. The strange thing about the metal is that it is liquid on room temperature. It forms drops who react on movement and temperature, dividing themselves into smaller drops and coming together again in bigger drops. Another characteristic is the ease by which the metal mercury merges with other metals and dissolves them, changes them, even gold can be transformed by it. The planet Mercury has the quickest rotation of all the planets in the solar system and it is the closest planet to the sun (the sun is related to the metal gold).

The god Mercury is known as the messenger of the gods, since he travels 'quick'ly with his winged feet from one place to another. Mercury is astrologically associated with travel, communication, speaking and writing, connection, all kinds of flows, and therefore god of boths traders and thieves, alteration, flexibility, rational thinking and knowledge. Please note that Mercury simply transmits whatever there is to transmit, he is the divine and playful child not hindered by any moral or emotional load: he simply brings you the message no matter what the content of that message is. Medical astrology states that Mercury rules all circulatory systems, the blood circulation, the breath and the transfers of the nervous system. Further Mercury rules the bodyly flexibility, the lungs, the arms and hands and the senses as organs of communication. So now we see that we can characterize all Mercuries in three words: swiftness, alteration, connection.

The homoeopathic remedy Mercury suits people with a weak immune-system, together with instability and inefficiency of functions. That's why these people absorb all incoming body messages without sorting; they simply react on anything. Important to know in this remedy is that almost every circumstance aggravates their condition and that there are only a few things that make them feel better! Just like a human thermometer they react on heat, cold, being outside, wet weather, change of weather, bedwarmth, perspiration, exertion, and so on. They are very instable; for instance they want warmth, and next aggravate by that warmth. Also their emotions are instable, laughing alterates with crying, etc. Body functions work inefficient; perspiration for instance serves to cool down the body and therefore should ameliorate someones condition. Not with Mercury: in that case perspiration in itself is a reason for aggravation.

People who need this remedy are usually very closed (drops of mercury close themselves into round closed forms) but not always: I also know them as very communicative persons, but the main thing is that they dislike to talk about meaningless things or to have superficial relationships. The prefer to stay apart or to dissolve into each other and there's nothing in between. Because of their sensitivity they are restless and tensed; very sensitive to criticism and opposition, with possible fits of temper.

The Greek homoeopath G. Vithoulkas has come to the following scheme of Mercurial stages: 1. Mentally slow; slow in answering and in understanding. Though hasty and restless they need more time to fulfill a task then you would expect. 2. Impulsive, there is for instant a desire to beat or destruct, but these impulses are controlled. There can also be a desire to kill, but this usually remains within the desire realm. Inwardly aggression felt as fear of suicide and fear of becoming insane. 3. Suspicion resulting from a feeling of vulnerability. Anyone can be regarded as enemy. They easily feel threatened. 4. Insanity.

Mercury-type children are very vivid and early mature, also sexually. They like to play with their genitals. They often stammer and loose saliva while laying in bed. Later on these children become mentally slow. On the other hand Mercury is a good remedy for children who learn slowly and lack concentration because they react on every impuls around them.

A physical keynote for Mercury is easily sweating, especially at night, but not feeling better by it! Another keynote is that most complaints aggravate at night. And that there is a great tendency to ulceration, yellowish-green pus, ulcers and wounds that won't heal, swollen glands, often returning infections, hard and inflamed body-parts, rheumatic inflammations of joints, swollen tongue and gums, stinking breath, throat complaints, and a lot of saliva. Mercury is well known as a great medicine for throat-nose and ear-complaints, especially inflammations. Other possible complaints are pains in the bones, problems with the digestion, tremors, trembling, burning pain of the ovaries or the womb, burning urine and itching genitals.

People who need this remedy very much like bread and butter and cold drinks. Usually they dislike sweets. And ofcourse they like traveling.

I know that many people don't feel much sympathy for this remedy picture. But please keep in mind that Mercury characters have a hard time with themselves, reacting on everything and having difficulties with recovering. They are simply too open and need more inner 'grid'. In this way the homoeopathic Mercury can work wonders.

A few footnotes from my experience:

Late falling asleep as a result of flow of thoughts. Restless sleep.

Constant (unquencable) thirst for cool drinks, especially after sweating under the sun and may lead to a stomach upset.

Itching palate, as in hay fever.

Overenthusiastic to do something once the decision has been taken to do it.

Children force a large amount of food into their mouth. Do not like to go to school; forsaken feeling.

Despair recovery.

Anxiety with fear over trivial matters, stagefright, nervous and timid (sil).

Itching in the bends of elbows, knees and between toes.

Another theme in Mercurius is communication, which can be seen in the above descriptions. They can be poor or great communicators - but communication is very important. When well balanced, they can be great teachers - communicating from the g/Gods to humanity.

Mercurius Solubilis and Mercurius are one and the same. Mercurius vivis is marginally different. If the symptoms agree both can be used. When we say Mercurius, Merc Sol. (Mercurius Solubilis) is intended.

Mercury is the most difficult of all metals. It is a founder element in alchemy and in the secret of human being and the universe. It is the only metal which can differentiate and undifferentiate.i.e. it can differentiate into small particles a whole removed from a whole. and then undifferentiate once again into single whole as if nothing had happened. it is the metal which can change gold into useless nothing. and convert other ingredients into gold at the right proportion. No wonder it has tree amorphous states of "There is a metal mercury, a planet Mercury and a god Mercury," as beautifully stated by Girilal and tactfully demonstrated by Michael as " When well balanced, they can be great teachers - communicating from the g/Gods to humanity" .When well balanced is a great observation. Mercury can make you God, mercury can degenerate you into rotten flesh. One has to be careful with that metal in crude form and in homeopathic form. I have taken mercury many times in the evening and night. I have not observed what Jayashree said but may be I shall use it a few times again out of place to see that aspect too and report.

Nux Vomica patient is worse in the morning when he gets up. So it is advised that Nux Vom should be taken at night. So that when the patient gets up nux has already done it's work and the patient is fine. Merc. is worse at night. Therefore the doctor would have asked to take it before sunset so that the remedy gets sufficient time to work.

Hi,

I am a true Mecury picture!

Everytime I get a cold it doesn't 'come out' properly, it will just make me slower than usual, give me horrendous firery throat and glands will flare up... but the cold won't come out... unless I take Mercury!

I suffer from boils too. I would love to know if there is a way to help my body decrease this deficiency ie with good food and exercise as opposed to having to rely on the taking the Homeopathic Mecury. I take 1m to release a cold, otherwise it gets stuck inside!

Thanks so much!
Laura

TMJ tension may be deep rooted. Medulla perhaps is the source. Stool test may be done. But the source has an element of ptit mal which need to be investigated. Try one single dose of Causticum 30. If it cures it cures. with best wishes.

HYDROCOTYLE ASIATICA
Indian Pennywort
(HYDROCOTYLE)

Curative in disorders that exhibit interstitial inflammation and cellular proliferation in any part. Hypertrophy and induration of connective tissue. Has considerable reputation in leprosy and lupus, when there is no ulceration. The skin symptoms are very important. Of great use in ulceration of womb. Difficulty in maintaining the upright posture. Very copious perspiration. Pains of cervical cancer.

Face.--Pain in left cheek-bones and about orbits.

Female.--Pruritus of vagina. Inflammation of neck of bladder. Heat within vagina. Granular ulceration of womb. Profuse leucorrhœa. Dull pain in ovarian region. Cervical redness.

Skin.--Dry eruptions. Great thickening of epidermoid layer and exfoliation of scales. Psoriasis gyrate, on trunk and extremities, palms and soles. Pustules on chest. Circular spots, with scaly edges. Intolerable itching, especially of soles. Profuse sweat. Syphilitic affections. Acne. Leprosy. Elephantiasis (Ars). Lupus non-exedens.

Relationship.--Compare: Elæis-South American Palm--(scleroderma, elephantiasis, leprosy, skin thickened, itching and hardened. Anæsthesia). Hura; Trychnos Gaultheriana (bites of serpents, ulcers and cutaneous affections generally); Hoang-Nan. Chaulomoogra oil from seed of Taraktogenos; Hydrast; Arsenic; Aurum; Sepia.

Dose.--First to sixth potency.

It is also known as Gotu Kola and Dhankuni in Bengal. The poor people get it near a pond and cook it in a little oil for strength Keen to know what is meant by self generated alcohol? you mean they get fermented naturally? As far as I know, some of the known Ayurvedic companies like Himalaya use sodium Methyl and ethyl parabens which are actually pesticides/germicide! So we won't know whether these parabens cure/aggravate us or the actual herbs!

Fear anxiety are caused when the subatomic particles of Gross element Air going upwards above the eyebrows.
There are four or five medicines which can help in the condition according to the nature of the fear/anxiety involved.

1. Argentum Nitricum : Here the stomach is at fault. Worry is involved. Gastric ulcers are involved. The fear will have its source from the stomach. The guts are not strong and cannot withstand adversity. One contributory cause is excess worry. Fear of heights is a sure indication to use of Arg. Nit.

2. Aconitum Nap: Here the fear and anxiety are writ large on the face. Chicken heart is one labeling. Fear of death is an excellent symptom whether it be of own or of others. When some one near is hospitalised and the people taking the person to the hospital, the expression on their face is aconitum nap. Give them aconitum more than the person himself. Aconitum helps when the air that goes up creates a claustrophobic condition, a soul suffocating condition. Great medicine. single dose.

Kali Phos : If the case, the thought of it is making the hands and feet cold, the person is a nervous wreck, then potassium imbalance is taking place and the person is standing and has the feeling that he has no strength to stand, but stand he must. It is like a sack of potato standing without potatoes in it. A nervous wreck. The blood pressure may go low and there could be nagging headache. Heavy head.

Anacardium : Children going to school, their memory and recollecting powers are not good enough along with grasping powers which causes them high level of tension nearer to exams. Here use Anacardium in minimum doses.

Gelsemium : The best medicine when it comes to situations where Public speaking is involved. Like person in Dilip Kumar as Ram in Ram or Shyam. Not able to face His Lordships. Not comfortable in a crowd. Many other phobias. Since public speaking, stage freight is what he is afraid of, a dose of gelsemium added would be beneficial.

Hydrastis: When the gastric derrangements have reached a stage of serious ailments in stomach, that there is constant fear with despondency,.

With best wishes.

Fear anxiety are caused when the subatomic particles of Gross element Air going upwards above the eyebrows.
There are four or five medicines which can help in the condition according to the nature of the fear/anxiety involved.

1. Argentum Nitricum : Here the stomach is at fault. Worry is involved. Gastric ulcers are involved. The fear will have its source from the stomach. The guts are not strong and cannot withstand adversity. One contributory cause is excess worry. Fear of heights is a sure indication to use of Arg. Nit.

2. Aconitum Nap: Here the fear and anxiety are writ large on the face. Chicken heart is one labeling. Fear of death is an excellent symptom whether it be of own or of others. When some one near is hospitalised and the people taking the person to the hospital, the expression on their face is aconitum nap. Give them aconitum more than the person himself. Aconitum helps when the air that goes up creates a claustrophobic condition, a soul suffocating condition. Great medicine. single dose.

Kali Phos : If the case, the thought of it is making the hands and feet cold, the person is a nervous wreck, then potassium imbalance is taking place and the person is standing and has the feeling that he has no strength to stand, but stand he must. It is like a sack of potato standing without potatoes in it. A nervous wreck. The blood pressure may go low and there could be nagging headache. Heavy head.

Anacardium : Children going to school, their memory and recollecting powers are not good enough along with grasping powers which causes them high level of tension nearer to exams. Here use Anacardium in minimum doses.

Gelsemium : The best medicine when it comes to situations where Public speaking is involved. Like person in Dilip Kumar as Ram in Ram or Shyam. Not able to face His Lordships. Not comfortable in a crowd. Many other phobias. Since public speaking, stage freight is what he is afraid of, a dose of gelsemium added would be beneficial.

Hydrastis: When the gastric derrangements have reached a stage of serious ailments in stomach, that there is constant fear with despondency,.

With best wishes.

| Re:What would be the remedy for Fear? | By: udaya kumar-- | November 8 2009 |

Yes
Arsenic Album will have restlessness with fear in all complaints.

Lycopodium will have fear arising out of lack of confidence in all complaints.

Staphysagria will have fear from guilt in all its complaints.

Dearest Mr Udaya Kumar

Thank you so much for your detailed reply.
I will try Arg-nit.30 and just one dose of gels.30.
Can I take these two different remedies one or two hours apart right before court session?
Being so knowlegable and kind and humble is a wild dream.
With warmest regard and gratitude

I was reading through a bunch of remedies a while back and came across one that said if someone takes a sip of wine and their cheeks go red, it is a sure sign that they are this remedy type. I have a family member that this happens to but I couldnt remeber the name of the remedy. Please let me know, if you know.

Thanks,
Jay

Jay,
Up above, click on the letter "C" and then click on carbo vegetalis and it will take you to the description of this remedy.

When you see people gather round a table where wine is served you can pick out the Carbo veg. patients, because their faces will be flushed;

Actually I live in Ontario, about 1 1/2 hrs outside of Toronto. I should send my inlaws to White Horse.

| Re: Red Cheeks and Wine | By: Jay 15 | September 18 2006 |
|---|---|---|

The reason I asked about this remedy is I have a sister in law who when he drinks a small amount of wine her cheeks go bright red and when I seen this I remebered reading about this. My sister in law is a miserable individual. Controlling about everything, especially her husband, expects everything in its perfect place and looks for the negative in every situation. I just figured I could help my brother out is all. This mental picture doesnt seem to fit the remedy though. Any thoughts?

| Re: Red Cheeks and Wine | By: Pat2006M | September 18 2006 |

Jay

Homeopathic remedies will still work although the description of the remedy doesn't match. It's worth giving it a try. The best way to find out if a remedy works is by trying it.

I think I could make millions if we could find a cure for controlling people as I am completely surrounded by them.

They are easy to recognize by your very description. Always looking for ways to keep others down in order to control them. Never anything encouraging to say. They get the nastiest when the name of another human being is mentioned. And they get even nastier when they see you near another human being. Oftentimes, these individual don't even want to get better. One reason is that they think the world is the problem and not themselves. The best way to get them to take homeopathy is to treat a physical ailment. Since homeopathy works on all levels, it would work on their psychological level as well. To what extent, I'm DESPERATE to know.

I will be watching this thread very closely. Maybe start a new thread and call it "A CURE FOR CONTROLLING PEOPLE" then change the title when a cure is found to something like: A MIRACLE CURE FOR CONTROLLING PEOPLE.

You might also look into the reasons why your brother-in-law stays in this sort of abusive, demeaning and degrading relationship. Maybe you need to treat him so he can have the strength to leave. He might feel beat down and needs help in getting his strength.

oR Start a new thread and call it something like: NEED HELP IN ESCAPING A CONTROLLING PERSON

It will take non-controlling people to give honest replies to this thread.

| Re: Red Cheeks and Wine | By: Pat2006M | September 19 2006 |
|---|---|---|

I read several books by an author who wrote about his horrible childhood. His mother was very abusive towards and even starved him a lot of the times. When he was married his wife used to always put him down and call him dumb and stupid and good for nothing, etc, etc. His second wife was supportive, positive and encouraging and she made sure his books got published.

I'm very sorry more people don't realize how much they hurt each other with their controlling ways.

| Re: Red Cheeks and Wine | By: Jay 15 | September 19 2006 |
|---|---|---|

Oddly enough she is the only one out of three daughters that is like this. They all have mild depression/anxiety issues but the middle girl by far got the bulk of the problems. I think Pankaj's idea of sending people to the Yukon might be beneficial in this case.
I did treatment on the brother in law all weekend long 5 hours from home. We spent the days fishing for bass and the nighttimes enjoying the local taverns.

I would think a dose of 30c might be a good place to start.

| Re: Red Cheeks and Wine | By: Pat2006M | September 19 2006 |
|---|---|---|

I think Pankaj would suggest a higher potency.

I read at ABC where walkin says that for psychological problems, higher potencies are best.

I tend to agree with both of them.

What is the Yukon?

| Re: Red Cheeks and Wine | By: Pat2006M | September 19 2006 |
|---|---|---|

Jay

The real bad thing about controllers is that they have tendencies to be physically violent. This physical violence is normally kept secret especially by men. Physical violence can due some very, very serious psychological damage.

I'm sure you have heard that dogs who are kept tied up have tendencies to bite if they ever get loose. Same goes for humans. Living under this sort of conditions is very serious.

I hope you get your brother-in-law and his wife some help soon.

| Re: Red Cheeks and Wine | By: Pat2006M | September 19 2006 |

Jay

I found a remedy that mentions controlling personality.

Have you used the Constitutional Remedy Software at this site for both of these persons?

Arsenicum [online]: (From Arsenic oxide) Perfectionist. Overdoing things. A controlling personality. Competitive. Pride. Strict regimentation (as in healthcare program, athletics). Fears for safety, of family and self. Fatigue

Tell us about your experience there.

Sounds like my kind of place. To go there and get away from all the controlling/bullying type of people I'm around.

Sounds like a place for a great silent retreat. Like a place to get in touch with God in a very quiet and peaceful way.

Love to get away for a vacation there.

I drove to Alaska twice, both time in June. Once from New Jersey and other time from Vancouver.

Did lots of camping there. Many times bears and wolves were around me. Once a bear shared meals with me and many times wolves ate from the same plate.

I am vegetarian but ate lots of mosquitos in my meals.

Attn. Dr. Joe.

I have very dry lips since the past few months.I feel as if the inner lips are swollen.I keep sipping water but this does not help.It does get better though after eating and remains good for about 2 hours after food, then the dryness increases again. My stamina has also gone down a lot. Please advise. I am 52 yrs old.

An appropriate remedy may be suggested if you could provide the following information.

A
your mental state means moody, irritable, calm etc. It would be of much help if you could describe your behaviour in some 100 words.

B
your physical problems like back pain, limbs pain, digestion isues, bowel movements, burning sensations, skin eruptions etc

modalities means whether you prefer cold weather, warm weather, rainy weather. which time of day you are better/worse.

whether you can identify any incident that has triggered your problems

Please take three doses of Pulsatilla 200c at a gap of 4 hours on a single day (not daily) and report back change in your symptoms after 15 days.

One dose means
If the medicine is in pills form 4 pills. Don't touch pills with hand. Use cap of bottle to take pills.
If the medicine is in liquid dilution form, 3-4 drops in some 20 ml water. Sip up slowly.

son suffering with severe dry cough. especially it increases in night.

started with catching cold while staying out in night in delhi{it's start of winter in delhi} yellow was coming out from running nose. i gave one dose of nv30 as he was constipated also.

now motion is better and less running nose.

kindly guide to overcome dry cough.

thanks

| Re:Dry cough- 3yrs child | By: neeraj_vijIndia | November 4 2009 |
|---|---|---|

cough has become so severe that he has started to vomit everything while coughing.

| Re:Dry cough- 3yrs child | By: garcotBangalore | November 5 2009 |

if the child coughs even during sleep, try bryonia 30c in wet doses ( you need to dilute it quite a bit, say in min. 500ml). 1 drop on the tongue and repeat if the problems reccurs every once in 30 minutes ( max. repetitions 3 times). Bryonia works well for dry cough, if taken just before bed time.

As a plus, it will help improving the digestion and alleviate constipation.

thanks a ton garcot. sorry i could not check the post yesterday.

in my absence,my wife in consultation with local homeopath gave him 2 doses of drossraieaa{i do not know the exact name}. ystaday night and today morning..i also don't know the potency not much of improvement though in cough..

can bryonia be given after drossraieaa as a better option so that there are no issues with the child.

thanks

| Re:Dry cough- 3yrs child | By: udaya kumar-- | November 5 2009 |
|---|---|---|

Discontinue Drosera immediately if there is no improvement. Give Bryonia. Drosera should be used when the symptoms are absolutely agreeing. Like Wooping cough. The cough starts when head touches the pillow are some of the leading signs for Drosera. That medicine has to be used carefully. With best wishes.

--

| Re:Dry cough- 3yrs child | By: neeraj_vijIndia | November 5 2009 |
|---|---|---|

i feel the symptoms told by you do match with Drosera .. son was 1.)coughing was more while sleeping in night. cannot remember if pillow was there.

2,) cough was very severe.cough was so severe that he was vomited twice while coughing.

can it be considered as a whooping cough?

wanted inputs for 2 issues -

1.) he did not vomit today while coughing after giving Drosera. though he is coughing severly. will you consider it a improvement ?

2.) i have never seen you so cautious with a medicine. whats so special about Drosera ?

best regards

| Re:Dry cough- 3yrs child | By: udaya kumar-- | November 5 2009 |
|---|---|---|

The symptom is when the head touches the pillow and not when sleeping which is routine and normal. It is like from sitting position when the child start to lie down and head touches the pillow the cough starts. VERY SPECIFIC. Head going from a vertical position to a horizontal position, the cough will start at the point. Just like the "photographs of the moments".

2. Cough with vomit but lather like or foam like is typical. Then it can develop into whooping cough and there the medicine to start with is Carbo Vegetabilis. Drosera is the ultimate remedy.

3. Here it is dry cough and Bryonia or Carbo veg should help. Drosera other than whooping cough starts with a severe griping pain in the upper part of posterior nares (end of the nostrils). It will slightly descend down and catch all around the throat, with pain, it will further descend to the chest and lungs with tearing pains. That is my experience by eating an infected berry and immediately curing it with Drosera.

4. Drosera is considered Pleuretic. There are plenty of writings on this medicine and advises by experienced doctors not to give Drosera out of place. Some of them maitain that, If it proves it can cause chasms in the lungs. So there should be an equivalent morbidity which is completely agreeing to the medicine to neutralise the effect so that no proving takes places even at lowest potencies. Using at higher potencies certainly do not have these risks but minimum doses is always a caution and strict homeopathic principles applied. I think your doctor would have looked into all the aspects well and there is no cause for worry. I was only cautioning you against indiscriminate usage of this medicine. with regards.

Udaya what about Kali Carb 30? It has helped a few people i advised. Only at bedtime single dose a day.

Jayashree Kanoi

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:Dry cough- 3yrs child | By: udaya kumar-- | November 5 2009 |

jayashreeji,

Kali Carb is a difficult medicine as it has all the symptoms all have. It is difficult to repertorise a patient as Kali Carb. You will find each of us having symptoms of Kali Carb. Reason may be perhaps Potasium and Carbon are required for our basic structure. One can always try a dose or two. This medicine favours women very well. Particularly in menorrhagia. Further, Kali salts should not be used in fever conditions. If the cough is due to an infection, there could be accompanying fever.

The typical Kali patient in cough is :
-Dry, parched, rough. Sticking pain, as from a fish-bone. Swallowing difficult; food goes down œsophagus slowly. Mucous accumulation in the morning.

Stomach.--Flatulence. Desire for sweets. Feeling of lump in pit of stomach. Gagging. Dyspepsia of old people; burning acidity, bloating. Gastric disorders from ice-water. Sour eructations. Nausea; better lying down. Constant feeling as if stomach were full of water. Sour vomiting; throbbing and cutting in stomach. Disgust for food. Anxiety felt in stomach. Epigastrium sensitive externally. Easy choking when eating. Epigastric pain to back.

The chances are good here in this case because of vomiting, the stomach is involved. The dryness in the throat may be due to acidity and the dryness may be inducing the cough. In such cases where cough is induced by the stomach Kali Carb should be used. I think so. with regards.

is there any other antidote.. i don't have camphor with me.. it will take time for me to get it..

however, I am worried about Drosera now..

kindly guide, what side effects it can have that should I notice in my son.

best regards
neeraj.

There are, but camphor is the best for vegetable based medicines. Camphor can also improve his chilled body conditions and take over against any bacterial infections. It will heat his body up and thus dissolve the mucus deposits in the chest. Keep this medicine away from other medicines as it antidotes most of the homeo medicine ill effects or stop functioning of some of the medicines. with best wishes.

son suffering with severe dry cough. especially it increases in night.

started with catching cold while staying out in night in delhi{it's start of winter in delhi}

yellow was coming out from running nose. i gave one dose of nv30 as he was constipated also.

now motion is better and less running nose.

kindly guide to overcome dry cough.

thanks

cough has become so severe that he has started to vomit everything while coughing.

if the child coughs even during sleep, try bryonia 30c in wet doses ( you need to dilute it quite a bit, say in min. 500ml). 1 drop on the tongue and repeat if the problems reccurs every once in 30 minutes ( max. repetitions 3 times). Bryonia works well for dry cough, if taken just before bed time.

As a plus, it will help improving the digestion and alleviate constipation.

thanks a ton garcot. sorry i could not check the post yesterday.

in my absence,my wife in consultation with local homeopath gave him 2 doses of drossraieaa{i do not know the exact name}. ystaday night and today morning..i also don't know the potency not much of improvement though in cough..

can bryonia be given after drossraieaa as a better option so that there are no issues with the child.

thanks

regards, ☹

Discontinue Drosera immediately if there is no improvement. Give Bryonia. Drosera should be used when the symptoms are absolutely agreeing. Like Wooping cough. The cough starts when head touches the pillow are some of the leading signs for Drosera. That medicine has to be used carefully. With best wishes.

thanks a ton udaya for informing the correct name and it's symptoms.

i feel the symptoms told by you do match with Drosera .. son was 1.)coughing was more while sleeping in night. cannot remember if pillow was there.

2,) cough was very severe.cough was so severe that he was vomited twice while coughing.

can it be considered as a whooping cough?

wanted inputs for 2 issues -

1.) he did not vomit today while coughing after giving Drosera. though he is coughing severly. will you consider it a improvement ?

2.) i have never seen you so cautious with a medicine. whats so special about Drosera ?

best regards

The symptom is when the head touches the pillow and not when sleeping which is routine and normal. It is like from sitting position when the child start to lie down and head touches the pillow the cough starts. VERY SPECIFIC. Head going from a vertical position to a horizontal position, the cough will start at the point. Just like the "photographs of the moments".

2. Cough with vomit but lather like or foam like is typical. Then it can develop into whooping cough and there the medicine to start with is Carbo Vegetabilis. Drosera is the ultimate remedy.

3. Here it is dry cough and Bryonia or Carbo veg should help. Drosera other than whooping cough starts with a severe griping pain in the upper part of posterior nares (end of the nostrils). It will slightly descend down and catch all around the throat, with pain, it will further descend to the chest and lungs with tearing pains. That is my experience by eating an infected berry and immediately curing it with Drosera.

4. Drosera is considered Pleuretic. There are plenty of writings on this medicine and advises by experienced doctors not to give Drosera out of place. Some of them maitain that, If it proves it can cause chasms in the lungs. So there should be an equivalent morbidity which is completely agreeing to the medicine to neutralise the effect so that no proving takes places even at lowest potencies. Using at higher potencies certainly do not have these risks but minimum doses is always a caution and strict homeopathic principles applied. I think your doctor would have looked into all the aspects well and there is no cause for worry. I was only cautioning you against indiscriminate usage of this medicine. with regards.

jayashreeji,

Kali Carb is a difficult medicine as it has all the symptoms all have. It is difficult to repertorise a patient as Kali Carb. You will find each of us having symptoms of Kali Carb. Reason may be perhaps Potasium and Carbon are required for our basic structure. One can always try a dose or two. This medicine favours women very well. Particularly in menorrhagia. Further, Kali salts should not be used in fever conditions. If the cough is due to an infection, there could be accompanying fever.

The typical Kali patient in cough is :
-Dry, parched, rough. Sticking pain, as from a fish-bone. Swallowing difficult; food goes down œsophagus slowly. Mucous accumulation in the morning.

Stomach.--Flatulence. Desire for sweets. Feeling of lump in pit of stomach. Gagging. Dyspepsia of old people; burning acidity, bloating. Gastric disorders from ice-water. Sour eructations. Nausea; better lying down. Constant feeling as if stomach were full of water. Sour vomiting; throbbing and cutting in stomach. Disgust for food. Anxiety felt in stomach. Epigastrium sensitive externally. Easy choking when eating. Epigastric pain to back.

The chances are good here in this case because of vomiting, the stomach is involved. The dryness in the throat may be due to acidity and the dryness may be inducing the cough. In such cases where cough is induced by the stomach Kali Carb should be used. I think so. with regards.
